TV Format Questioned By Judges

Debate Coaches Say Panel Against Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five leading college debate coaches gave Jimmy Carter a slight debater's edge over President Ford in their final face-to-face confrontation. Several of them criticized the questioning.

The panel, which has judged all three debates for The Associated Press, had called Ford the winner of the first debate and put Carter on top in the second, both in split decisions.

In last night's debate, Prof. William Southworth of the University of Redlands (Calif.)

picked Carter 23-22 on a scorecard that gives the candidate from one to five points in each of six categories: analysis, reasoning, evidence, organization, refutation and presentation.

Southworth found President Ford "constantly on the defensive."

He said this may have been a function of the questions asked by a panel of three reporters. "Some of the questions were far more damaging to President Ford," he said. "They implied the country was in a disaster, and Ford had to pick it up from there."

Prof. James Unger of Georgetown University said that "more than any other of the contests, this debate illustrated the key role of the questions in setting the entire tone of the exercise."

He found that "by and large, the questions (directed) at Ford were sharply worded and critical; on the other hand, questions to Carter were largely general and relatively simplistic."

Unger, who voted for Carter 24-22, said the event "exposed a danger in the entire process which asks personally involved reporters to serve as surrogate citizens."

Dr. Barbara O'Connor of California State University, Sacramento, who picked Carter 26-24, said it was "pretty obvious that (panelist Joseph) Kraft dislikes the President. The tone of questions showed it. We found the candidates debating the press instead of the candidates debating the candidates."

She said the questions were inferior to the previous debates.

Prof. Melissa Maxey Wade of Emory University, Atlanta, who chose Carter 20-19, said seven of the 14 questions were "completely irrelevant to a decision as to who won or lost" because they established no differences between the candidates.

"This one had the least debating clash," she said.

Dr. Donn Parson of the University of Kansas scored the debate 25-24 for Carter and said he found the debate close "in part because they were being careful." He thought the debate had a tone, "if somewhat dull, at least more statesmanlike" than the previous two, and "certainly less acrimonious than the vice-presidential debate."

Unger saw the presentation as so low-key "that millions of viewers were probably hoping the sound would go off again; indeed, many may have felt that

Purnell In Berrien To Await New Trial

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

David Jordan Purnell, who won a reversal of his 1972 second degree murder conviction, was returned to the Berrien county jail from prison late Friday to await a new trial. Purnell, 28, was again booked into the jail, as he was when first arrested in March, 1972, and lodged to await arraignment Monday in Berrien Circuit court.

Purnell was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1972 by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White for the 1971 slaying of Janet Uland, of St. Joseph. But the Michigan Court of Appeals in September reversed the conviction on the basis of retroactively faulty instructions to the jury.

Assistant Berrien Prosecutor Sally Zack said Purnell will be arraigned before White on a charge of second degree murder and then await trial, which she said is tentatively set for the first two weeks after Thanksgiving.

Miss Zack noted that at the arraignment, Purnell can also request a court-appointed attorney or announce who his counsel will be, and he can also request that a bond be set.

Special Investigator Randy Arnt, of the prosecutor's office, said Purnell was transported from Marquette prison, where Purnell has been serving his sentence, to Jackson prison Thursday on a prison bus. Berrien sheriff's deputies Friday drove to Jackson and picked up Purnell for the trip back to Berrien county.

The appellate court opinion which reversed Purnell's conviction noted that the jury in the trial was not told to consider the possible verdict of "not guilty." At the time of the trial, a judge was not required to give such an instruction, but the higher courts have since ruled that jury instructions must include the not guilty choice and made application retroactive.

White had instructed the jury they could find Purnell guilty of first degree murder, second degree murder, manslaughter, or not guilty by reason of insanity. During the trial, Purnell admitted the slaying but the defense contended he was insane at the time.

He is accused of beating Miss Uland with a golf club in the basement of his Benton township apartment and then dumping her partially-clad body in a ditch off Thar road in Hagar township. Purnell was arrested nine months after the body was found, and lived in Stevensville immediately before his arrest. Purnell is a great grandson of "King" Benjamin Purnell, founder of the House of David, and his identity with "King Ben" played an important part in the presentation of his defense in the first trial.

Burglar On Bond Arrested Again

By LARRY MacINTYRE

BUCHANAN — A Buchanan man awaiting sentencing in connection with a Sept. 30 break-in at the Brookwood country club, has been arrested again at the club by police responding to a reported break-in.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said yesterday officers arrested David A. Dewey, 18, of 3125 Chamberlain road, Buchanan, on charges of attempted breaking and entering.

Dewey had pleaded guilty two days earlier in Berrien Fifth District court to a reduced charge of conspiracy to enter without permission in connection with the Sept. 30 break-in. He was free on $2,500 bond awaiting sentencing, officers said.

In the latest arrest, officers said they went to the golf course club house about 9:30 p.m. Thursday after receiving a report from the owner, James O. Lewis, that he had apprehended a man attempting to remove the front door to gain entry. Officers said three pins were found removed from the door's hinges.

Lewis told officers he had remained inside the closed club house on Ryncaroad road because it had recently been hit by a rash of break-ins.

Warren Teachers Suddenly 'Stricken'

WARREN, Mich. (AP) —

Some 1,200 Warren Consolidated Schools District teachers may face firing after calling in sick Friday, forcing cancellation of classes. The district's 32,000 students got an unscheduled day off as most of their teachers called in to report they had doctor or dental appointments or wanted to take one of their free days off.

Robert Hayduk, president of the Warren Education Association, said no strike vote has been taken. He said teachers have been operating for several months without a contract.

Howard Chenoweth, assistant superintendent for employee relations, said the board of education is considering firing teachers who failed to show up. Chenoweth conceded that the fact that most teachers called in sick instead of going on strike would make the school district's position difficult if it tries to fire them.

Hayduk charged the school board has failed to negotiate in good faith. He said the 1,430 union members have scheduled a strike vote Nov. 1.

School Supt. Arthur Woodhouse said the teacher sickness reports were made "for the purpose of exerting unlawful economic coercion on the school board."

Five Men Arrested On Robbery Charges

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Five men have been arrested on single counts of armed robbery during police investigation into a wave of robberies at stores in the Twin City area.

Benton township police said three men were arrested in connection with the holdup Thursday at Rogers party store, Millburg, while a fourth was charged and arraigned later Friday in Fifth District court in connection with the holdup Wednesday at Angelo's party store, Benton Heights. The robberies were unrelated, police said.

State police at the Benton Harbor post arrested a fifth man in connection with the holdup last Sept. 27 at Mainville's Supplies, M-140 at Napier, Bainbridge township. This was reported unrelated to the party store holdups.

Booked on charges of armed robbery at Rogers party store were: John P. Connell, 20, of 535 Chimera court, St. Joseph; Paul Jeffery Wright, 20, Box 3, Erie street, Hagar Shores; and Anthony Lee Postelli, 22, of 2892 Territorial road, Benton township.

Postelli was identified by police as the son of Benton township Treasurer Joseph Postelli of the same address. Postelli, whose term is expiring, is not seeking re-election as treasurer. He was beaten in the August Democratic primary race for supervisor.

Arraigned Friday before Judge John T. Hammond on a charge of armed robbery of Angelo's was Donald Lee Thompson, 20, of 2456 Kurt, Benton Heights. Thompson demanded a preliminary examination and was lodged in Berrien county jail when he failed to post bond, set at $50,000.

State police said Larry Lynn Peek, 20, of 3347 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph, was booked on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the Mainville's Supplies robbery. Between $350 and $500 was reported taken.

At Rogers party store, two men wearing nylon stocking masks held up Lella Masters, alone in the store, and escaped with $103, police said. Angelo's party store was robbed of nearly $1,200 by two men who also took about $135 from two employees and three customers. Police said a second man is being sought.

Township Det. Roger Peters and Patrolman Robert Shepherdson investigated the two party store holdups. They reported that about the time the Rogers store was being held up, a citizen reported a man sitting in a parked auto nearby. The man was questioned by an officer and identified as Connell. Followup investigations resulted in his arrest, along with arrests of Postelli and Wright. Police said a citizen tip also led to the arrest of Thompson.

State police said only that Peek was being sought following an investigation into the Mainville's Supplies store holdup.

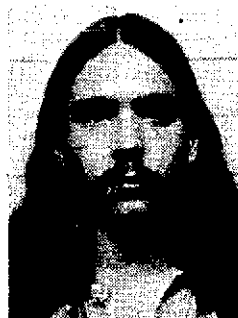

Peek was arrested in Benton Harbor by Berrien metro narcotics officers and turned over to the state police post.

Debate Proves Only That Panelists Were Biased

Five leading college debate coaches voted that Gerald Ford lost last night's final presidential debate by a slight margin.

The question is — to whom?

It was President Ford not only against Jimmy Carter but against the trio of panelists who questioned the two candidates.

Ford had to field damaging mini-speeches indicting various aspects of his administration. Every one of the three panelists at one time or another contested his answers, some times vitriolically.

Carter, on the other hand, received friendly questions and admiring glances, obviously designed to give him a chance to propound his social philosophy to the best advantage.

Not once was any of his statements of purported fact questioned. Not once was the former Georgia governor questioned about possible idiosyncracies in his political record or public statements.

The bias against Ford was succinctly illustrated when, arguing with the President, Columnist Joseph Kraft described Ford's record on unemployment as "rotten."

This is not the narrowly partisan point of view of a Republican newspaper in President Ford's home state. The college debate judges agreed, at least three of them outspokenly.

Russians Hear A Polish Story

Totalitarian regimes are not immune from uprisings of their citizens, as Poland has given ample demonstration in the last several months. Something of a crisis of leadership now afflicts that Soviet satellite — a direct result of the food riots of last June.

At that time the Gierke regime tried to bring some order to its economic chaos by announcing huge increases in food prices. The audacity of the increases — 69 per cent in the case of meat prices — brought the Poles to their feet and the streets of Warsaw and other cities rocked with riots.

Within hours the government rescinded the price increases. The protests subsided. A few weeks ago it was announced more moderate price increases would be imposed. Now those have been withdrawn as well, with assurances that no increases in food prices would be considered for two years.

Again the Poles have demonstrated that the price of potatoes is more important than the presence of tens of thousands of Soviet troops.

Words To Be Etched In Washington Marble

Somewhere on the marble, stone and steel edifices which house the federal government ought to be etched these words:

"No one, anywhere, knows exactly how many federal programs there are, and the executive branch does not have enough information to allow it to compare one program with another in order to find out whether overlap, duplication and lack of coordination exist, or to unify and streamline its operations."

Those words were not contained in a recent study of the federal structure; they were part of a report compiled by a congressional study on aid programs a decade ago. That they are as true today as then, despite hundreds of major and minor investigations of the inefficiencies and duplication of federal agencies and programs, demonstrates the intransigence to change by the bureaucracy.

More than two decades have passed since the last Hoover commission made its recommendations on reorganizing the executive branch, and federal spending has doubled and redoubled since then.

At the time of the earlier study quoted above, 470 education programs were uncovered in 20 agencies and departments. 112 assistance to the poor programs in nine agencies and 72 economic and business development programs within 10 departments and agencies.

If that was the chaotic score then, imagine what it must look like now.

many far-reaching reasons. The new building plans would help solve many of the problems that exist in the field of medicine for this area. They are as follows:

1. South Haven needs an efficient, larger, and updated emergency room to respond to the crying demand of emergency care in this area. Emergency room visits have increased heavily in the last few years. Our present emergency room is much too small to handle its present demand. With the increasing popularity of South Haven as a vacationing and recreation area, fast and efficient emergency room care is needed. This cannot be handled with the present building limitations.

2. South Haven needs to attract more physicians to this area. Our hospital serves many of the surrounding communities, many who will also be voting on the millage proposal. Many of us in the community know what the feeling is like driving to Kalamazoo, Holland, or Benton Harbor to visit a specialist. Our hospital could attract some of these specialists and more physicians to this area with an updating of our facilities.

3. The community also needs to adjust to the change medicine has made in the past few years. Outpatient services has grown at an astonishing rate that now taxes the present building design beyond belief. Laboratory, X-ray, physical therapy, and respiratory therapy services have all outgrown their present room size limitations. With the new building plans, these departments will have larger and remodeled areas that will increase their effectiveness and help the community which has put the demand there.

4. The community also demands a remodeled inpatient care area that allows a greater choice in room accommodations. More convenience will be given to the patient with the remodeling. Also the adding of more bathrooms, air conditioning, and better lighting would make a hospital stay more enjoyable as planned in the remodeling.

We, the workers at South Haven Community hospital, know what services the public needs most. The renovation and addition, we feel, will serve to the best interest of the public. In these days we understand the need to guard our tax dollars from extravagant government spending. The hospital tax dollars in this case, however, will be serving the best need of the community in a way which will benefit the Legal Gambling: Is It Answer?

WASHINGTON — Men studying the problem of illegal gambling in this country estimate the total conservatively at more than $50 billion. Jimmy the Greek says $100 billion. Other claims run higher.

Though no one knows, there are estimates the gross income organized crime takes from illegal gambling runs around 20 to 25 per cent of the total before expenses, or some $10 billion to $12.5 billion out of the $50 billion figure. Net is much lower of course. For expenses are heavy.

Expenses include payoffs. No one knows how much these add up to. But it may be reasonable to guess that $2 billion to $3 billion of the $10 billion to $12.5 billion gross income is available for corrupting city, county and state officials, police and anyone else handy.

This guess includes only bribes from illegal gambling. Additional bribery money is available from the profits of prostitution, loan sharking, white collar crime and an assortment of other unlawful activities.

In some offices in some cities the situation is not unlike that in a foreign country in which I was once assigned. A young man I interviewed explained that he had wanted, since childhood, to enter the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He didn't, he said, because once there he'd be forced to participate in the graft. If he entered and refused, he would receive no worthwhile assignments. Finally, things would be rigged and he'd be set up as a patsy in a fake case. They wouldn't be able to tolerate him on the job for fear that, sooner or later, he'd blow the whistle on the lot of them.

It has not escaped attention here that in some American cities honest policemen have had equally rocky roads to cross.

The wonder then is not that so many politicians, bureaucrats and policemen are corrupt. The wonder rather is that so many remain honest despite the temptations regularly offered and the pressures roughly applied.

For it is my impression, in years of watching the bureaucracy — local, state and national — that most officials and most police in most cities and states are honest. But the minority who are corrupt can do a great deal of damage — to our safety, to our individual rights and to our pocketbooks. For bribery to permit illegal gambling does not stop there, as everyone knows. It reaches even to juries and to judges for all types of crime.

Laying out the problem is simple. The solution is more difficult.

We are not successful in enforcement. Take one major state as an example. In five years, 20,000 gambling operators were arrested. One hundred were convicted. Ten went to jail. It is believed most of those convicted and jailed were minor "sidewalk" operators.

As a result, there is a movement afoot to legalize gambling, or some gambling. Surveys by the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, set up by the 91st Congress, suggest that close to two Americans out of three gamble legally or illegally at least once in any given year. And that 80 per cent of Americans (the figure seems high) favor legalizing one form of gambling or another.

But those figures are misleading. There is a great difference of opinion, even among those who favor more legal gambling, as to what types of gambling they'd make legal and which they'd frown upon. The state-run gambling thus far voted has been the subject of a great deal of criticism.

In my experience, wide open towns have not been conducive to normal family life and the raising of children.

It's Skunk Hour In Carter Camp

In a mood of extreme gloom, Robert Lowell, the foremost living American poet, once wrote a famous poem called "Skunk Hour," about "skunks, that search in the moonlight for a bite to eat." In this poem, the skunk-covered landscape corresponds to the poet's feeling that things are about as bad as they can be.

President Gerald Ford's campaign is bad enough, but Jimmy Carter's is turning into a real skunk hour.

During the second debate, Ford's inept remark about East Europe handed Carter a big, if undeserved, opening. With a few amazing sentences, Ford managed to resurrect his Bozo the Clown image. Carter himself had made plenty of blunders of his own, during the debate, but this was a big one, and an obvious bonanza for the floundering Carter campaign.

Canny Democratic chairman Bob Strauss wisely advised Carter to shut up and reap the dividends. Ford's blunder spoke for itself.

Instead, the inept Carter chose to launch an overkill attack on Ford full of obvious and vicious innuendo, thus diverting attention from Ford's ineptitude to his own. Carter's absurd overkill now amounts to a resumption of the blunder-a-day show Carter was running prior to the debates.

Recall, just for the record, Carter's amazing performance between Labor Day and the first debate. We had the sex flap and the LBJ insults in Playboy and the grotesque interview with Norman Mailer in the Times Sunday Magazine; we had Carter's absurd remarks about raising all taxes above the "median" income, his comments regarding FBI Director Clarence Kelley and his gratuitous insult to Kelley's fiancée. We had his too little noticed remark in Miami to the effect that Israel represents the fulfillment of Biblical prophecy — thus providing a startling new foundation for U.S. foreign policy, i.e., The Book of Revelations.

However, even as Carter had himself on the ropes and was preparing to knock himself out, Ford came to the rescue with his Polish joke. But instead of responding with a cool display of control and competence, Carter has gone straight off the reservation.

With a kind of feral viciousness, Carter accused Ford of being "brainwashed" on East Europe — this straining to link him with the hapless George Romney of 1968.

In response to illegal leaked Ford IRS returns, Carter demanded that the president tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" — this deliberately chosen language suggesting that Ford is a defendant in some sort of criminal proceeding.

The assorted questions raised by the personality and character of Jimmy Carter were temporarily obscured by Ford's gaffe, but the Carter campaign has now returned to its customary stunning incompetence.

In Lowell's phrase, skunk hour. Perhaps both of these candidates ought to step aside and let John Connally be president. Maybe we should even dust off Richard Nixon and begin all over again.

Debate Proves Only That Panelists Were Biased

Five leading college debate coaches voted that Gerald Ford lost last night's final presidential debate by a slight margin.

The question is — to whom? It was President Ford not only against Jimmy Carter but against the trio of panelists who questioned the two candidates.

Ford had to field damaging mini-speeches indicting various aspects of his administration. Every one of the three panelists at one time or another contested his answers, some times vitriolically.

Carter, on the other hand, received friendly questions and admiring glances, obviously designed to give him a chance to propound his social philosophy to the best advantage.

Not once was any of his statements of purported fact questioned. Not once was the former Georgia governor questioned about possible idiosyncracies in his political record or public statements.

The bias against Ford was succinctly illustrated when, arguing with the President, Columnist Joseph Kraft described Ford's record on unemployment as "rotten."

This is not the narrowly partisan point of view of a Republican newspaper in President Ford's home state. The college debate judges agreed, at least three of them outspokenly.

Russians Hear A Polish Story

Totalitarian regimes are not immune from uprisings of their citizens, as Poland has given ample demonstration in the last several months. Something of a crisis of leadership now afflicts that Soviet satellite — a direct result of the food riots of last June.

At that time the Gierek regime tried to bring some order to its economic chaos by announcing huge increases in food prices. The audacity of the increases — 69 per cent in the case of meat prices — brought the Poles to their feet and the streets of Warsaw and other cities rocked with riots.

Within hours the government rescinded the price increases. The protests subsided. A few weeks ago it was announced more moderate price increases would be imposed. Now those have been withdrawn as well, with assurances that no increases in food prices would be considered for two years.

Again the Poles have demonstrated that the price of potatoes is more important than the presence of tens of thousands of Soviet troops.

Words To Be Etched In Washington Marble

Somewhere on the marble, stone and steel edifices which house the federal government ought to be etched these words:

"No one, anywhere, knows exactly how many federal programs there are, and the executive branch does not have enough information to allow it to compare one program with another in order to find out whether overlap, duplication and lack of coordination exist, or to unify and streamline its operations."

Those words were not contained in a recent study of the federal structure; they were part of a report compiled by a congressional study on aid programs a decade ago. That they are as true today as then, despite hundreds of major and minor investigations of the inefficiencies and duplication of federal agencies and programs, demonstrates the intransigence to change by the bureaucracy.

More than two decades have passed since the last Hoover commission made its recommendations on reorganizing the executive branch, and federal spending has doubled and redoubled since then.

At the time of the earlier study quoted above, 470 education programs were uncovered in 20 agencies and departments. 112 assistance to the poor programs in nine agencies and 72 economic and business development programs within 10 departments and agencies.

If that was the chaotic score then, imagine what it must look like now.

Prof. James Unger of Georgetown University said that "more than any other of the contests, this debate illustrated the key role of the questions in setting the entire tone of the exercise." He found that "by and large, the questions directed at Ford were sharply worded and critical; on the other hand, questions to Carter were largely general and relatively simplistic."

Dr. Barbara O'Connor of California State University, Sacramento, who picked Carter, 26-24, said it was "pretty obvious that panelist Joseph Kraft dislikes the President. The tone of questions showed it. We found the candidates debating the press instead of the candidates debating the candidates."

A third judge, Prof. William Southworth of the University of Redlands (California), found the panelists' questions put Ford "constantly on the defensive." He said "Some of the questions were far more damaging to President Ford. They implied the country was in a disaster, and Ford had to pick it up from there."

Interestingly, Barbara Walters—the lady anchor person who often is herself the subject of controversy—did a splendid job in moderating the debate. She was fair and unpretentious. But the obviously biased male panelists—Kraft, Robert Maynard of the Washington Post and Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times—did a disservice to the news profession.

The League of Women Voters produced two prior presidential debates and one vice presidential debate that, even if monotonous, were fair. The League thereby established its sincerity in trying to be even-handed. It can't be blamed because three news flacks betrayed the League's trust.

Aside from being an unfair exercise, did the final debate accomplish much? Very likely not.

Dr. Donn Parson of the University of Kansas, who scored the debate 25 to 24 for Carter, found it "somewhat dull."

Debate Judge Unger, who picked Carter as the winner by 24 to 22, warned that the "event exposes a real danger in the entire process which asks personally involved reporters to serve as surrogate citizens." Other than illustrating this lesson, the debate offered little enlightenment, he felt.

He saw the presentation so uninteresting "that millions of viewers were probably hoping the sound would go off again; indeed, many may have felt that it already had."

Next time around, let the candidates get directly at each other with no Mr. In-Betweens. That'll keep the 1980 TV audiences awake and cheering.

many far-reaching reasons. The new building plans would help solve many of the problems that exist in the field of medicine for this area. They are as follows:

1. South Haven needs an efficient, larger, and updated emergency room to respond to the crying demand of emergency care in this area. Emergency room visits have increased heavily in the last few years. Our present emergency room is much too small to handle its present demand. With the increasing popularity of South Haven as a vacationing and recreation area, fast and efficient emergency room care is needed. This cannot be handled with the present building limitations.

PROPOSAL C WILL PUT LID ON TAXES

Editor, For years now, Michigan groups have tried to lobby for lower taxes, to get limiting laws passed, to petition the Legislature, to get big memberships behind letter-writing campaigns. And Michigan taxes have kept right on going up. And they will continue higher and higher, more and more unless we put on a lid!

Proposal "C" is that lid. This proposed Tax Limitation Amendment to the Michigan Constitution will limit the state government taxing and spending ability to no more than 8.3

percent of the total personal income in Michigan. The amendment puts a firm, but flexible, limit on future growth of State spending by tying it more closely to the ability and the desire of taxpayers to support it.

Bureaucrats, welfare programers and some politicians are terrified by the thought that they, too, should have to live within a budget — that their income and spending schemes would no longer be covered by a blank check written against your future income.

You'll hear frantic claims that Proposal "C" will shift taxes to the local level and force property taxes up. It won't. Because the state can't give any less to local government than it is giving now. Actually, Proposal "C" will stop the trend of the state sharing less and less with local units — and help hold property taxes down.

You'll hear pleas that Proposal "C" will keep the state from taking over some education costs that are now paid for locally. Just plain not so. All Proposal "C" says is that you would get a chance to

Intersection Draws Father's Complaint

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Roy Hamilton, of Lakeside, whose son was in an accident last Saturday at Washington avenue and Marquette Woods road in Lincoln township, has asked the Berrien County Road commission to make safety improvements at the intersection. "before someone is killed," Berrien sheriff's records show there were three accidents at the intersection last Saturday. Hamilton added another two occurred there on Thursday this week.

Thomas A. Webb, engineer-manager for the road commission, said he and his staff are studying the intersection to see if any added safety measures are needed. He said he will then make a recommendation to the road commission. The commission will make the decision on whether changes will be made.

The issue was brought to Webb's attention by Roy Hamilton, 8750 Porter road, Lakeside. Hamilton inspected the intersection after his son, Daniel, 16, was involved in an accident at the location last Saturday about 9 p.m.

Hamilton's son was the driver of an auto in a three-vehicle smashup at the intersection. Four people were injured in the collision, but all were treated and released from Memorial hospital. Daniel Hamilton, who his father said has had his driver's license for about a year, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

He was struck while entering the intersection after stopping at a stop sign on eastbound Marquette Woods, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff's records show the two other accidents at the same intersection last Saturday were property damage accidents, one involving a hit-and-run vehicle that knocked down some mailboxes.

Hamilton suggested two things be done to improve the safety of the intersection. He said the trees near the southwest corner of the intersection (where his son had stopped) should come down because they block the view of oncoming traffic and the intersection should definitely be a four-way stop because of the traffic volume. It is presently a two-way stop.

He said, "I just don't want to see anyone killed. We're paying taxes. What does a stop sign cost, $50?"

Webb said Hamilton's complaint was the first he had received about the intersection. He added the road commission, which receives police reports on all accidents on county roads, received one report of an accident at that intersection in 1975. State police records show that in the first four months of this year there was one accident at the intersection.

Webb commented, "If the intersection has suddenly become a bad one we'll (road commission) do something about it. At this point we are not aware of it being that bad."

He added the trees Hamilton complained about may be on private property, in which case the property owner's consent to have them removed would be required. If they did not get the owner's consent "we'd have to go to court if anything was to be done," Webb said.

Hamilton claims the cluster of trees was largely responsible for his son's accident.

Mrs. Rudy (Ethel) Wegler, 1281 Marquette Woods road, and Mrs. Robert (Debbie) Morris, 4919 Washington avenue, both live near the intersection and both agree a four-way stop sign is needed.

Mrs. Wegler said her husband intends to go to the next Lincoln township board meeting to see if something can't be done.

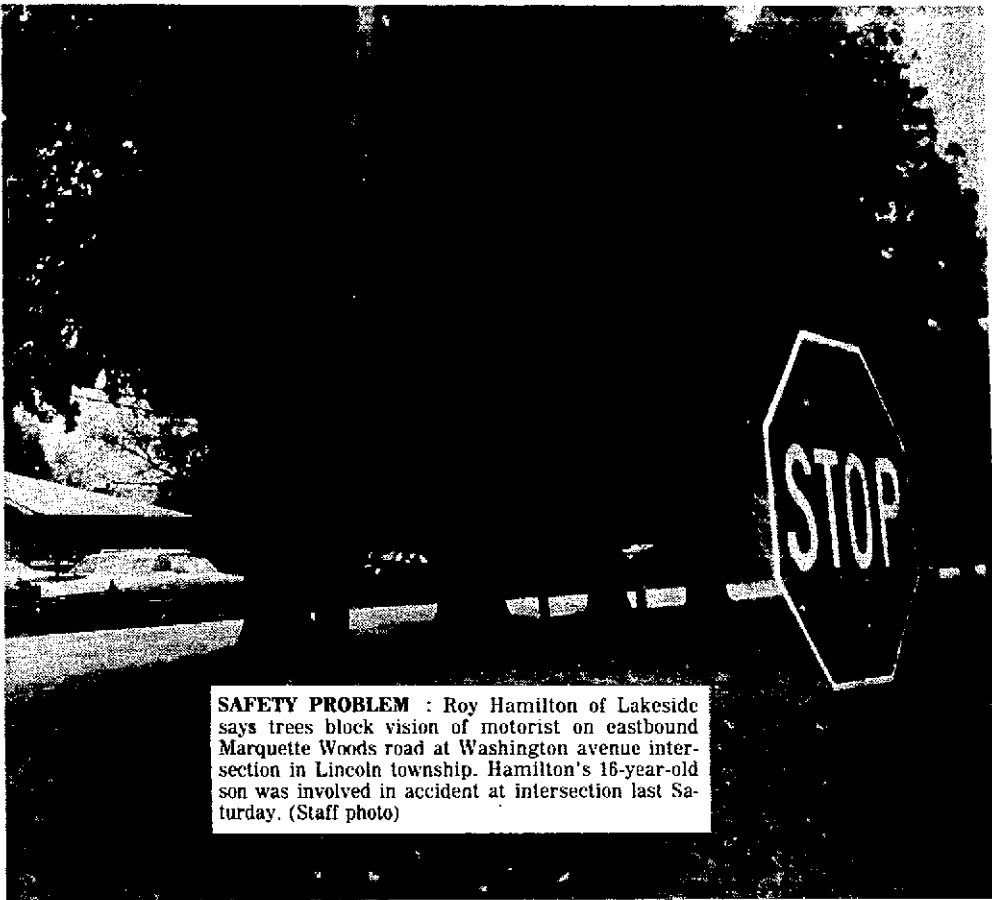

Kenneth Zielke, operator of Zielke Lakeshore Standard service station, 1710 John Beers road, Stevensville, said his employees have towed a number of vehicles from the intersection after accidents and termed the location "one of my busy spots." Zielke has operated the service station for eight years and said traffic accidents have increased noticeably at the intersection in the last two years.

He said about two years ago one of his attendants was driving a customer's auto back to the station for service when he was struck at the intersection by a Berrien county road commission truck. The truck was headed in the same direction on Marquette Woods as Hamilton's son when he collided.

Hartford Man Held In Contempt

A Hartford man owing $2,372 arrears in child support was held in contempt of court Friday in Berrien Circuit court and placed on two years probation.

Judge Julian E. Hughes also ordered Jerry Dean Byars, of Route 2, to pay $200 immediately towards the arrearage for one child not on ADC, and told him to find employment within 30 days or report back to court.

Mercy Asks State To Approve $245,000 Renovation Program

LANSING — (Special) — Mercy Hospital, 960 Agard street, in Benton Harbor is seeking state approval for a proposed renovation program and the establishment of a new service. The hospital's administration proposes to renovate the pediatrics and laundry areas in order to bring them into compliance with present-day licensing standards. The new service which would be added is a pediatric intensive care unit. Although the new unit would contain four beds, there would be no change in the Berrien county facility's present capacity of 175 beds. An estimated cost of $245,000 has been placed on the project, and there is a projected completion date of August 1977. An application for a certificate of need has been filed by the hospital with the division of health facility planning and construction of the State Health department.

Dennis Peek, 22, was booked on a charge of violating the controlled substance act (delivery of heroin) following a raid at his apartment, 475 Frank street, Benton Harbor, by Berrien metro narcotics officers and city police about 5:55 p.m. Friday.

Sgt. Jack Drach, a metro narcotics officer, said the raid was made after an investigation and a search warrant was issued by Fifth District Judge John Hammond. Reported seized were about a dozen syringes believed to contain residue from suspected heroin, Drach said.

CAR CRASH TRIAL

Benton Man, Wife Awarded $110,000

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Berrien Circuit court jury Thursday awarded $110,000 to a Benton township couple as a result of injuries sustained in a traffic accident.

Jurors in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court deliberated about two hours Thursday before returning the judgment for J.C. and Effie Ray, of 1453 Highland avenue, to end a three-day civil trial. A week ago Thursday, a jury in Byrns' court awarded a Coloma couple $134,500 — the largest ever in Berrien Circuit court memory — for injuries sustained in a car crash. Two of the jurors in that case also served on the jury in the Ray case.

The $110,000 award to the Rays went against defendant Millard Bradley of South Webster, Ohio. Ray claimed he suffered a ruptured disc and knee injuries and his wife suffered a loss of consortium following a two-car head-on crash Sept. 24, 1974, on US-12 near Red Arrow highway in New Buffalo township.

Ray and Bradley were the drivers of the cars which collided, and Byrns directed a verdict that Bradley was negligent in the accident, so the only issue the jury had to decide was the amount of damages to award to Ray. Byrns noted the jury awarded damages over and above the benefits Ray would have under his no-fault insurance policy, and a trial to determine what, if any, damages Ray will get from the insurance company is yet to be held.

Ray, in the original suit, seeks $150,000 in damages from State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Co., claiming he was covered by a no-fault policy issued by State Farm but the insurance company has refused to honor his claim and has not paid him.

The suit against Bradley asked for $125,000 in damages. Kalamazoo Attys. Mark Zarbock and Fred Farr represented the Rays during the trial while Bradley's counsel was Atty. Richard James, also of Kalamazoo.

He's Not A Fence, Judge Says

A Benton Harbor man in whose home police reported finding property valued at an estimated $100,000 was sentenced Friday in Berrien Fifth District court to fines and costs of $200 for pawnbroking without a license.

Earnest Givens, 52, of 817 Buss avenue, was originally charged with receiving and concealing stolen property after police discovered the merchandise in his home July 14. The charge was dismissed, however, when police learned that most of the merchandise in his home was given to him as security for loans he made to various people.

"We're convinced he isn't a fence," Judge John T. Hammond said after sentencing Givens. "Police could only establish that six of the items on a list of 50 pages were stolen," he added.

Hammond said that Givens had been lending people money for quite a while and the merchandise just piled up in his home.

At the time of Givens' arrest, police removed about 20 truck loads of merchandise from his house that was described as "literally piled wall to wall" with everything from television sets, tape players, and stereos to suits and clothing.

"I propose," Friske stated, "to remove the federal government, not only from our private lives but also from competing with private industry. I would limit and cut its involvement in education, welfare, health, OSHA, EPA, and related overlapping agencies that are destructive to our free enterprise system."

Kelley Urges EPA Fluorocarbon Ban

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan attorney general has urged the federal Food and Drug Administration to ban food, drug and cosmetic containers which use fluorocarbon compounds as aerosol propellants.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Friday he also has joined the Natural Resources Defense Council in petitioning the Environmental Protection Agency to declare the use of fluorocarbons in pressurized cans an unreasonable risk to the environment.

The petition calls on the FDA to require warning labels on refrigeration units containing fluorocarbons, and that a study be undertaken to find alternatives to the compounds.

"We have no alternative other than to immediately control all uses of fluorocarbons," Kelley said. "The increased risk of skin cancer caused by the destruction of the ozone shell and possible changes in our weather are dangers too great to chance."

FHA Lends $300,000 For Watervliet Hospital

WATERVLIET — Watervliet Community hospital has received a second loan from the federal Farmer's Home administration, this one for $300,000, for construction of its new, $5.2 million building. The loan, for 40 years at five per cent annual interest rate, was announced yesterday by a spokesman for U.S. Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph). Farmer's Home announced in September it was loaning the hospital $4.2 million towards construction of the three-level building with 60,000 square feet of floor space. Hospital officials are also in the process of a $750,000 fund drive to help with construction costs.

Intersection Draws Father's Complaint

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Roy Hamilton, of Lakeside, whose son was in an accident last Saturday at Washington avenue and Marquette Woods road in Lincoln township, has asked the Berrien County Road Commission to make safety improvements at the intersection, "before someone is killed."

show there were three accidents at the intersection last Saturday. Hamilton added another two occurred there on Thursday this week.

Thomas A. Webb, engineer-manager for the road commission, said he and his staff are studying the intersection to see if any added safety measures are needed. He said he will then make a recommendation to the road commission. The commission will make the decision on whether changes will be made.

The issue was brought to Webb's attention by Roy Hamilton, 8750 Porter road, Lakeside. Hamilton inspected the intersection after his son, Daniel, 16, was involved in an accident at the location last Saturday about 9 p.m.

Hamilton's son was the driver of an auto in a three-vehicle smashup at the intersection. Four people were injured in the collision, but all were treated and released from Memorial hospital. Daniel Hamilton, who his father said has had his driver's license for about a year, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

He was struck while entering the intersection after stopping at a stop sign on eastbound Marquette Woods, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff's records show the two other accidents at the same intersection last Saturday were property damage accidents, one involving a hit-and-run vehicle that knocked down some mailboxes.

Hamilton suggested two things be done to improve the safety of the intersection. He said the trees near the southwest corner of the intersection (where his son had stopped) should come down because they block the view of oncoming traffic and the intersection should definitely be a four-way stop because of the traffic volume. It is presently a two-way stop.

He said, "I just don't want to see anyone killed. We're paying taxes. What does a stop sign cost, $50?"

Webb said Hamilton's complaint was the first he had received about the intersection. He added the road commission, which receives police reports on all accidents on county roads, received one report of an accident at that intersection in 1975. State police records show that in the first four months of this year there was one accident at the intersection.

Webb commented, "If the intersection has suddenly become a bad one we'll (road commission) do something about it. At this point we are not aware of it being that bad."

He added the trees Hamilton complained about may be on private property, in which case the property owner's consent to have them removed would be required. If they did not get the owner's consent "we'd have to go to court if anything was to be done," Webb said.

Hamilton claims the cluster of trees was largely responsible for his son's accident.

Mrs. Rudy (Ethel) Wegler, 1281 Marquette Woods road, and Mrs. Robert (Debbie) Morris, 4919 Washington avenue, both live near the intersection and both agree a four-way stop sign is needed.

Mrs. Wegler said her husband intends to go to the next Lincoln township board meeting to see if something can't be done.

Kenneth Zielke, operator of Zielke Lakeshore Standard service station, 1710 John Beers road, Stevensville, said his employees have towed a number of vehicles from the intersection after accidents and termed the location "one of my busy spots." Zielke has operated the service station for eight years and said traffic accidents have increased noticeably at the intersection in the last two years.

He said about two years ago one of his attendants was driving a customer's auto back to the station for service when he was struck at the intersection by a Berrien county road commission truck. The truck was headed in the same direction on Marquette Woods as Hamilton's son when he collided.

Hartford Man Held In Contempt

A Hartford man owing $2,372 arrears in child support was held in contempt of court Friday in Berrien Circuit court and placed on two years probation. Judge Julian E. Hughes also ordered Jerry Dean Byars, of Route 2, to pay $200 immediately towards the arrearage for one child not on ADC, and told him to find employment within 30 days or report back to court. If work is found, Byars is to sign a wage assignment of $20 weekly support and $5 weekly towards the arrearage.

Mercy Asks State To Approve $245,000 Renovation Program

LANSING — (Special) — Mercy Hospital, 960 Agard street, in Benton Harbor is seeking state approval for a proposed renovation program and the establishment of a new service. The hospital's administration proposes to renovate the pediatrics and laundry areas in order to bring them into compliance with present-day licensing standards. The new service which would be added is a pediatric intensive care unit. Although the new unit would contain four beds, there would be no change in the Berrien county facility's present capacity of 175 beds. An estimated cost of $245,000 has been placed on the project, and there is a projected completion date of August 1977. An application for a certificate of need has been filed by the hospital with the division of health facility planning and construction of the State Health department.

Couple Hopes Luck Will Last

A St. Joseph township couple is hoping their recent streak of luck will continue a little longer. Frank Nemethy, of 2953 Cleveland avenue, won $1,000 in the Michigan instant lottery game Monday. Two days later his wife, Jo-An, scratched off a "finalist" in the instant lottery game which assures her of $50 and puts her in a drawing with a "long shot" prize of more than $1 million.

The finalist drawing will be held when the Presidential instant lottery game ends sometime in December and all finalists will be placed in a drawing where 10 people will be picked for prizes ranging from $10,000 to the top prize of more than $1 million. A state lottery official, however, said winning in the finalist drawing is a "long shot" because 120,000 people will have finalist tickets when the game is over.

Nemethy, an employee in the camera department at The Herald-Palladium for the past 27 years, said he intends to pay his property taxes with the

Seek RIF Helpers

SOUTH HAVEN — The Reading-Is-Fundamental program, beginning its fourth year in South Haven, is in need of volunteers either to give time to read books in classrooms or to help on book days. Persons wishing more information may contact Mrs. Louis Rodenhous of South Haven. The RIF concept is to motivate children to read a wide variety of paperback books, books that interest them, and let them keep the books. New to the program this year, is the addition of two books per child for second and third graders. Monies received from a foundation through a national RIF office, added to contributions from the South Haven community, will allow the local RIF to purchase four books for each of the second and third graders this year. The first graders will receive a total of two books, one at each of the book days. The volunteers are needed to read 20 minutes preceding each of the four book days. The RIF book distribution lasts about 1 1/2 hours. A volunteer may give their time to one or all of these activities.

GREG CONSTANTINE WITH 'SEURAT AND CLARK'

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Works by artist Greg Constantine, chairman of the Andrews university art department, are now being exhibited in Chicago, New York and Ann Arbor. The exhibition at the Gilman gallery in Chicago and the invitation exhibition of the works of artist/teachers at the University of Michigan will continue throughout October. Those at the Razor gallery in New York will run until the end of the year. The shows include works done in Constantine's method of "recycled" pointillism. For several years the artist has been dealing with the television image. Using his original technique of applying the paint directly from the tube onto the canvas in horizontal lines, he recreates the illusion of a color television screen. The effect is similar to that achieved by the 19th-century pointillist artists, of which Seurat was the most famous. Constantine says that "color television is very dependent upon the mixture of individual colors in the eye in much the same manner as were the works of Seurat and the Impressionists." Constantine's painting entitled "Seurat and Clark" shows how the famous French artist's work "Sunday Afternoon on the Island of La Grande Jatte" would look if shown on television with Lord Kenneth Clark, the British art historian of "Civilisation" fame. TIME magazine recently commissioned Constantine to do a cover pertaining to the televised Presidential debates in his original technique. Earlier in the summer, Muhammed Ali purchased a large portrait painted by Constantine of Ali as a television personality. Network officials at NBC and CBS in New York have also shown interest in his work, since it deals so directly with their medium. In early 1977, Constantine's paintings will be displayed in a major regional exhibit entitled "Energy and Transformations" at the Contemporary museum in Chicago. The Romanian library in New York will host a display of his work in January and is arranging for a major exhibit in Bucharest, Romania, in the near future. Many group exhibitions around the country have included Constantine's work. A one-man show, giving a comprehensive view of several works done by the artist and revealing many different facets of the personal visual research done during a given limited time, will be presented at New York's Razor gallery in 1977. Constantine is now planning to create a mural-sized painting showing the history of the "Faith for Today" and "It Is Written" programs and personalities. Another project would follow, featuring the "History of Television: Important Events and Personalities." This history of television would be a series of large panels depicting events such as the lunar landing, the Nixon-Kennedy debates and people such as Edward R. Murrow and Walter Cronkite. Constantine's view of his work reflects his religious philosophy. "If I have revealed any significant truths through my works," he says, "it is not because of exceptional hard work, natural ability or intelligence on my part. Rather, God in His generosity has used me, and I choose to think that I have grown in understanding of the realities that have been in existence for us all to investigate. Taking hold of reality, or truth, naturally opens up avenues of discovery which seem new to each individual or generation."

Gideon Bible Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Gideons, the people who distribute free Bibles to hotels and motels, reported at their 77th international convention held here recently that they had a record year in 1975. Program Holds Record For Syndicated Drama

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — When "This Is The Life" went on the air in September of 1952, no one suspected that it would become the most widely broadcast public service television program in the world and the longest running nationally syndicated drama in American television history. Now in its 25th season, "This Is The Life," produced by the International Lutheran Laymen's League's Television department, is broadcast by 400 stations in the United States and episodes have been translated into Spanish and Portuguese for both domestic and foreign use. "It's certainly possible to see the hand of God in The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's decision to allocate $750,000 for a television ministry in 1951," commented Dr. Martin J. Neeb Jr., manager of Lutheran Television. "The synod knew that television's birth was perhaps the most significant event of the century."

Others thought a man should preach before a camera. Eventually, a dramatic format was adopted, featuring the Fischer family. For the first three and a half years the Fischer family was the mainstay of "This Is The Life," becoming one of the most popular group of characters in the early days of television. When they were dropped after 91 episodes — because the format had become too limiting — and a dramatic anthology format was adopted, many viewers complained because they had grown attached to the family. "Some people were so believing of television that we received two or three dozen applications for summer work in the drugstore owned by the Fischers," Dr. Gockel said. "When the Fischers were no longer used, I know of at least one viewer who worried how Carl Fischer would find work now that the drugstore was no longer in operation."

Seek RIF Helpers

SOUTH HAVEN — The Reading-Is-Fundamental program, beginning its fourth year in South Haven, is in need of volunteers either to give time to read books in classrooms or to help on book days.

Persons wishing more information may contact Mrs. Louis Rodenhouse of South Haven.

The RIF concept is to motivate children to read a wide variety of paperback books, books that interest them, and let them keep the books.

New to the program this year, is the addition of two books per child for second and third graders. Monies received from a foundation through a national RIF office, added to contributions from the South Haven community, will allow the local RIF to purchase four books for each of the second and third graders this year. The first graders will receive a total of two books, one at each of the book days.

The volunteers are needed to read 20 minutes preceding each of the four book days. The RIF book distribution lasts about 1½ hours. A volunteer may give their time to one or all of these activities.

Program Holds Record For Syndicated Drama

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — When "This Is The Life" went on the air in September of 1952, no one suspected that it would become the most widely broadcast public service television program in the world and the longest running nationally syndicated drama in American television history.

Now in its 25th season, "This Is The Life," produced by the International Lutheran Laymen's League's Television department, is broadcast by 400 stations in the United States and episodes have been translated into Spanish and Portuguese for both domestic and foreign use.

"It's certainly possible to see the hand of God in The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's decision to allocate $750,000 for a television ministry in 1951," commented Dr. Martin J. Neeb Jr., manager of Lutheran Television. "The synod knew that television's birth was perhaps the most significant event of the century."

Dr. Herman Gockel, who served as program director for Lutheran Television for 20 years, recalled, "In 1950 there was not one Missouri Synod official who owned a television set. I remember seeing one for the first time in a drugstore window near my home. Before this time there had never been a box with a screen in someone's living room to communicate something."

"The question, quite frankly, was what method should our church use on television to communicate the Gospel?" Dr. Gockel said.

Some believed church services should be broadcast.

Others thought a man should preach before a camera. Eventually, a dramatic format was adopted, featuring the Fischer family.

For the first three and a half years the Fischer family was the mainstay of "This Is The Life," becoming one of the most popular group of characters in the early days of television. When they were dropped after 91 episodes — because the format had become too limiting — and a dramatic anthology format was adopted, many viewers complained because they had grown attached to the family.

"When the Fischers were no longer used, I know of at least one viewer who worried how Carl Fischer would find work now that the drugstore was no longer in operation."

The show currently receives 2,000 letters each week.

The professionalism of the show is well illustrated by the response of the television industry. It has received over 60 technical awards and in 1975 received an Emmy becoming the first syndicated religious series to win the award.

Prominent actors and actresses who have appeared on the program include Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Rodney Allen Rippey, Richard Kiley, David Cassidy, Angie Dickinson and Carl Betz.

Under the Rev. Ardon Albrecht, program director, "This Is The Life" is producing more "slice of life" programs dealing with such topics as alcoholism, abortion, drug abuse and homosexuality.

Episodes of the 25th season will deal with such topics as political corruption, wife beating, a fake healer and mastectomy.

In addition to Lutheran Television, the International Lutheran Laymen's League, an auxiliary of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, also sponsors the Lutheran Hour on radio and Preaching Through the Press, a print evangelism ministry.

GREG CONSTANTINE WITH 'SEURAT AND CLARK'

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Works by artist Greg Constantine, chairman of the Andrews university art department, are now being exhibited in Chicago, New York and Ann Arbor.

The exhibition at the Gilman gallery in Chicago and the invitational exhibition of the works of artist/teachers at the University of Michigan will continue throughout October. Those at the Razor gallery in New York will run until the end of the year.

The shows include works done in Constantine's method of "recycled" pointillism. For several years the artist has been dealing with the television image. Using his original technique of applying the paint directly from the tube onto the canvas in horizontal lines, he recreates the illusion of a color television screen. The effect is similar to that achieved by the 19th-century pointillist artists, of which Seurat was the most famous.

Constantine says that "color television is very dependent upon the mixture of individual colors in the eye in much the same manner as were the works of Seurat and the Impressionists." Constantine's painting entitled "Seurat and Clark" shows how the famous French artist's work "Sunday Afternoon on the Island of La Grande Jatte" would look if shown on television with Lord Kenneth Clark, the British art historian of "Civilisation" fame.

TIME magazine recently commissioned Constantine to do a cover pertaining to the televised Presidential debates in his original technique. Earlier in the summer, Muhammed Ali purchased a large portrait painted by Constantine of Ali as a television personality. Network officials at NBC and CBS in New York have also shown interest in his work, since it deals so directly with their medium.

In early 1977, Constantine's paintings will be displayed in a major regional exhibit entitled "Energy and Transformations" at the Contemporary museum in Chicago. The Romanian library in New York will host a display of his work in January and is arranging for a major exhibit in Bucharest, Romania, in the near future.

Many group exhibitions around the country have included Constantine's work. A one-man show, giving a comprehensive view of several works done by the artist and revealing many different facets of the personal visual research done during a given limited time, will be presented at New York's Razor gallery in 1977.

Constantine is now planning to create a mural-sized painting showing the history of the "Faith for Today" and "It Is Written" programs and personalities. Another project would follow, featuring the "History of Television: Important Events and Personalities." This history of television would be a series of large panels depicting events such as the lunar landing, the Nixon-Kennedy debates and people such as Edward R. Murrow and Walter Cronkite.

Constantine's view of his work reflects his religious philosophy. "If I have revealed any significant truths through my works," he says, "it is not because of exceptional hard work, natural ability or intelligence on my part. Rather, God in His generosity has used me, and I choose to think that I have grown in understanding of the realities that have been in existence for us all to investigate. Taking hold of reality, or truth, naturally opens up avenues of discovery which seem new to each individual or generation."

The Area Conference of Lutheran Church in America congregations will sponsor a Reformation Day luncheon and program Sunday, Oct. 31, at Saron Lutheran church, St. Joseph.

The Area Conference is composed of lay delegates and pastors of St. Lukes Lutheran church, Stevensville, St. Mark Lutheran church, Benton Harbor, and Saron Lutheran church, St. Joseph.

Kukkonen, professor of church history at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago, and director of the LCA's lay theology program.

During the afternoon conference, the Rev. Kukkonen will speak on "People Grow from the Inside." He says, "I will focus on the meaning of the Reformation message for spiritual life and growth. Generally speaking, the Lutheran church has paid little attention to spiritual growth, assuming it would just happen. I feel the time has come to try our own resources, and I believe they are rich."

In addition, the Rev. Kukkonen will be guest speaker for the 11 a.m. Reformation Festival at St. Lukes Lutheran church, Stevensville. He will speak on "Reformation: Product or Process."

Clothing Collection Nov. 21-17

The annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection sponsored by Catholic Relief Services has as its theme this year, "Blanket the World with Love."

The collection will be held in many churches of the Diocese of Kalamazoo Nov. 21-27. Diocesan director, the Rev. Eugene Sears, announced the opening of the drive. He stressed that while the world's poor and needy can use all the blankets they can get, there is also a continuing need for lightweight clothing.

"Most of those persons who benefit from the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection live in the warmer, tropical areas of the world," said the Rev. Fr. Sears. "Lightweight clothing is more than worth its weight to those who live around the world," he said. "The ideal donations to the collection are garments made of cotton, nylon, rayon and polyester. There is also a constant need for infants' layettes and children's clothing as well as work clothes for men," he said.

Last year Catholics throughout the United States donated more than 11½ million pounds of clothing, blankets and built goods to the Thanksgiving collection. These donations, having a value of $16.6 million, were distributed to poor and needy families in 49 countries overseas.

The Rev. Fr. Sears pointed out that CRS, in its East Coast processing center, maintains a 500-ton reserve of clothing and blankets to be able to meet any demands resulting from emergencies or disaster situations. "Because of its reserve of clothing and blankets, this past year CRS was able to send immediate and urgently needed help to people made homeless by the earthquake in Guatemala and to the victims of the civil war in Lebanon," he said.

The Rev. Fr. Sears emphasized that the clothing collected in the parish churches is not only used to clothe the naked. Many of the garments are reprocessed in centers in developing countries. Thousands of boys and girls are trained in tailoring and dress-making using the materials which have been donated to the Thanksgiving appeal. In many countries, CRS sponsors "Clothing for Work" programs. These programs enable people to take part in a community improvement project and to receive clothing and blankets as their reward for their labors.

The Rev. Fr. Sears urged all to "contribute all spare usable clothing and blankets to their local Catholic church during the appeal week. Last year, thanks to the generosity and immediate concern of American Catholics,

No. 262. Gedaliah Assassinated

After King Nebuchadnezzar had razed the city of Jerusalem, he allowed certain poor people to remain and harvest the fields and vineyards. Accordingly, Gedaliah was appointed governor over those who had not been exiled to Babylon. Many who had fled to various places returned to Mizpah when they learned that Gedaliah governed there.

Soon, however, Johanan came to warn Gedaliah that the Ammonite king, Baalis, had sent Ishmael (son of Nethaniah) to assassinate him. Johanan even volunteered to kill Ishmael secretly, but Gedaliah would not permit the slaying. He was so certain of Ishmael's friendship that he invited him and his 10 assistants to dine with him.

"Then arose Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and the 10 men that were with him, and smote Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, with the sword, and slew him, whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land." (Jeremiah 41:2)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Thank You, Babysitters

Dear Ann Landers: This is to say thank you to all my teenage sitters (14 and up) who looked after my nine-year-old during the summer and after school in September.

I paid you $30 a week for watching TV, swimming in the pool, having your friends over, talking on the phone, eating a week's supply of food in two days, using my shampoo, perfume and makeup, my hair blower and rollers, leaving burned pans on the stove, dirty dishes in the sink and wet towels on the bed.

A special thank you for the increase in my gas bill because you like to bake.

I especially appreciate, too, your insistence on watching soap operas when my child wanted to see other programs that would have been far more appropriate.

Thank the good Lord my nine-year-old is responsible and didn't need to be watched every minute as some other children do. Heaven knows what would have happened to him. Too bad he wasn't a couple of years older. He would have been better off alone. — Vexed Apathy

Dear V.: Thanks for sounding off in this direction. And now a word to all you sitters who have written to ask the Do's and Don'ts of sitting. Please read this woman's letter carefully. You're bound to learn something.

'Other Woman'

Dear Ann Landers: I must respond to one of your observations because it hurt so much when I read it. You said 80 to 90 per cent of the in-law problems that cross your desk are against the mother-in-law — and usually it's the man's mother who is under attack.

I am a mother-in-law — the man's mother. His wife is beautiful, poised and well-educated. She is a very good wife to my son. I have tried to treat her as a daughter and a friend. I hoped and prayed she would love me, but I have failed completely to achieve these goals.

I have learned that some wives can be jealous of a husband's mother. They view her as "the other woman" in his life. This fact has come out in so many ways it is unmistakable.

How easy it is to be the mother-in-law of a male! My son just eats up the attention he gets from his wife's mother. His wife doesn't object one bit to her own mother lavishing affection on him — and his returning it. But she resents it when he shows any warmth whatever towards me.

Why am I the problem — just because I'm the husband's mother? — Sad Failure

Dear Friend: Apparently you and your son's wife got off to a bad start and the situation was never set right. I suggest that you have a heart-to-heart talk with your daughter-in-law. Hand her this column and tell her the second letter is yours. Ask her if she will meet you half way. I'll bet some good will come of it.

Gun-Shy Guy

Dear Ann Landers: I've been dating a man who had a messy divorce (worse than mine), so I can understand why he's gun-shy.

He never talks about marriage when he's sober. But when he's on the grain or the grape he always proposes. The next day he phones and says, "I was pretty bombed last night, don't take what I said seriously."

How should I take this? — Question Marks

Dear Q.: With a pound of salt, dear. He sounds too inhibited or too frightened to be good husband material. He may also be alcoholic. Make other friends.

Library Schedule

NILES — The Tiny Tot and preschool story hours at the Niles Community library will celebrate Halloween in the story programs.

Both groups will begin with a Halloween parade through the library. The children will hear the story, "Clifford's Halloween," and see the film, "The Princess and the Pea."

Tiny Tot story hours are held Tuesday and Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. and preschool story hours are held Tuesday and Wednesday at 10:15 a.m. and Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

All Niles area school students in grades kindergarten through nine are invited to come in costume to the Niles Community library's second annual Halloween program Saturday, Oct. 30.

The program begins at 3 p.m. and will include the film, "Ghosts and Ghouls" as well as a magic show. The winner of the "Great Pumpkin Contest" will be announced.

To Install OES Officers

LAWRENCE — Installation of officers for the Lawrence chapter, No. 256, Order of Eastern Star, will be held Monday, Oct. 25.

The event will be held at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Skin cancers are usually detected early and treated early. Consequently, the rate of complete cure is high.

Treatment by surgery, electro-coagulation and cryosurgery (freezing) are effective.

A new substance called retinoids, closely related chemically to vitamin A, shows great promise in the prevention, control and cure of certain cancers of the skin.

Dr. H. Mayer, of Basel, Switzerland, has reported marked success in experimental animals with the use of retinoic acid. His early work with human beings corroborates his studies in animals.

When his studies are satisfactorily repeated, and when toxic side-effects are minimized, our Federal Drug Administration will make the drug available in America.

The early recognition of cancer of the prostate gland is the key to its cure.

A research team at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute has isolated a special enzyme that is secreted into the blood by an abnormal prostate gland.

Dr. T.M. Chu and his colleagues find that a blood test can detect prostatic cancers in the early stages and in 80 per cent of advanced cases. Only one-tenth of a drop of blood is used to detect the enzyme, phosphohydrolase.

When this enzyme is found in the blood, a biopsy of the prostate gland is taken to confirm the diagnosis. This is a significant contribution to the treatment and cure of cancer of the prostate.

The repair and regeneration of nerves has been a goal sought by scientists for many years. Satisfactory results have been rare and inconsistent.

Now a Soviet scientist, Dr. Levon A. Martinian, has been trying to regenerate severed spinal cords by the use of proteolytic enzymes.

Dr. Martinian reported some successes in experimental animals at a recent conference on regeneration.

It is hoped that such studies, and others going on in universities and hospitals all over the world, may eventually bring greater hope for the prevention of paraplegia. It is hoped, too, that some cases of paraplegia, due to spinal injuries, may have greater possibilities for the return of the function of limbs.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Thank You, Babysitters

Dear Ann Landers: This is to say thank you to all my teenage sitters (14 and up) who looked after my nine-year-old during the summer and after school in September.

I paid you $30 a week for watching TV, swimming in the pool, having your friends over, talking on the phone, eating a week's supply of food in two days, using my shampoo, perfume and makeup, my hair blower and rollers, leaving burned pans on the stove, dirty dishes in the sink and wet towels on the bed.

A special thank you for the increase in my gas bill because you like to bake.

I especially appreciate, too, your insistence on watching soap operas when my child wanted to see other programs that would have been far more appropriate.

Thank the good Lord my nine-year-old is responsible and didn't need to be watched every minute as some other children do. Heaven knows what would have happened to him. Too bad he wasn't a couple of years older. He would have been better off alone. — Vexed Aplynt

Dear V.: Thanks for sounding off in this direction. And now a word to all you sitters who have written to ask the Do's and Don'ts of sitting. Please read this woman's letter carefully. You're bound to learn something.

'Other Woman'

Dear Ann Landers: I must respond to one of your observations because it hurt so much when I read it. You said 80 to 90 per cent of the in-law problems that cross your desk are against the mother-in-law — and usually it's the man's mother who is under attack.

I am a mother-in-law — the man's mother. His wife is beautiful, poised and well-educated. She is a very good wife to my son. I have tried to treat her as a daughter and a friend. I hoped and prayed she would love me, but I have failed completely to achieve these goals.

I have learned that some wives can be jealous of a husband's mother. They view her as "the other woman" in his life. This fact has come out in so many ways it is unmistakable.

How easy it is to be the mother-in-law of a male! My son just eats up the attention he gets from his wife's mother. His wife doesn't object one bit to her own mother lavishing affection on him — and his returning it. But she resents it when he shows any warmth whatever towards me.

Why am I the problem — just because I'm the husband's mother? — Sad Failure

Dear Friend: Apparently you and your son's wife got off to a bad start and the situation was never set right. I suggest that you have a heart-to-heart talk with your daughter-in-law. Hand her this column and tell her the second letter is yours. Ask her if she will meet you half way. I'll bet some good will come of it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't let emotion rule your pocketbook today. You could overspend so much you'll blow the whole thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid legal negotiations or verbal commitments today. Things will not work out to your advantage.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Feelings could run high on the job today. Try not to overreact. You could become frustrated by dinner time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't depend on friends to show you a good time today. Your judgment is not all that good. Your trust in another could be misplaced.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) That fire you started at home yesterday is still smoldering. Don't expect the family to obey your every command today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't put anything in writing today and avoid altering anything you've previously agreed to. You'll take a loss if you do either.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others can't be expected to help with financial problems today. You'll have to do so yourself or wait till another day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Partners will be unlucky if you're starting anything new today. Better to go it alone, but be certain you're not selfish in your approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do make this a day of rest. Your mind won't be on work. Mistakes could be costly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Stay away from crowds today. You're not in the mood for small talk and could make a bad impression on someone you care about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The domestic scene isn't too harmonious today. It might be wise to buy a few things for the home to pacify the family.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful what you say today. Your statements could be blown out of proportion and cause you some unnecessary mental anguish.

FOR MONDAY, OCT. 25, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be interested in cultural and intellectual pursuits today. Much can be gained by mingling socially with creative people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A good day to resolve an old problem that has bothered you and a person with whom you share an interest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A labor of love you've worked hard on should be completed today. A fun project, it will also save money for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Accolades for you today because of careful attention to the affairs of others. Your thoughtfulness pays handsomely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A quiet day at home, but one you'll relish. You prefer to do things in your own way, at your own speed — and alone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll prefer the company of older, more serious people today. Much can be learned discussing your favorite topics.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A well-deserved raise, promotion or recognition could be yours today. It should elevate your standard of living.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are a little more serious today and should concentrate on personal interests and desires. There are gains to be made.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Moderation suits you today. You won't tolerate seeing anyone around you waste either time or money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your stability draws people to you who are trustworthy. If you have matters to negotiate, today's the day to do it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Because of the kindness of another, you'll receive help that will enable you to successfully complete a laborious task.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The game was match-point duplicate and like many match-point bidders, South tried three notrump rather than a raise to four hearts.

This time it was a good idea, since four hearts was not going to make unless the defense really fouled things up.

West led his fourth-best club against the three notrump contract and the defense had four tricks in before you could say "Jack Robinson."

East dropped the six of diamonds on the fourth club after the three of spades was discarded from dummy. West led the three of diamonds and it was up to South to make a decision. He could overtake dummy's king of diamonds with his ace and try the spade finesse. If it worked he would make his contract; if it lost he would be down at least two

Ireland Hunts New President

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Ireland began to look at candidates for president today after the stormy resignation of Cearbhall O'Dalaigh in a dispute triggered by controversial antiterrorist legislation.

Premier Liam Cosgrave seemed set to try to ride out the crisis at the head of his coalition government.

"There is no question of a dissolution (of parliament) or of (an early) general election," a government spokesman said.

The cabinet held an emergency meeting Friday night to discuss the 65-year-old president's resignation, but no statement was issued afterward and cabinet members refused to comment.

O'Dalaigh resigned Friday evening in a bitter dispute with the government over the tough new legislation aimed mainly at curbing the guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

A presidential election must be held within 60 days. Until then, his powers will be exercised by a three-man commission consisting of Chief Justice Tom O'Higgins; Sean Tracey, chairman of the Dail, the lower house of parliament; and James Dooge, chairman of the Senate.

Political sources said there was no lack of potential candidates for O'Dalaigh's job — a figurehead post until O'Dalaigh broke tradition by stepping into the political arena over the antiterrorist laws.

One mentioned by many was Dr. Patrick Hillery, the Irish member of the European Common Market's executive commission on social affairs.

Other potential candidates included Vivion de Valera, son of the late President Eamon de Valera, a member of the Dail and like Hillery a Fianna Fail man; Brendan Corish, deputy prime minister and leader of the Labor party, believed to be eager to leave active politics; and Maurice Dockrell, a Fine Gael member of parliament.

The dispute between the government and O'Dalaigh first arose when the former president refused to sign the Emergency Powers bill, which was strongly backed by Defense Minister Patrick Donegan. With the Criminal Justice Act signed last month, the new law gives police and army sweeping powers of arrest and detention. O'Dalaigh sent the bill to the advisory Council of State. The council sent it back and the president passed the measure on to the Supreme Court for a ruling on its constitutionality. The court ruled it was constitutional and the president then signed it into law.

In a speech Monday, Donegan called O'Dalaigh "a thundering disgrace" for raising doubts about the new laws. The president took the comment as a personal insult and refused a written apology from the defense minister.

Thursday, the lower house of parliament rejected an opposition motion called for Donegan to resign. O'Dalaigh's resignation was announced Friday evening.

The coalition government has only 16 months left of its five-year term and observers said they could not see an election being called before next June. Cosgrave's coalition of Fine Gael and Labor parties has 75 seats in the 141-seat lower house of parliament. Fianna Fail, the main opposition party, has 66 seats.

HE'S THROUGH: Cearbhall O'Dalaigh poses with dog in his Wicklow, Ireland, home shortly after he resigned as President of Ireland. His resignation stemmed from dispute over the constitutionality of legislation designed to curb terrorism by Irish Republican Army. (AP Wirephoto)

Proposal C Ad Stirs Squabble

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Opponents and backers of a proposal to limit state spending are squabbling over ads indicating the proposal is supported by a respected research agency.

Literature distributed by Taxpayers United, the main group supporting "Proposal C" on the Nov. 2 ballot, states the issue has been examined by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan which, it said, "found it conceptually sound. In other words, it will work."

But Citizens Research Council of Michigan says it never proclaimed the issue "conceptually sound," and some opponents, which include school boards, are crying "foul."

The research council is an independent, nonpartisan organization which conducts detailed analysis of governmental policy and its results. It is often cited as a reliable source of unbiased data.

The council did four-page analyses of each of the four ballot issues, outlining their intent and effects. It does not take positions for or against such issues.

"We have a long-standing policy under which the Citizens Research Council does not make any statement publicly or privately in support of any ballot issue or any candidacy," said Robert Pickup, CRC's executive director. "We have not made any statement that it (Proposal C) was conceptually sound or unsound."

George Roche, the campaign chairman for the ballot proposal, said he hadn't seen the advertisement, said "clearly we don't read (the report) as an endorsement." But he called it "very favorable."

"We were pleased to discover that the report, coming from a nonpartisan, highly respected agency ... didn't come out with criticism which opponents have been advancing," he said.

Proposal C would limit state taxes and spending to 8.3 percent of personal income. It is strongly opposed by government officials, education, and other organizations which say it will curtail state services and shift the tax burden to the local level.

Advocates claim it will force the state to set clear priorities, live within its means and trim fat from the budget.

TEDDY BEAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, Virginia, there really is a bear named Teddy. Actually, his name is Theodore. And he's not small and cuddly but stands 15-foot high and weighs 2,000 pounds. He "plays" the title role in a new movie called "Grizzly."

When asked if that meant Ford had no involvement whatsoever in halting the probe, Richardson said, "He couldn't have had, in the circumstances."

He Doesn't Like Litter

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — U.S. Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson sympathizes with proposals to ban throwaway bottles and cans, although his agency has said a national ban would mean job losses and higher prices.

But Richardson said Friday he hasn't decided how to vote on a ballot proposal in his home state of Massachusetts that would ban non-returnable containers. Similar proposals are on the ballot in Michigan, Maine and Colorado.

Despite his department's less-than-enthusiastic report on the national effect of such a ban, "My own sympathies are with the bill," he said.

"I hate litter. I really do," he said in an interview. "I hate to drive down the highways and byways and see them lined with beer cans."

THEY HEAR IT

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio reaches 99 per cent of the 25 million young people age 12 through 17 in this country, who spend an average of three hours a day listening, according to Bob Guccione Jr., publisher of Rock Superstars Magazine.

He said he has asked his staff for more information about the effects of state bans on throwaways, like those in Oregon and Vermont.

Cited frequently by industry opponents of such bans, a commerce department report last year suggested that while a shift in returnables might mean "minimal" reductions in litter and energy use, it could cost as many as $2,000 container industry jobs and higher prices on beverages.

On another subject, former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richardson indicated he agreed with Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's decision not to order a special investigation into whether Ford was advised by White House aides in 1972 to halt an early investigation of Watergate by a House committee.

Richardson said there was "no possible footing on which President Ford as then-minority leader of the House could have been implicated in such a conspiracy. It's just stretching it too far."

When asked if that meant Ford had no involvement whatsoever in halting the probe, Richardson said, "He couldn't have had, in the circumstances."

Ireland Hunts New President

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Ireland began to look at candidates for president today after the stormy resignation of Cearbhall O'Dalaigh in a dispute triggered by controversial antiterrorist legislation.

Premier Liam Cosgrave seemed set to try to ride out the crisis at the head of his coalition government.

"There is no question of a dissolution (of parliament) or of (an early) general election," a government spokesman said.

The cabinet held an emergency meeting Friday night to discuss the 65-year-old president's resignation, but no statement was issued afterward and cabinet members refused to comment.

O'Dalaigh resigned Friday evening in a bitter dispute with the government over the tough new legislation aimed mainly at curbing the guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

A presidential election must be held within 60 days. Until then, his powers will be exercised by a three-man commission consisting of Chief Justice Tom O'Higgins, Sean Tracey, chairman of the Dail, the lower house of parliament; and James Dooe, chairman of the Senate.

Political sources said there was no lack of potential candidates for O'Dalaigh's job — a figurehead post until O'Dalaigh broke tradition by stepping into the political arena over the antiterrorist laws.

One mentioned by many was Dr. Patrick Hillery, the Irish member of the European Common Market's executive commission on social affairs.

Other potential candidates included Vivion de Valera, son of the late President Eamon de Valera, a member of the Dail and like Hillery a Fianna Fail man; Brendan Corish, deputy prime minister and leader of the Labor party, believed to be eager to leave active politics; and Maurice Dockrell, a Fine Gael member of parliament.

The dispute between the government and O'Dalaigh first arose when the former president refused to sign the Emergency Powers bill, which was strongly backed by Defense Minister Patrick Donegan. With the Criminal Justice Act signed last month, the new law gives police and army sweeping powers of arrest and detention. O'Dalaigh sent the bill to the advisory Council of State. The council sent it back and the president passed the measure on to the Supreme Court for a ruling on its constitutionality. The court ruled it was constitutional and the president then signed it into law.

In a speech Monday, Donegan called O'Dalaigh "a thundering disgrace" for raising doubts about the new laws. The president took the comment as a personal insult and refused a written apology from the defense minister.

Thursday, the lower house of parliament rejected an opposition motion called for Donegan to resign. O'Dalaigh's resignation was announced Friday evening.

The coalition government has only 16 months left of its five-year term and observers said they could not see an election being called before next June. Cosgrave's coalition of Fine Gael and Labor parties has 78 seats in the 144-seat lower house of parliament. Fianna Fail, the main opposition party, has 66 seats.

Proposal C Ad Stirs Squabble

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Opponents and backers of a proposal to limit state spending are squabbling over ads indicating the proposal is supported by a respected research agency.

Literature distributed by Taxpayers United, the main group supporting "Proposal C" on the Nov. 2 ballot, states the issue has been examined by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan which, it said, "found it conceptually sound. In other words, it will work."

But Citizens Research Council of Michigan says it never proclaimed the issue "conceptually sound," and some opponents, which include school boards, are crying "foul."

The research council is an independent, nonpartisan organization which conducts detailed analysis of governmental policy and its results. It is often cited as a reliable source of unbiased data.

The council did four-page analyses of each of the four ballot issues, outlining their intent and effects. It does not take positions for or against such issues.

"We have a long-standing policy under which the Citizens Research Council does not make any statement publicly or privately in support of any ballot issue or any candidacy," said Robert Pickup, CRC's executive director. "We have not made any statement that it (Proposal C) was conceptually sound or unsound."

George Roche, the campaign chairman for the ballot proposal, said he hadn't seen the advertisement, said "clearly we don't read (the report) as an endorsement." But he called it "very favorable."

"We were pleased to discover that the report, coming from a nonpartisan, highly respected agency ... didn't come out with criticism which opponents have been advancing," he said.

Proposal C would limit state taxes and spending to 8.3 percent of personal income. It is strongly opposed by government officials, education, and other organizations which say it will curtail state services and shift the tax burden to the local level.

Advocates claim it will force the state to set clear priorities, live within its means and trim fat from the budget.

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, Virginia, there really is a bear named Teddy. Actually, his name is Theodore. And he's not small and cuddly but stands 15-feet high and weighs 2,000 pounds. He "plays" the title role in a new movie called "Grizzly."

When asked if that meant Ford had no involvement whatsoever in halting the probe, Richardson said, "He couldn't have had, in the circumstances."

He Doesn't Like Litter

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — U.S. Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson sympathizes with proposals to ban throwaway bottles and cans, although his agency has said a national ban would mean job losses and higher prices.

But Richardson said Friday he hasn't decided how to vote on a ballot proposal in his home state of Massachusetts that would ban non-returnable containers. Similar proposals are on the ballot in Michigan, Maine and Colorado.

Despite his department's less-than-enthusiastic report on the national effect of such a ban, "My own sympathies are with the bill," he said.

"I hate litter. I really do," he said in an interview. "I hate to drive down the highways and byways and see them lined with beer cans."

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio reaches 99 per cent of the 25 million young people age 12 through 17 in this country, who spend an average of three hours a day listening, according to Bob Guccione Jr., publisher of Rock Superstars Magazine.

Cited frequently by industry opponents of such bans, a commerce department report last year suggested that while a shift to returnables might mean "minimal" reductions in litter and energy use, it could cost as many as 82,000 container industry jobs and higher prices on beverages.

Flu Shots Cleared For Children

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assured that swine-flu vaccine is safe and effective for children and teen-agers, federal officials plan to announce within two weeks whether those groups should take part in mass inoculation programs.

Meeting at the National Institutes of Health on Friday.

researchers gave the vaccine a clean bill of health but said persons between 3 and 20 probably will need to take two swine-flu shots four weeks apart.

Results of the researchers' studies involving more than 3,100 persons, mainly between the ages of 3 and 20, will be presented to an NIH advisory committee, which will decide whether and how the young should be covered under the government program.

Dr. John R. Seal, deputy director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said a decision is expected in about two weeks.

Generally, because doctors say persons with a greater risk from contracting flu should be immunized first, only those over 18 years of age are eligible for free inoculations in the current stage of the $135 million government program. An exception is those young persons suffering from asthma and other ailments who would be exposed to higher risks than most should they contract flu.

Officials estimated about 40 million persons between the ages of 3 and 18 aren't now eligible for free shots.

Although the researchers apparently resolved most questions of safety and effectiveness with the vaccine, Seal conceded the solution of giving two shots to the young is not foolproof.

"This would raise other problems in a vaccine program, such as getting people to come back a second time and working these children's visits into the schedule of adult inoculations," Seal said.

The tests, whose results were announced Friday, were undertaken after doctors found that one type of swine-flu vaccine produced high levels of reaction in some young persons, while the second type, which has undergone further chemical processing, failed to provide adequate immunity.

Although one shot of the second type is adequate for most adults, doctors say, younger persons need two shots apparently because their bodies have had less exposure to flu viruses and, thus, less chance to develop a partial immunity.

One question yet to be answered by government doctors is the size of the two doses. There are indications that young persons can get immunity with smaller doses than can adults.

The swine-flu-shot program is designed to prevent an outbreak of the potentially fatal disease, which has yet to show up in the United States this year.

Try Fails

DETROIT (AP) — Police are trying to track down an articulate extortionist whose scheme was foiled Friday when three Detroit women failed to fall for his claims he had kidnaped their husbands.

All three women received phone calls Friday telling them unless they each withdrew $3,000 from their banks, their husbands — and in one case a child — would be killed.

Instead, all of the women called their husbands at work, and finding them there and safe, notified police of the extortion attempt.

WIFE DIDN'T TIP NEWSMAN

Esch: Report Is 'Absurd'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Congressman Marvin Esch has vehemently denied his wife urged a reporter to investigate Rep. Donald Riegle's sex life, and says she actually asked for an article about the divergent lifestyles of politicians.

Riegle Will Bring In 'Big Guns'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rep. Donald Riegle is bringing in the big guns next week, as three former Democratic presidential candidates arrive in Michigan separately to boost Riegle's U.S. Senate campaign.

California Gov. Edmund Brown, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana will lend their hands to Riegle's drive against Republican Rep. Marvin Esch.

Esch reacted angrily Friday to a report that, during this summer's Republican National Convention, his wife, Olga, urged a Booth Newspapers reporter to investigate the sex life of Riegle, a Democrat who is Esch's opponent in the U.S. Senate race in Michigan.

Riegle recently admitted to having a brief affair with an unpaid staff member while he was in the process of getting a divorce in 1969. Riegle, a Democrat, has accused Esch and the Detroit News — which reported the affair — of a coordinated attack aimed at discrediting him.

Esch on Friday repeated his denials of such a scheme, and said he believed the voters will see through what he termed Riegle's "concept of conspiracy."

Esch bristled when asked about the Booth reporter's allegations that Olga Esch told him he should investigate

Riegle's sex life.

"That's totally absurd, and I reject the question," he said. "She suggested there are differences in lifestyles with us and Don Riegle, and suggested maybe all life styles should be looked into."

"She didn't in any way suggest an investigation of his sex life," Esch said. "At least half the conversation consisted of whether the press ought to write about people who are living a normal life style as most Americans are."

Esch said his campaign had tried to avoid pointing out differences in life styles, although he acknowledged using his family during his campaign to indicate what type of person he is. And he repeated his assertion that Riegle can't separate his personal life from his public life.

"I didn't turn on the tape recorder, and I didn't turn off the tape recorder," he said, referring to the fact Riegle's affair had been taped, with his permission, by the young woman involved.

Asked whether the Riegle affair should have been reported in the first place, Esch replied: "To say it shouldn't have been is to suggest there shouldn't be a freedom of the press. The media have a right to print anything they want."

Candidates Coming Sunday To Buchanan's Metea Court

BUCHANAN — A meet-the-candidates program will be held tomorrow in the Metea court community building on Rymerson street from 2 to 4 p.m. Democrats Richard "Mike" Daugherty, Sister Lakes, U.S. Congressional candidate, and Lewis "Jerry" Mason, Buchanan, Berrien county board of commissioners candidate, will attend the meeting in the senior citizens apartment development. The meeting is open to the public.

Lakeshore Pupils Get Time Off

All Lakeshore schools will be dismissed by noon on Tuesday, Oct. 26, so teachers will have in-service time for curriculum study in the afternoon, school officials have announced.

Secondary schools will be dismissed at 11:35 a.m. and elementary schools will be dismissed by noon. Another in-service day is planned for early December.

SJ Pair's Son Gets DC Degree

Roger R. Skibbe of St. Joseph, has received his degree of doctor of chiropractic (DC) during October commencement exercises of Palmer college of Chiropractic at Davenport, Iowa.

He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Skibbe of 1051 Lydia drive, St. Joseph.

"This would raise other problems in a vaccine program, such as getting people to come back a second time and working these children's visits into the schedule of adult inoculations," Seal said.

The tests, whose results were announced Friday, were undertaken after doctors found that one type of swine-flu vaccine produced high levels of reaction in some young persons, while the second type, which has undergone further chemical processing, failed to provide adequate immunity.

Although one shot of the second type is adequate for most adults, doctors say, younger persons need two shots apparently because their bodies have had less exposure to flu viruses and, thus, less chance to develop a partial immunity.

One question yet to be answered by government doctors is the size of the two doses. There are indications that young persons can get immunity with smaller doses than can adults.

The swine-flu-shot program is designed to prevent an outbreak of the potentially fatal disease, which has yet to show up in the United States this year.

Try Fails

DETROIT (AP) — Police are trying to track down an articulate extortionist whose scheme was foiled Friday when three Detroit women failed to fall for his claims he had kidnapped their husbands.

All three women received phone calls Friday telling them unless they each withdrew $3,000 from their banks, their husbands — and in one case a child — would be killed.

Instead, all of the women called their husbands at work, and finding them there and safe, notified police of the extortion attempt.

WIFE DIDN'T TIP NEWSMAN

Esch: Report Is 'Absurd'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Congressman Marvin Esch has vehemently denied his wife urged a reporter to investigate Rep. Donald Riegle's sex life, and says she actually asked for an article about the divergent lifestyles of politicians.

Riegle Will Bring In 'Big Guns'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rep. Donald Riegle is bringing in the big guns next week, as three former Democratic presidential candidates arrive in Michigan separately to boost Riegle's U.S. Senate campaign. California Gov. Edmund Brown, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana will lend their hands to Riegle's drive against Republican Rep. Marvin Esch.

Esch reacted angrily Friday to a report that, during this summer's Republican National Convention, his wife, Olga, urged a Booth Newspapers reporter to investigate the sex life of Riegle, a Democrat who is Esch's opponent in the U.S. Senate race in Michigan.

Riegle recently admitted to having a brief affair with an unpaid staff member while he was in the process of getting a divorce in 1969. Riegle, a Democrat, has accused Esch and the Detroit News — which reported the affair — of a coordinated attack aimed at discrediting him.

Esch on Friday repeated his denials of such a scheme, and said he believed the voters will see through what he termed Riegle's "concept of conspiracy."

Esch bristled when asked about the Booth reporter's allegations that Olga Esch told him he should investigate

Riegle's sex life.

"That's totally absurd, and I reject the question," he said. "She suggested there are differences in lifestyles with us and Don Riegle, and suggested maybe all life styles should be looked into."

"She didn't in any way suggest an investigation of his sex life," Esch said. "At least half the conversation consisted of whether the press ought to write about people who are living a normal life style as most Americans are."

Esch said his campaign had tried to avoid pointing out differences in life styles, although he acknowledged using his family during his campaign to indicate what type of person he is. And he repeated his assertion that Riegle can't separate his personal life from his public life.

"I didn't turn on the tape recorder, and I didn't turn off the tape recorder," he said, referring to the fact Riegle's affair had been taped, with his permission, by the young woman involved.

Asked whether the Riegle affair should have been reported in the first place, Esch replied: "To say it shouldn't have been is to suggest there shouldn't be a freedom of the press. The media have a right to print anything they want."

'Kissinger Plan' Is Not Negotiable, Smith Says

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and British envoy Ivor Richard were to confer again today on ground rules for next week's Rhodesia conference. But Smith still says the "Kissinger plan" he accepted last month is not negotiable. After meeting with Richard, Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, for 80 minutes Friday, Smith threatened to repudiate his agreement to black majority rule for the former British colony within two years.

"I made an agreement with Dr. Kissinger and we would be ill-advised to break it, because if you break it, then it means everything is broken, not just parts of it," Smith told reporters. "You would have to go right back to square one and start again."

Smith maintains that the proposals he agreed to in talks with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last month are a package, and none of the parts is subject to negotiation at the talks with black nationalist leaders due to begin Thursday.

The nationalists have rejected parts of that agreement concerning makeup of the interim administration, which will govern Rhodesia until power can be transferred from the country's 278,000 whites to the 6.4 million blacks.

Richard, who will chair the conference, also refuses to change his position — that the Kissinger plan was merely a working document and is open to negotiation at this week's conference. U.S. officials agree with Richard.

The plan accepted by Smith calls for an interim ruling council divided evenly between blacks and whites, with a white chairman, and for the army and police to remain under white control. The black leaders reject those points, calling for effective power to be transferred to blacks immediately.

British officials said Smith should realize that Britain, which legally maintains sovereignty over the rebel colony, has no power to accept any conditions before the Geneva conference works out an overall settlement plan.

Richard planned several separate meetings with Smith and the four black delegation chiefs before the conference opens.

The black leaders are Joshua Nkomo, head of the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU); Robert Mugabe and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, both of whom claim leadership of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU), and Bishop Abel Muzorewa, head of the external wing of the African National Council. Zimbabwe is the blacks' name for Rhodesia.

Observers believe that the rivalry between the black nationalists could lead to intensified black guerrilla warfare in Rhodesia as a power play during the Geneva talks.

Indians Win A Round

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An Indian group has won another round in its battle for the return of gear seized by Department of Natural Resources officials who claimed the Indians were fishing illegally, and for payment for the fish DNR OFFICIALS CONFISCATED. The Michigan Court of Appeals Thursday ruled that the case must be returned to Emmett County Circuit Court Judge Martin Breighner for another review. It said he must consider certain factors when deciding whether the DNR delayed too long in taking its case against the Indians to court.

Carter Aide Sees Michigan Win

By Associated Press
Denying that Jimmy Carter's forces have let Michigan "slip away," Carter's Michigan campaign chairman says President Ford is leading his home state lead by only about three or four percentage points.

Chairman Don O'Brien disagreed Friday with an unnamed senior Carter aide who was quoted in the New York Times saying Michigan and Indiana "have slipped away from us." The aide pointed to the fact that the Democratic presidential candidate would visit neither state before the Nov. 2 election.

"Not only have we not given up on Michigan, but they have raised our budget in the last three days" by a "substantial" amount, O'Brien countered.

He said he is unaware of any plans to have Carter or runningmate Walter Mondale visit Michigan before Nov. 2, but says those plans could be changed now that the final presidential debate is over.

Though he refused to say how much Carter is spending in Michigan, O'Brien said it was more than the $160,000 reported earlier.

A Market Opinion Research poll in early October showed Ford with 47 per cent support in Michigan, Carter with 39 per cent, 9 per cent undecided, and 5 per cent for other candidates.

But O'Brien said his own feeling, from responses to telephone canvassing, is that "we are no more than three or four (points) behind. We expect to win."

Rick Simonson, executive director of Ford's homestate campaign, said Ford's Michigan budget is about $37,000, which he called "comfortable."

Ford Motor Co. To Lay Off Thousands

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it will lay off up to 10,000 workers at auto plants by next week due to parts shortages.

The layoffs come despite a return to work at a key Ford stamping plant in Cleveland. The workers, members of United Auto Workers Local 420, overwhelmingly ratified a new local contract with the No. 2 automaker. The plant is vital to Ford's operations in 22 states.

Ford, which has not recovered fully from a nationwide strike that shut its operations nationwide 38 days ago, said it idled 3,100 workers Friday when it shut a Chicago assembly plant. The facility had resumed operations just a week earlier.

A Ford spokesman said he did not know what other plants might have to be closed or exactly how many more workers would be idled. "It's a shifting situation," he said. "It depends on whether we find extra parts at the last minute to keep some plants open."

But the spokesman said it was certain as of Friday that at least 8,000 workers would be laid off because parts supplies at some plants were so depleted that it would take several days to replenish them.

Old Catholic Traditions Challenged By Laymen

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — An historic convention of American Roman Catholics votes today on several reform-minded proposals which challenge centuries-old church tradition.

Already, delegates to the "Call to Action" Conference, a Biennial project of the sponsoring National Conference of Catholic Bishops, have stirred controversy by opting for changes in basic church teaching on divorce.

On Friday, they approved a recommendation that U.S. bishops repeal the automatic excommunication for Catholics who divorce and then remarry. The convention also asked church leaders to "publicly address" the request of divorced Catholics who remarry and who wish to receive the sacraments of the church.

Among today's recommendations are calls for ordination of women and marriage for priests.

However, all recommendations approved here still must gain similar passage from the church's 300 U.S. bishops, who convene next May in Chicago.

"There's no room for fortifications in Heaven," said John Cardinal Krol, Archbishop of Philadelphia, reacting to the recommendation that remarried divorced Catholics be allowed to receive sacraments.

"We're dealing with a Divine law and not just a church law. There's a doctrinal element here."

But he noted that the importance of the convention, charged with assembling a five-year plan of social justice in the U.S. church, was in gaining input from lay people.

"We do get input from theologians, we do get input from canonists," he said. "But this is where we want input, from the people, regardless of whether they happen to know the nuances of Canon law."

Today's third and final session has the more than 1,300 delegates requesting the following:

—Dialogue with Rome to allow married men to be ordained to the priesthood.

—Dialogue with Rome to allow women to be ordained priests.

—Naming a committee to study the possibility of allowing priests to marry and remain active priests.

—Elimination of sexist language from official church documents, catechisms, liturgical books, rites and hymnals.

—Local input in the selection of bishops and pastors.

Recommendations on married priests are "counterproductive," John R. Roach, Archbishop of St. Paul, Minn., said Friday.

"This is an international question, not a national question," he said. "We can be as friendly as we want to the question. But this isn't the way to go about it."

Berrien GOP Will Run Motorcades

Berrien county Republicans will stage two campaign caravans that will seek voter support for GOP candidates Saturday, Oct. 30, throughout Berrien county and in parts of Cass county.

Two motorcades with candidates and supporters will form at 8:30 a.m. at the court house in St. Joseph, before starting on two separate routes. James Walton and Lad Stacey, both of Berrien Springs, are co-chairmen for the event.

The caravan led by Walton will swing through the southern part of Berrien county and return to St. Joseph at 12:55 p.m. Stacey's caravan will go through Coloma, Watervliet, Eau Claire, Dowagiac, Cassopolis and wind up in Niles at 12:50 p.m.

Persons who wish to take part can get further information from the GOP headquarters in St. Joseph, according to Walton and Stacey.

U.S. Farmers

Holding Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — American farmers are holding record amounts of wheat off the market, apparently in an effort to force up prices.

The Agriculture Department reported Thursday that on Oct. 1, with wheat prices 30 per cent below a year earlier, farmers were holding 832 million bushels, even more than in the months immediately before the massive grain sales to the Soviet Union in the summer of 1972.

Old Catholic Traditions Challenged By Laymen

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — An historic convention of American Roman Catholics votes today on several reform-minded proposals which challenge centuries-old church tradition.

Already, delegates to the "Call to Action" Conference, a Bicentennial project of the sponsoring National Conference of Catholic Bishops, have stirred controversy by opting for changes in basic church teaching on divorce.

On Friday, they approved a recommendation that U.S. bishops repeal the automatic excommunication for Catholics who divorce and then remarry. The convention also asked church leaders to "publicly address" the request of divorced Catholics who remarry and who wish to receive the sacraments of the church.

Among today's recommendations are calls for ordination of women and marriage for priests.

However, all recommendations approved here still must gain similar passage from the church's 300 U.S. bishops, who convene next May in Chicago.

"There's no room for fornicators in Heaven," said John Cardinal Krol, Archbishop of Philadelphia, reacting to the recommendation that remarried divorced Catholics be allowed to receive sacraments.

"We're dealing with a Divine law and not just a church law. There's a doctrinal element here."

But he noted that the importance of the convention, charged with assembling a five-year plan of social justice in the U.S. church, was in gaining input from lay people.

"We do get input from theologians, we do get input from canonists," he said. "But this is where we want input, from the people, regardless of whether they happen to know the nuances of Canon law."

Today's third and final session has the more than 1,300 delegates requesting the following:

—Dialogue with Rome to allow married men to be ordained to the priesthood.

—Dialogue with Rome to allow women to be ordained priests.

—Naming a committee to study the possibility of allowing priests to marry and remain active priests.

—Elimination of sexist language from official church documents, catechisms, liturgical books, rites and hymnals.

—Local input in the selection of bishops and pastors.

Recommendations on married priests are "counterproductive," John R. Roach, Archbishop of St. Paul, Minn., said Friday.

"This is an international question, not a national question," he said. "We can be as friendly as we want to the question. But this isn't the way to go about it."

BRANDO? — American actor Marlon Brando almost slipped by unnoticed with his bald head, or rather, a cleanly-shaven head, at a stopover at airport in Sydney, Australia, Friday. He was on his way to his South Pacific home in Tahiti. (AP Wirephoto)

SJ Township Man Heads '76 Dystrophy Drive

The Southwest Michigan chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America has announced the appointment of Jerry Beasley of St. Joseph township to head the 1976 March for Muscular Dystrophy to be held the last week of October and first two weeks of November in Berrien, Allegan, Cass, Van Buren and St. Joseph counties.

In accepting the appointment Beasley said "The Southwest Area Dystrophy drive has more than quadrupled its first figure of $10,500 in 1974, with $57,000 last year bringing the grand total of $297,932.04 - and we believe this 1976 drive will run well over last year's figure and set a new high for this area."

Beasley gained recognition recently as chairman of the Jerry Lewis Telethon pledge center that raised $16,500 for the Labor Day telethon in the greater St. Joseph-Benton Harbor area.

Beasley is a 20-year veteran of Clark Equipment C.M.D.

where he has served as steward and chief steward for the UAW Local 1290 union for several years. He lives at 1036 Wedgewood drive, St. Joseph township, with his wife Mary, daughter Mary Kathryn, 18, son, David, 14, and daughter, Anita, 9. He and his wife have been members of the Southwest M.D. chapter for two years and he is a member of the chapter's executive committee.

Beasley said "The 1,500 fire fighters and volunteers who conduct the Southwest Michigan area drive have consistently chosen not to set a goal because they believe the average giver makes his contribution to the drive to help save the lives of nearly a quarter million victims of dystrophy and not because he has a goal to reach. This philosophy has been confirmed by the fact that donations to the drive have continued to increase as people learn more about this dread disease."

Last year's drive was headed by Benton Harbor Fire Marshal John Billups and showed a gain of 36 per cent over 1974, with a total campaign cost of under 2 per cent. This figure can be maintained year after year because the chapter has no paid personnel and the only expense is for postage, stationery, printing and photography.

All efforts for the drive are voluntary.

Beasley said that funds are

OUT TO TOP '75 DRIVE: Southwest Michigan chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America has announced appointment of Jerry Beasley, St. Joseph township, (center) as chairman of 1976 March for Muscular Dystrophy in Berrien, Allegan, Cass, Van Buren and St. Joseph counties. used to finance a comprehensive research program in over 200 research centers aimed at finding a cure for the disease.

Funds also finance a complete patient care program which spent $12,250 last year for a wide variety of orthopedic services and equipment for 67 local dystrophy patients. He said 83 per cent of all funds collected go directly to basic research and patient care.

He also added that local fire departments mail letters to business and industry asking their continued support, and place canisters in local business places for the convenience of those missed in the house-to-house canvass.

Beasley expressed hope that area residents would continue their support of the effort.

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and American Motors, beset with large stocks of slow selling models, are trimming production at two car plants next week, temporarily laying off 6,400 workers in Ohio and Wisconsin.

DETROIT RAIL-BUS GRANT

Reaction Is Dismaying

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Federal officials are voicing dismay over negative Michigan reactions to recent action giving Detroit a $600 million public transportation grant on the condition matching private funds will be required in the development.

Transportation officials have told representatives from the state if Michigan doesn't want the money, there are plenty of other cities that would jump at it, according to Gov. William Milliken's office.

Milliken issued a statement Friday saying the conditions attached by Washington to the grant "provide opportunities, not obstacles," and said they are flexible enough to help, not hinder, development.

Washington has approved some $900 million for a massive rail-bus system in the Detroit metropolitan area. But its requirement that private developers must raise another $600 million has been greeted with surprise and some pessimism among Detroit businesses.

"We have been assured of flexibility in the definition of contingent steps the state must take for the grant," James Kellogg, deputy director of the state Department of Highways and Transportation, reported.

"Federal officials find a negative reaction in certain quarters in Michigan incredulous," Kellogg said. "One federal official said to me, 'If Michigan isn't receptive, we have 100 other cities who would like to have the money with the same condition.'"

PONTIAC RECALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has ordered General Motors to recall some 330,000 of its 1974-model Pontiacs which may have faulty anti-pollution systems.

EPA said Thursday the recall affects Catalina, LeMans, Bonneville, Ventura, Firebird and Grand Am models with 350 and 400-cubic-inch engines.

Pedal-Pushers Tipple, Too

CHICAGO (AP) — You won't find this bicycle club pedaling down leafy country lanes on warm afternoons.

But you may see members whizzing down Chicago's neon-bright Rush Street some night as they cycle from bar to bar. Headquarters for the Chicago Friars is a corner of a cozy tavern called Friar Tuck's on the city's North Side.

Several times each month, an assortment of the club's some 180 members meet, take on some lubrication, then pedal off into the night in search of more refreshment. It might be as far away as a pub in Rogers Park, 10 miles north of the city, where a glass of beer sells for a dime. Then they will return to home base for some pizza, and more beer. Sometimes they head downtown with a supply of wine and cheese to add a little culture to their outings at the Grant Park bandshell. Sometimes they just drink the night away at Friar Tuck's, then mount their bikes at closing time and take an "insomnia ride."

This entails several stops at all-night hamburger joints before ending up at the lakefront to toast the sunrise. So far there have not been any accidents or tickets for tipsy biking. The Friars have a code of looking out for each other.

"Once we had a guy fall off his bike, but usually everybody manages to hang on," says Jerry Gross, 34, club president. "We do have a lot of people who develop amnesia on these trips. They forget anything embarrassing they might have done along the way."

The average age of the Friars is about 30, and most work at white collar jobs. There are nearly as many women as men in the club, and almost all are either single or divorced. "I used to be embarrassed just hanging out in bars all the time, but here we drink and do things. We get in a lot of exercise," said Dave Wildgrube, 28, a data processor. Gross said, "For most of the members, the club probably provides at least 50 per cent of their social lives. On some weekends we go camping. And in the winter we set up skiing trips."

Convicted Kidnaper Facing Extradition

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Colorado authorities were in Utah today to serve extradition papers on convicted kidnaper Theodore Bundy, a former law student who investigators want to prosecute in the slaying of a Dearborn, Mich. nurse.

An attorney in the Salt Lake County attorney's office, Brent Cameron, confirmed that deputies were at the state prison to serve papers. Bundy is serving a 1- to 15-year term at the prison.

In Aspen, Colo., Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said he had begun extradition "for the purpose of prosecuting Bundy for murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Caryn Campbell."

Miss Campbell, 24, a Dearborn, Mich. nurse, was visiting Aspen with her fiancé in January 1975 when she disappeared. Her nude and frozen body was found later.

Tucker has said he will meet with authorities in Seattle, Wash., this month to coordinate his investigation of Bundy with their probes into the deaths or disappearances of at least eight other young women.

Authorities in Colorado, Washington and Utah say they also have been investigating a possible connection between the 28-year-old Bundy, of Tacoma, Wash., and deaths or disappearance of at least a dozen women.

Sometimes they just drink the night away at Friar Tuck's, then mount their bikes at closing time and take an "insomnia ride."

This entails several stops at all-night hamburger joints

before ending up at the lakefront to toast the sunrise. So far there have not been any accidents or tickets for tipsy biking. The Friars have a code of looking out for each other.

"Once we had a guy fall off his bike, but usually everybody manages to hang on," says Jerry Gross, 34, club president. "We do have a lot of people who develop amnesia on these trips. They forget anything embarrassing they might have done along the way."

The average age of the Friars is about 30, and most work at white collar jobs. There are nearly as many women as men in the club, and almost all are either single or divorced. "I used to be embarrassed just hanging out in bars all the time, but here we drink and do things. We get in a lot of exercise," said Dave Wildgrube, 28, a data processor. Gross said, "For most of the members, the club probably provides at least 50 per cent of their social lives. On some weekends we go camping. And in the winter we set up skiing trips."

Convicted Kidnaper Facing Extradition

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Colorado authorities were in Utah today to serve extradition papers on convicted kidnaper Theodore Bundy, a former law student who investigators want to prosecute in the slaying of a Dearborn, Mich. nurse.

An attorney in the Salt Lake County attorney's office, Brent Cameron, confirmed that deputies were at the state prison to serve papers. Bundy is serving a 1-to 15-year term at the prison.

In Aspen, Colo., Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said he had begun extradition "for the purpose of prosecuting Bundy for murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Caryn Campbell."

Miss Campbell, 24, a Dearborn, Mich., nurse, was visiting Aspen with her fiancé in January 1975 when she disappeared. Her nude and frozen body was found later.

Tucker has said he will meet with authorities in Seattle, Wash., this month to coordinate his investigation of Bundy with their probes into the deaths or disappearances of at least eight other young women.

Authorities in Colorado, Washington and Utah say they also have been investigating a possible connection between the 28-year-old Bundy, of Tacoma, Wash., and deaths or disappearance of at least a dozen women.

Prison 'Paralegals' Gain New Respect For The Law

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The majesty of the law never meant much to Paul Combs. He just knew there were rules against selling heroin, and when he broke the rules at age 20, he went to prison.

"It's hard to look up to something you don't understand," Combs says.

"Before, I just knew the laws were there. Now I know the reasons for them, and that breeds a certain respect."

Behind the walls of the world's largest walled prison, Combs and 11 other felons are completing a unique experiment: they are being trained as "paralegals."

Friday they graduated — not from a course in theory but from an under-the-gun "law office" that has handled more than 250 cases in the last six months. They have a captive and appreciative, if demanding, clientele: the other inmates at Southern Michigan Prison.

The project, funded and run by the American Bar Association and the Young Lawyers section of the Michigan Bar, makes no pretense at offering a course in pre-law. As convicted felons, the paralegals would have trouble getting into law school.

"I try not to build their hopes up too high," says Robert Baer, 30, one of two lawyers running the program.

It's aimed instead at preparing the men for outside paralegal jobs and at the same time offering legal aid to prisoners. Baer calls it a fruitful combination of academic work and a real-life, high-pressure laboratory.

A small faculty of volunteer lawyers from throughout Michigan has instructed the dozen convicts in criminal and constitutional law, legal ethics and nearly everything in between.

Meanwhile there's been a line outside the tiny, crowded office of the bar project — a waiting list of prisoners fighting deportation, appealing their convictions or suing for divorce.

Under the direction of Baer and project director John Spurgis, the budding paralegals have written memorandums and briefs, done legal research and drafted pleadings and petitions.

They claim no monumental victories, but among their successes was a state Appeals Court ruling that an indigent inmate had the right to a free transcript of his case. The state is appealing the ruling to the state Supreme Court.

"Our plaintiff was obviously smart enough to assist in his appellate defense, and it was our position he should have a copy," said Baer.

Though the paralegals are mainly assigned other prisoners' cases, they inevitably remain intrigued with their own.

Luther Bennett, 31, of Detroit, doing time for manslaughter, says that if he knew then what he knows now, he would have gone to trial on two previous convictions instead of pleading guilty.

"I've learned that there's a lot of overcharging done by prosecutors in order to arrive at a plea bargain," Bennett said. "If in fact I had went to trial the outcome might have been different."

And Combs, now 22, feels his court-appointed lawyer took too narrow an approach in his appeal. "I've found three or four other good issues I want him to look at," he said.

At a time when prisoners across the country are swamping the courts with suits that some attorneys consider frivolous, is the bar association project subsidizing even more of them?

There's a feeling among some lawyers familiar with the project that, with a little knowledge, the paralegals can actually discourage pointless lawsuits or improve their quality.

"In a way, it might actually slow down that kind of thing," says Bruce Barton, the prosecuting attorney for Jackson County and one of the lawyers who has lectured the convicts.

Inmates have so many marital problems that the paralegals have had to restrict their help on divorce cases. And criminal appeals are rejected whenever the prisoner still has the right to a court-appointed lawyer.

To Begin MD Drive Tuesday

St. Joseph township fire department No. 1 is sponsoring a drive to raise funds for muscular dystrophy beginning Tuesday. Edgar Beckman, township fire captain, said the department will begin canvassing the west half of the township Tuesday. He said canisters have also been placed in businesses and letters have been sent to businesses and industries requesting their support. St. Joseph township fire department No. 1 has raised a total of $91,135 since it first took part in the muscular dystrophy campaign in 1954, according to Beckman.

Libertowski's Hearing Delayed In Evidence Flap

By JOHN FENNELL
Staff Writer

Gerald Libertowski's preliminary examination was adjourned Friday until Nov. 4 because of a legal battle over the admissibility of evidence. Berrien Fifth District Judge Ronald J. Taylor adjourned the case at the request of Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jeffrey Long and defense Attys. Stanley White and David Peterson to permit them to research the legality of a search warrant.

The battle concerns whether or not to allow Janis Sanders' wallet and its contents, which police found in an inaccessible part of a crawl space in Libertowski's South Bend home, as evidence in the case. The point first came up Thursday and continued into Friday's session. Libertowski is accused of murdering Mrs. Sanders.

According to Taylor there is some question whether the warrant that allowed the search of Libertowski's home April 13 was legal. It was during that search that police found Mrs. Sanders' wallet.

During the search police broke open a 10-by-7 foot hole in the cement block wall and found the wallet lying in a corner.

The attorneys will present

briefs to Taylor who will make a ruling on the legality of the warrant.

Mrs. Sanders, 21, a divorcee and mother of two children was last seen July 21, 1975 in Niles.

Libertowski, 34, was acquitted in August of murder in connection with the disappearance of Janice Langes, 21. Both women were former girlfriends of Libertowski and both had at one time lived with him. Neither of their bodies have been found.

Taylor said the legal question concerns the procedure used in executing the warrant and whether Indiana or Michigan law applies in serving that warrant.

Depending on which state law is applicable, there is a possibility that the wallet may not be admitted as evidence, Taylor said.

Defense attorney Stanley White said that he is investigating the possibility that no probable cause affidavits were attached to the warrant used to search Libertowski's house as is required by the laws of both states.

The prosecution, however, brought to the stand Friday a lieutenant from the homicide division of the South Bend police department who testified that he brought the search warrant and probable cause affidavit to Libertowski's house, and after being advised by two Michigan state troopers to Michigan law, left the papers at the house, as is required by both states.

Lt. Spandward Mitchem testified that since police didn't have any keys to the house they broke open and entered through a window. Libertowski was locked in the St. Joseph, Ind., county jail at the time of the search waiting trial in the Langes case.

During cross-examination White asked Mitchem if he had told Glenn Miller, Libertowski's attorney in the Indiana case, during a break in court proceedings that he never saw any of the probable cause affidavits the day police searched Libertowski's house. Mitchem denied making the statement.

After four days of testimony, the prosecution's key witness, Myron Hunsberger, 42, of South Bend, has yet to testify. Hunsberger, a former business partner of Libertowski, has told police that Libertowski admitted to him that he killed both Mrs. Sanders and Miss Langes.

Seventeen persons have already testified during the four-day preliminary examination, and at least six more are expected to take the stand before it is over.

FORCE EXTENDED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council has approved a one-year extension for the U.N. peacekeeping force in the Sinai desert.

A Funny Thing Happened...

Lights, Camera, Action

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — It may be better to light a candle than to curse the darkness, but a Duluth group has found it is sometimes necessary to go the next step and flip the lights. A senior citizens' group invited reporters to a candlelight news conference Friday to protest an electric rate increase by Minnesota Power & Light Co. But the electric lights had to be turned on so television cameras could get enough illumination to film the protest.

An Unsound Barrier

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The city of Buffalo was spending $135,000 to build a wall. Now it plans to begin spending $16,000 Monday to tear it down. The wall of brown bricks began going up in mid-August around a park-like area near City Hall as part of a $375,000 "beautification" project. Critics saw it as an eyesore and a haven for muggers and rapists. Their campaign included letters to newspapers, editorials, a demonstration and telephone calls to Mayor Stanley Makowski. After a meeting with a blue-ribbon committee of civic leaders, Makowski saw the critics' side.

He ordered a temporary halt of construction, and the Common Council cleared the funds for the wall's demise.

No 'Fords' Wanted

ATLANTA (AP) — Motorcades that will cross Georgia Oct. 30 and 31 to demonstrate support for Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter may be missing an often popular vehicle — the Ford.

An organizer said "trucks, tractors, trailers and every type of motorized vehicle except Fords" have been invited.

"Those who must, of necessity, resort to Fords, will be supplied with some type of insignia indicating that 'This Ford is for Carter,'" said a campaigner.

A Carter spokesman compared the motorcade in the Democratic nominee's home state to Gen. William Sherman's "march through Georgia."

He said he hoped the strings of vehicles would drive from border to border.

Today In MICHIGAN

He Calls 'Em 'Reactionary'

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — "Some of the most reactionary people in the country" are among beverage industry opponents of banning throwaway bottles, according to Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield. Hatfield said here Friday that banning nonreturnable beverage containers in Oregon has cut down on litter, increased employment in the beverage industry and has not raised the price of beer and soft drinks. Opponents to "Proposition A" on the November ballot in Michigan, which would ban throwaways, have claimed opposite effects — no decrease in litter, lost jobs and higher prices. But Hatfield said Friday such opponents reflect just an "establishment mentality."

Bad News For Mammoth Center

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Construction work could be shut down within 30 days at the mammoth Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit because of safety hazards uncovered by a state investigative panel. The development's prime contractor is expected to appeal a ruling by a state Labor Department panel requiring installation of electric interlock devices on all construction elevators at the site. The appeal would be made in a county circuit court. The ruling was made by the Board of Health and Safety Compliance and Appeals, and goes into effect in 30 days unless a company appeal results in a court order blocking the rule. Tishman Construction Co. argued the mechanical safety locks on the temporary elevators are adequate and they should not be required to install electric safety locks because of a variance granted by the City of Detroit.

Gang Attacks Girl, 15

DETROIT (AP) — Police are looking for a gang of youths who raped the 15-year-old daughter of a high-ranking city official after the girl fled her family home following a quarrel with her mother. Police said the girl was attacked by a group of 10 youths Friday, two of whom sexually molested her. Authorities would not identify the girl beyond saying she was the daughter of a top-level Detroit official. Police said both the girl and her attackers were black. They said after quarreling with her mother the girl left her home and was walking through the nearby Palmer Park when she was accosted.

TAKING DIVORCE: David and Angela Boyter, married couple from Ellicott City, Maryland, are planning to get divorced for second time next month and plan to marry for third time in early January. The couple said second divorce is their way of protesting the "absurdity of the tax laws," which require married couple to pay higher federal income taxes than two single unmarried adults living together. Question Debate Format it already had."

The panel generally viewed Carter as prevailing on the economic issue, and several mentioned his response on Ford's veto of a strip-mining bill as a debating plus.

Ford and Carter departed after the debates for the final last 10 days of campaigning before the election. Ford had no plans to return to the White House before election day. But Carter planned to take a rest break Sunday and Monday at his Plains, Ga., home.

During the debate, the state of the economy and the comparative qualifications of the two vice presidential candidates were the topics that prompted the sharpest exchanges.

Both candidates seemed even more cautious, more wary of making a slip that could prove disastrous at this late stage of the campaign, than they had been during their first two encounters.

None of the three presidential debates was a free-swinging encounter. All were marked by responses that echoed the candidates' stump speeches.

"No one knows how it's going to come out," Carter said after the debate, referring to the campaign.

Ford left the hall quickly, and his brief post-debate comments were similar to what he had said after the first two meetings: "It went very well. I am optimistic. I enjoyed it."

In the week before the third debate, a national sample of 1,602 registered voters was recruited by Chilton Research of Radnor, Pa. These persons agreed to accept a telephone call after the debate.

In the AP poll, a sample of 1,027 viewers in the hour after the debate showed 35.5 per cent thought Ford won; 33.1 per cent gave the debate to Carter, and 31.4 per cent said they didn't know who won or considered it a draw.

However, the 2.4 percentage points separating Carter and Ford cannot be projected reliably to stand for the nation as a whole because the margin of error for a sample this size is about 2.9 per cent in either direction.

Moreover, the interviewers for the survey found a smaller percentage of the preselected sample watched this debate than the first two. The voters who did watch tended to be older and were slightly more likely to be Republicans than Democrats.

Asked after the debate to state their preference for President, those interviewed responded this way: Ford 48 per cent, Carter 44.9 per cent and undecided 4.1 per cent. Because of the margin of possible error, these figures might be reversed in a poll of every viewer in the nation.

These results appear to conflict with results of a post-debate poll conducted for Public Broadcasting Service by Burns Roper. That survey gave Carter a 40 per cent to 29 per cent edge among 353 viewers who were asked who had won the third debate. The remainder called it a draw. Projected nationwide, such a poll could have an error margin of six percentage points in either direction, meaning the result could be 35-34 for Ford.

An Associated Press poll after the first debate, which covered the economy and other domestic issues, gave Ford a narrow edge of 34.4 per cent to Carter's 31.8 per cent. In the second debate, covering foreign policy and defense issues, Carter was given the edge by a narrow margin of 38.2 per cent to Ford's 34.6 per cent.

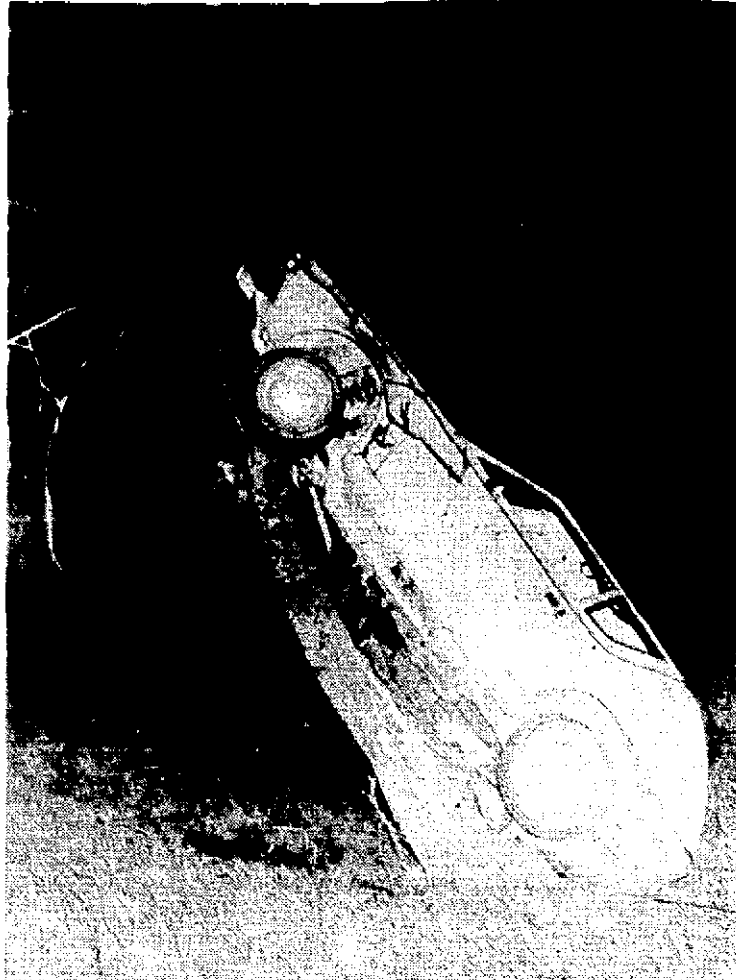

Republican Sen. Bob Dole, Ford's vice presidential running mate, declared as soon as the debate had ended that "President Ford clearly won ... This was the payoff, this was the big banana."

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, said Ford demonstrated during the debate that he "has no plans for dealing with the real problems of this country."

The Minnesota senator watched the nationally broadcast debate at a Washington hotel. He said the President "has no plans on how to put people to work." Mondale added that Carter's "most devastating points were in the economic field."

Ford and Carter each tried to give a boost to his vice presidential choice during the debate.

When Carter was asked what sort of people he would choose for key posts if he were elected president, he cited his choice of TREE CLIMBER: Kelly Mielke, 19, Allegan, escaped serious injury last night after his car left a Casco township road and ran up a tree. State police from South Haven said Mielke's car failed to make a curve at 72nd street at North Shore drive at about 11:10 p.m. Mielke was treated at South Haven Community hospital for facial cuts. He was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquors. (Tom Renner photo)

Mondale and said "the only criterion I ever put forward in my own mind was who among the several million people in this country would be the best person qualified to be president if something should happen to me ... Mr. Ford has had the same choice to make. I don't want to say anything critical of Sen. Dole ..."

Ford said he used the same criteria and found Dole fully qualified to be president. Ford then criticized Mondale for saying that he didn't think Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was qualified to be a sewer commissioner.

Mondale commented after Brown made statements in an interview that Ford characterized as "ill advised." Brown described Israel as a military burden and criticized England and the Shah of Iran.

Ford defended Brown during the debate and said he didn't believe Mondale's description of the Air Force general was "proper."

"I think Sen. Bob Dole would show more good judgment and discretion than to so describe a heroic and brave and very outstanding leader of the military," the President said.

Earlier, Ford was asked why Brown, who got into trouble once before when he alleged that American Jews had a disproportionate share of control of the nation's banks and the news media, still was the country's top military officer. The President replied:

"Gen. Brown has an exemplary record of military performance ... Now he did use ill-advised words, but I think the fact that he apologized, that he was reprimanded, does permit him to stay."

Ford was asked about figures indicating there was a pause in the nation's recovery from the economic recession.

"... Most economists, regardless of their political philosophy, indicate that this pause for a month or two was healthy," he said. "Now, I'd like to point out as well that the United States' economic recovery from the recession of a year ago is well ahead of the economic recovery of any major free industrial nation in the world today ... We're going to see unemployment going down, more jobs available, and the rate of inflation going down."

"With all due respect to President Ford," responded Carter, "I think he ought to be ashamed of mentioning that statement, because we have the highest unemployment rate now than we had at any time between the Great Depression caused by Herbert Hoover and the time President Ford took office."

Carter added that "we'll never have a balanced budget. We'll never meet the needs of our people, we'll never control the inflationary spiral, as long as we have 7.5 or 8 million people out of work."

Town Battles Muskrats

LOAMI, Ill. (AP) — In a war against muskrats who have been drawing off its water supply, this community of 800 has decided to plug up the animals' burrows with clay and then wall them off with cement. "We never thought they would cause us all this trouble," said Henry Brown, president of the town board. "But this town is not going to be licked by a pack of rats, I can tell you that." The board decided Friday night to have a state engineer examine clay from the east bank of the town reservoir, which hasn't been affected by the muskrats' burrowing, to determine whether it can be used to fill the holes in the west bank, where the muskrats have been active. Once the holes are filled, a concrete wall can be built, Brown said. Then the townspeople can concentrate on capturing the muskrats with traps.

Christians Overrun Town

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Despite a three-day-old ceasefire, Lebanese Christians overrun a garrison town in south Lebanon today and laid siege to another, according to Christian communiqué. Libertowski's Hearing Delayed In Evidence Flap

By JOHN FENNEL
Staff Writer

Gerald Libertowski's preliminary examination was adjourned Friday until Nov. 4 because of a legal battle over the admissibility of evidence. Berrien Fifth District Judge Ronald J. Taylor adjourned the case at the request of Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jeffrey Long and defense Attys. Stanley White and David Peterson to permit them to research the legality of a search warrant.

The battle concerns whether or not to allow Janis Sanders' wallet and its contents, which police found in an inaccessible part of a crawl space in Libertowski's South Bend home, as evidence in the case. The point first came up Thursday and continued into Friday's session. Libertowski is accused of murdering Mrs. Sanders.

According to Taylor there is some question whether the warrant that allowed the search of Libertowski's home April 13 was legal. It was during that search that police found Mrs. Sanders' wallet.

During the search police broke open a 10-by-7 foot hole in the cement block wall and found the wallet lying in a corner.

The attorneys will present

briefs to Taylor who will make a ruling on the legality of the warrant.

Mrs. Sanders, 24, a divorcee and mother of two children was last seen July 21, 1975 in Niles.

Libertowski, 34, was acquitted in August of murder in connection with the disappearance of Janice Langs, 21. Both women were former girlfriends of Libertowski and both had at one time lived with him. Neither of their bodies have been found.

Taylor said the legal question concerns the procedure used in executing the warrant and whether Indiana or Michigan law applies in serving that warrant.

Depending on which state law is applicable, there is a possibility that the wallet may not be admitted as evidence, Taylor said.

Defense attorney Stanley White said that he is investigating the possibility that no probable cause affidavits were attached to the warrant used to search Libertowski's house as is required by the laws of both states.

The prosecution, however, brought to the stand Friday a lieutenant from the homicide division of the South Bend police department who testified that he brought the search warrant to Libertowski's house, and after being advised by two Michigan state troopers to Michigan law, left the papers at the house, as is required by both states.

Lt. Spandward Mitchem testified that since police didn't have any keys to the house they broke open and entered through a window. Libertowski was locked in the St. Joseph, Ind., county jail at the time of the search waiting trial in the Langs case.

During cross-examination White asked Mitchem if he had told Glenn Miller, Libertowski's attorney in the Indiana case, during a break in court proceedings that he never saw any of the probable cause affidavits the day police searched Libertowski's house. Mitchem denied making the statement.

After four days of testimony, the prosecution's key witness, Myron Hunsberger, 42, of South Bend, has yet to testify. Hunsberger, a former business partner of Libertowski, has told police that Libertowski admitted to him that he killed both Mrs. Sanders and Miss Langs.

Seventeen persons have already testified during the four-day preliminary examination, and at least six more are expected to take the stand before it is over.

FORCE EXTENDED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council has approved a one-year extension for the U.N. peacekeeping force in the Sinai desert.

A Funny Thing Happened...

Lights, Camera, Action

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — It may be better to light a candle than to curse the darkness, but a Duluth group has found it is sometimes necessary to go the next step and flip the lights-witch. A senior citizens' group invited reporters to a candlelight news conference Friday to protest an electric rate increase by Minnesota Power & Light Co. But the electric lights had to be turned on so television cameras could get enough illumination to film the protest.

An Unsound Barrier

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The city of Buffalo was spending $135,000 to build a wall. Now it plans to begin spending $16,000 Monday to tear it down. The wall of brown bricks began going up in mid-August around a park-like area near City Hall as part of a $75,000 "beautification" project. Critics saw it as an eyesore and a haven for muggers and rapists. Their campaign included letters to newspapers, editorials, a demonstration and telephone calls to Mayor Stanley Makowski. After a meeting with a blue-ribbon committee of civic leaders, Makowski saw the critics' side.

He ordered a temporary halt of construction, and the Common Council cleared the funds for the wall's demise.

No 'Fords' Wanted

ATLANTA (AP) — Motorcades that will cross Georgia Oct. 30 and 31 to demonstrate support for Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter may be missing an often popular vehicle — the Ford.

An organizer said "trucks, tractors, trailers and every type of motorized vehicle except Fords" have been invited.

"Those who must, of necessity, resort to Fords, will be supplied with some type of insignia indicating that 'This Ford is for Carter,'" said a campaigner.

A Carter spokesman compared the motorcade in the Democratic nominee's home state to Gen. William Sherman's "march through Georgia."

He said he hoped the strings of vehicles would drive from border to border.

Today In MICHIGAN

He Calls 'Em 'Reactionary'

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — "Some of the most reactionary people in the country" are among beverage industry opponents of banning throwaway bottles, according to Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield. Hatfield said here Friday that banning nonreturnable beverage containers in Oregon has cut down on litter, increased employment in the beverage industry and has not raised the price of beer and soft drinks. Opponents to "Proposal A" on the November ballot in Michigan, which would ban throwaways, have claimed opposite effects — no decrease in litter, lost jobs and higher prices. But Hatfield said Friday such opponents reflect just an "establishment mentality."

Bad News For Mammoth Center

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Construction work could be shut down within 50 days at the mammoth Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit because of safety hazards uncovered by a state investigative panel. The development's prime contractor is expected to appeal a ruling by a state Labor Department panel requiring installation of electric interlock devices on all construction elevators at the site. The appeal would be made in a county circuit court. The ruling was made by the Board of Health and Safety Compliance and Appeals, and goes into effect in 50 days unless a company appeal results in a court order blocking the rule. Tishman Construction Co. argued the mechanical safety locks on the temporary elevators are adequate and they should not be required to install electric safety locks because of a variance granted by the City of Detroit.

Gang Attacks Girl, 15

DETROIT (AP) — Police are looking for a gang of youths who raped the 15-year-old daughter of a high-ranking city official after the girl fled her family home following a quarrel with her mother. Police said the girl was attacked by a group of 10 youths Friday, two of whom sexually molested her. Authorities would not identify the girl beyond saying she was the daughter of a top-level Detroit official. Police said both the girl and her attackers were black. They said after quarreling with her mother the girl left her home and was walking through the nearby Palmer Park when she was accosted.

TAXING DIVORCE: David and Angela Boyter, married couple from Ellicott City, Maryland, are planning to get divorced for second time next month and plan to marry for third time in early January. Question Debate Format

it already had."

The panel generally viewed Carter as prevailing on the economic issue, and several mentioned his response on Ford's veto of a strip-mining bill as a debating plus.

Ford and Carter departed after the debates for the final last 10 days of campaigning before the election. Ford had no plans to return to the White House before election day. But Carter planned to take a rest break Sunday and Monday at his Plains, Ga., home.

During the debate, the state of the economy and the comparative qualifications of the two vice presidential candidates were the topics that prompted the sharpest exchanges.

Both candidates seemed even more cautious, more wary of making a slip that could prove disastrous at this late stage of the campaign, than they had been during their first two encounters.

None of the three presidential debates was a free-swinging encounter. All were marked by responses that echoed the candidates' stump speeches.

"No one knows how it's going to come out," Carter said after the debate, referring to the campaign.

Ford left the hall quickly, and his brief post-debate comments were similar to what he had said after the first two meetings: "It went very well. I am optimistic. I enjoyed it."

In the week before the third debate, a national sample of 1,602 registered voters was recruited by Chilton Research of Radnor, Pa. These persons agreed to accept a telephone call after the debate.

In the AP poll, a sample of 1,027 viewers in the hour after the debate showed 35.5 per cent thought Ford won; 33.1 per cent gave the debate to Carter, and 31.4 per cent said they didn't know who won or considered it a draw.

However, the 2.4 percentage points separating Carter and Ford cannot be projected reliably to stand for the nation as a whole because the margin of error for a sample this size is about 2.9 per cent in either direction.

Moreover, the interviewers for the survey found a smaller percentage of the preselected sample watched this debate than the first two. The voters who did watch tended to be older and were slightly more likely to be Republicans than Democrats.

Asked after the debate to state their preference for President, those interviewed responded this way: Ford 49 per cent, Carter 44.9 per cent and undecided 4.1 per cent. Because of the margin of possible error, these figures might be reversed in a poll of every viewer in the nation.

These results appear to conflict with results of a post-debate poll conducted for Public Broadcasting Service by Burns Roper. That survey gave Carter a 40 per cent to 29 per cent edge among 353 viewers who were asked who had won the third debate. The remainder called it a draw. Projected nationwide, such a poll could have an error margin of six percentage points in either direction, meaning the result could be 35-34 for Ford.

An Associated Press poll after the first debate, which covered the economy and other domestic issues, gave Ford a narrow edge of 34.4 per cent to Carter's 31.8 per cent. In the second debate, covering foreign policy and defense issues, Carter was given the edge by a narrow margin of 38.2 per cent to Ford's 34.6 per cent.

Republican Sen. Bob Dole, Ford's vice presidential running mate, declared as soon as the debate had ended that "President Ford clearly won ... This was the payoff, this was the big banana."

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, said Ford demonstrated during the debate that he "has no plans for dealing with the real problems of this country."

The Minnesota senator watched the nationally broadcast debate at a Washington hotel. He said the President "has no plans on how to put people to work." Mondale added that Carter's "most devastating points were in the economic field."

Ford and Carter each tried to give a boost to his vice presidential choice during the debate.

When Carter was asked what sort of people he would choose for key posts if he were elected president, he cited his choice of

Mondale and said "the only criterion I ever put forward in my own mind was who among the several million people in this country would be the best person qualified to be president if something should happen to me ... Mr. Ford has had the same choice to make. I don't want to say anything critical of Sen. Dole ..."

Ford said he used the same criteria and found Dole fully qualified to be president. Ford then criticized Mondale for saying that he didn't think Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was qualified to be a sewer commissioner.

Mondale commented after Brown made statements in an interview that Ford characterized as "ill advised." Brown described Israel as a military burden and criticized England and the Shah of Iran.

Ford defended Brown during the debate and said he didn't believe Mondale's description of the Air Force general was "proper."

"I think Sen. Bob Dole would show more good judgment and discretion than to so describe a heroic and brave and very outstanding leader of the military," the President said.

Earlier, Ford was asked why Brown, who got into trouble once before when he alleged that American Jews had a disproportionate share of control of the nation's banks and the news media, still was the country's top military officer. The President replied:

"Gen. Brown has an exemplary record of military performance ... Now he did use ill-advised words, but I think the fact that he apologized, that he was reprimanded, does permit him to stay."

Ford was asked about figures indicating there was a pause in the nation's recovery from the economic recession.

"Most economists, regardless of their political philosophy, indicate that this pause for a month or two was healthy," he said. "Now, I'd like to point out as well that the United States' economic recovery from the recession of a year ago is well ahead of the economic recovery of any major free industrial nation in the world today ... We're going to see unemployment going down, more jobs available, and the rate of inflation going down."

"With all due respect to President Ford," responded Carter, "I think he ought to be ashamed of mentioning that statement, because we have the highest unemployment rate now than we had at any time between the Great Depression caused by Herbert Hoover and the time President Ford took office."

Carter added that "we'll never have a balanced budget. We'll never meet the needs of our people, we'll never control the inflationary pressure, as long as we have 7.5 or 8 million people out of work."

Town Battles Muskrats

LOAMI, Ill. (AP) — In a war against muskrats who have been drawing off its water supply, this community of 800 has decided to plug up the animals' burrows with clay and then wall them off with cement. "We never thought they would cause us all this trouble," said Henry Brown, president of the town board. "But this town is not going to be licked by a pack of rats, I can tell you that." The board decided Friday night to have a state engineer examine clay from the east bank of the town reservoir, which hasn't been affected by the muskrats' burrowing, to determine whether it can be used to fill the holes in the west bank, where the muskrats have been active. Once the holes are filled, a concrete wall can be built, Brown said. Then the townspeople can concentrate on capturing the muskrats with traps.

Harvey Leads Healthy Northern Past St. Joe, 17-7

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

PORTAGE — Portage Northern is healthy again. Just ask St. Joseph coach Ike Muhlkamp.

The Huskies all but eliminated the Bears from the Big Seven race Friday night, posting a 17-7 victory before more than 3,500 fans at McKinley field here.

"They're a healthy ballclub," Muhlkamp said. "And that made the difference. They just outlasted us up front."

"We came back and played well in the second half," he added. "We had our chances but they wouldn't let us back into the game."

Senior quarterback Tom Harvey proved to be the difference for Northern. Harvey, making his first start of the season, rushed for 150 yards in 19 carries and broke St. Joe's back with a 52-yard touchdown run in the final quarter.

"Harvey adds more dimension to our offense," Northern coach Bud Breed said. "That's why I started him. He's a tough kid and runs the 40 in 4.8. He's a good runner and a good thrower. It's the combination of these two things which make him stand out. He also has good hands and very seldom fumbles."

The victory was especially pleasing to Breed because it dropped St. Joe to 2-2 in the league, two full games behind Kalamazoo Loy Norrix with only two games left. St. Joe is 4-2 overall.

The win was Northern's first after four straight league setbacks.

"The kids are starting to get well and we're playing good defense," Breed said. "We could've won last week (against Portage Central). I feel we can play with anybody in the league as long as we stay healthy."

Northern's defense limited the Bears to only 42 yards rushing, while the Huskie offense ran for 239 yards of its own.

"The defense really is beginning to believe in themselves," Breed said. "They're beginning to get physical. We shut St. Joe's running game right off."

With its running game shut off, St. Joe was forced into an aerial show. Quarterbacks Barry Coburn and Steve Ziebart combined to complete 10 of 20 passes for 158 yards.

Both wide receivers, Keene Taylor and Ted Dongvillo, had outstanding games. Taylor caught five passes for 92 yards and Dongvillo pulled in five for 66 yards.

It was Dongvillo who scored the only Bear touchdown, catching a 16-yard scoring strike from Ziebart with 8:35 left in the game.

"Dongvillo is a very good receiver," Muhlkamp said. "He has good speed and a good pair of hands. He has good height and concentrates well on the ball."

Shortly after Dongvillo's TD appeared to get the Bears back in the game. Harvey took them right out again. On the fourth play after the St. Joe kickoff, Harvey broke a pair of tackles at the line of scrimmage and outran the secondary 52 yards into the end zone to clinch the victory.

Northern grabbed a 10-0 lead at halftime. Al Zuidweg capped a 66-yard, 13-play drive with a three-yard run early in the second quarter to put the Huskies on the board.

Jim Lockwood, who was perfect on two extra point tries, booted a 35-yard field goal with 3:50 left in the half to stretch the margin to 10-0.

But it could have been worse.

In the final minute of the first half, Northern used a 33-yard pass from Harvey to Rick Berner to move to the Bear four. But after a 15-yard penalty for intentional grounding moved the ball back to the 16, Lockwood was wide on a 33-yard field goal attempt.

A six-yard TD run by sophomore John Eaton late in the game was called back by a holding penalty against Northern.

Now all but out of the race for the league title, St. Joe must assume the spoiler's role.

"We have to play for pride, now," Muhlkamp admitted. "We have to play for a winning season and play to upset whoever is left in the race."

St. Joe will get its first chance next Friday, traveling to Portage Central to face the only team with a legitimate chance yet to catch league-leading Kalamazoo Loy Norrix.

Brister, Jager Spark Lancers

By JOHN VANDEN HEEDE

COLOMA — The Odell Brister-Tom Jager show, with supporting help from Kevin Campbell and a stout Lakeshore defense, upstaged Coloma here Friday night.

Brister raced 78 yards for one touchdown and hit Jager with a 62-yard halfback TD pass as the Lancers eclipsed the Comets 22-0 in a Blossomland parents' night game here at McDaniel's Field.

Jager, a standout senior split end, caught six passes overall for 125 yards, as quarterback Campbell hit on six of 12 attempts.

Meanwhile, the Lakeshore defense held off Coloma. The Comets never got beyond the Lancer 34 yard line.

It was Lakeshore's fourth straight victory and set up a showdown with league-leading Brantleyville next Friday on the Lancer gridiron. Lakeshore is now second in the conference at 4-1, while the Bobcats stand on top at 5-0.

Lakeshore's first touchdown Friday came in the first quarter after the teams opened the game with an exchange of punts. The Lancers marched 80 yards in 14 plays, with fullback Bob Harvey going the final three yards for the touchdown.

During the drive Jager caught three passes from Campbell — all for first downs. "Anybody who tries to cover Jager one-on-one is going to be in trouble," commented Lakeshore coach Dave Topping on the Lancer passing success.

It remained 6-0 at halftime, with the Lancers adding their other two touchdowns in the third quarter on Brister's long run and long pass.

"The big thing was we got the big play, as usual, and they didn't," continued Topping. "We haven't used the halfback pass much, and they didn't know we had it. They came up for the sweep and Jager was all alone."

Topping also noted that Brister "looked good on that 78-yard run. He broke a couple of tackles and did everything a coach could ask for."

But Brister suffered a knee injury early in the fourth quarter and missed the rest of the game. His status for next week wasn't immediately known.

Even though Lakeshore, the fourth highest scoring team in southwestern Michigan entering the game (26.6 per game), scored more than 20 points for the fifth straight time, Coloma's defense, especially the front seven, played well. The Lancers got all of its big gainers while getting loose in the secondary.

"We don't have athletes that can run with Jager or Brister," stated Coloma coach Bob Irvin. "But overall we thought we played a pretty decent game."

He said the secondary was trying to prevent Jager from getting the big play and did a "good job in that respect," except for the halfback pass. "We hadn't seen that," added Irvin. "Our kids were drilled to take that sweep away."

The only first downs Lakeshore got in the second half were on the touchdown plays. Doing a good job up front for the Comets were linemen Dan Kolenko, Phil Iannelli, Tony Greco, Mark Schrieber and Dennis Oettle, plus linebackers Dennis Ory and Dan Soderborg. The Coloma coaches also thought that cornerback Rich Scherer had an excellent defensive game.

Topping also praised his defense, after watching the Lancers post their second straight shutout. "Our kids were tackling well and angling well," he stated.

Lakeshore had Mike Mason, Joe Rodriguez, Greg Hopkins, Mark Floriani and Jim Curry across the front and Tim DeVoor and Jamie Lingle at linebacker. Harvey also played on the defensive line.

The leading rusher for Lakeshore, now 4-2 overall, was Brister with 104 yards in 14 carries. Coloma, now 2-3 in the Blossomland and 2-4 on the season, had Tom Vandervort — the area's fourth leading rusher going into the game — with 90 yards and Ory with 69.

The victory was Lakeshore's sixth straight over Coloma. The Lancers have outscored the Comets 150-29 over that stretch.

Banged-Up Panthers End Lakers' Title Hopes

By PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

WATERVLIET — Not too many teams have Lake Michigan Catholic's number. But not many teams have a head coach like Jerry Barchett.

Watervliet's mentor put his banged-up charges on the field here Friday night, and the Panthers came through with a 14-6 Red Arrow conference victory over the Lakers in high school football.

This is the sixth time in the eight-year history of the series that Watervliet has come out the victor. The Panthers have now outscored the Lakers 152-98.

The loss virtually ended Catholic's title hopes, as it slips to 3-2 in the conference and 4-2 overall. Watervliet is also 3-2 in the league and 3-3 this season.

"This game was important to us because we needed it to have a winning season," commented Barchett after the game.

Watervliet has been plagued with injuries the entire season, but the Panthers keep bouncing back. One griddier who won't bounce back for the rest of the season is Jon Hinkelman. The tailback suffered a shoulder injury in the second quarter and Barchett doesn't think he will play again this year.

Hinkelman had gained 55 yards on 11 carries before getting cracked up. Mark Bolin then stepped into the tailback spot, and most of the small crowd would have thought no change was made at all.

Bolin responded by gaining 71 yards on 10 carries on offense.

On defense, the junior made several key tackles for losses. "Mark just played a fine football game for us," grinned Barchett. "When he went in, it didn't hurt our offense at all."

Brian Piggott, the guard converted to fullback, looked impressive, gaining 71 yards on 17 carries and scoring the go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter on a one yard run.

For the Lakers, Gary Bartalone was about the only bright spot. The senior back gained 104 yards on 19 carries to up his season total to 928 yards.

Tony Nelson also came through for Terry Rose's charges. The senior speedster notched 75 yards on five carries. He got 58 of those yards on one play with 41 seconds left in the first half, when he burst through the line and simply out-tran everyone to score Catholic's only touchdown.

Except for that run and a long Laker drive near the end of the contest, the game belonged to the Panthers. They controlled the line of scrimmage so much that the Lakers had just one yard rushing until Bartalone burst out the middle for a 24-yard gain with 1:10 left in the first half.

"I thought we could control the line," Barchett indicated. "Our offensive line came off the ball nicely, too."

"Our inexperience showed for us tonight," said a dejected Rose. "They shifted defenses on us and our immaturity showed by not handling it. We were hesitating on our blocks and Watervliet was getting by us."

Hinkelman got the Panthers on the board in the second quarter, as he capped a 61-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown run with 7:31 left.

The Lakers then tied it up on Nelson's run. The drive started on their own 18-yard line, but Bartalone went the first 24 and Nelson went the last 58 on the next play.

Watervliet drove 64 yards on five plays, with Piggott going the last yard with 7:40 remaining in the third quarter. Bolin got most of the yardage with a 47-yard scamper on a second and nine situation.

Peak had one good chance to tie it up in the last quarter. An eight-play drive stalled, but a roughing the kicker penalty gave them the ball on Watervliet's 28-yard line. They drove it down to the six-yard line, but on a third down play with 2:30 left in the game, the Lakers were called for unsportsmanlike conduct, and were set back to the 21-yard line.

Greg Peak, son of Edwardsburg coach Ted Peak, also scored three TD's for the Eddies, two on pass interception returns of 20 and 66 yards. Peak also kicked four extra points.

"It was just a great game all the way around...things just went our way," coach Peak said. He also had high praise for his defensive unit. "Jeff Armstrong, Bob White and Jim Suski all had great defensive games for us," he said.

"I always knew Barella was a good, accurate passer...now he's getting the time to throw and his receivers are getting open," Peak said. His son, Greg, had three receptions for 73 yards, Rob Wilfert three receptions for 68 yards and Dennis Mock two catches for 44 yards.

The win boosts Edwardsburg conference mark to 3-2 and overall record to 4-2. River Valley is now 0-5 in the league and 1-5 overall.

Harvey Leads Healthy Northern Past St. Joe, 17-7

By JACK WALKDEN

PORTAGE — Portage Northern is healthy again. Just ask St. Joseph coach Ike Muhlenkamp.

The Huskies all but eliminated the Bears from the Big Seven race Friday night, posting a 17-7 victory before more than 3,500 fans at McKinley field here.

"They're a healthy ballclub," Muhlenkamp said. "And that made the difference. They just outlast us up front."

"We came back and played well in the second half," he added. "We had our chances but they wouldn't let us back into the game."

Senior quarterback Tom Harvey proved to be the difference

for Northern. Harvey, making his first start of the season, rushed for 160 yards in 19 carries and broke St. Joe's back with a 52-yard touchdown run in the final quarter.

"Harvey adds more dimension to our offense," Northern coach Bud Breed said. "That's why I started him. He's a tough kid and runs the 40 in 4.8. He's a good runner and a good thrower. It's the combination of those two things which make him stand out. He also has good hands and very seldom fumbles."

The victory was especially pleasing to Breed because it dropped St. Joe to 2-2 in the league, two full games behind Kalamazoo Loy Norrix with only two games left. St. Joe is 4-2 overall.

The win was Northern's first after four straight league setbacks.

"The kids are starting to get well and we're playing good defense," Breed said. "We could've won last week (against Portage Central). I feel we can play with anybody in the league as long as we stay healthy."

Northern's defense limited the Bears to only 42 yards rushing, while the Huskie offense ran for 239 yards of its own.

"The defense really is beginning to believe in themselves," Breed said. "They're beginning to get physical. We shut St. Joe's running game right off."

With its running game shut off, St. Joe was forced into an aerial show. Quarterbacks Barry Coburn and Steve Ziebart combined to complete 10 of 20 passes for 158 yards.

Both wide receivers, Keene Taylor and Ted Dongvillo, had outstanding games. Taylor caught five passes for 92 yards and Dongvillo pulled in five for 66 yards.

It was Dongvillo who scored the only Bear touchdown, catching a 16-yard scoring strike from Ziebart with 8:35 left in the game.

"Dongvillo is a very good receiver," Muhlenkamp said. "He has good speed and a good pair of hands. He has good height and concentrates well on the ball."

Shortly after Dongvillo's TD appeared to get the Bears back in the game. Harvey took them right out again. On the fourth play after the St. Joe kickoff, Harvey broke a pair of tackles at the line of scrimmage and outran the secondary 52 yards into the end zone to clinch the victory.

Northern grabbed a 10-0 lead at halftime. Al Zuidweg capped a 66-yard, 13-play drive with a three-yard run early in the second quarter to put the Huskies on the board.

Jim Lockwood, who was perfect on two extra point tries, booted a 25-yard field goal with 3:50 left in the half to stretch the margin to 10-0.

But it could have been worse.

In the final minute of the first half, Northern used a 33-yard pass from Harvey to Rick Berner to move to the Bear four. But after a 15-yard penalty for intentional grounding moved the ball back to the 16, Lockwood was wide on a 33-yard field goal attempt.

A six-yard TD run by sophomore John Eaton late in the game was called back by a holding penalty against Northern.

Now all but out of the race for the league title, St. Joe must assume the spoiler's role.

"We have to play for pride, now," Muhlenkamp admitted. "We have to play for a winning season and play to upset whoever is left in the race."

St. Joe will get its first chance next Friday, traveling to Portage Central to face the only team with a legitimate chance yet to catch league-leading Kalamazoo Loy Norrix.

Brister, Jager Spark Lancers

62-yard halfback TD pass as the Lancers eclipsed the Comets 22-0 in a Blossomland parents' night game here at McDaniel's Field.

Jager, a standout senior split end, caught six passes overall for 125 yards, as quarterback Campbell hit on six of 12 attempts.

Meanwhile, the Lakeshore defense held off Coloma. The Comets never got beyond the Lancer 34 yard line.

It was Lakeshore's fourth straight victory and set up a showdown with league-leading Brandywine next Friday on the Lancer gridiron. Lakeshore is now second in the conference at 4-1, while the Bobcats stand on top at 5-0.

Lakeshore's first touchdown Friday came in the first quarter after the teams opened the game with an exchange of punts. The Lancers marched 80 yards in 14 plays, with fullback Bob Harvey going the final three yards for the touchdown.

During the drive Jager caught three passes from Campbell — all for first downs. "Anybody who tries to cover Jager one-on-one is going to be in trouble," commented Lakeshore coach Dave Topping on the Lancer passing success.

It remained 6-0 at halftime, with the Lancers adding their other two touchdowns in the third quarter on Brister's long run and long pass.

"The big thing was we got the big play, as usual, and they didn't," continued Topping. "We haven't used the halfback pass much, and they didn't know we had it. They came up for the sweep and Jager was all alone."

Topping also noted that Brister "looked good on that 78-yard run. He broke a couple of tackles and did everything a coach could ask for."

But Brister suffered a knee injury early in the fourth quarter and missed the rest of the game. His status for next week wasn't immediately known.

Even though Lakeshore, the fourth highest scoring team in southwestern Michigan entering the game (26.6 per game), scored more than 20 points for the fifth straight time, Coloma's defense, especially the front seven, played well. The Lancers got all of its big gainers while getting loose in the secondary.

"We don't have athletes that can run with Jager or Brister," stated Coloma coach Bob Irvin. "But overall we thought we played a pretty decent game."

He said the secondary was trying to prevent Jager from getting the big play and did a "good job in that respect," except for the halfback pass. "We hadn't seen that," added Irvin. "Our kids were drilled to take that sweep away."

The only first downs Lakeshore got in the second half were on the touchdown plays. Doing a good job up front for the Comets were linemen Dan Kolenko, Phil Iannelli, Tony Greco, Mark Schrieber and Dennis Oettle, plus linebackers Dennis Ory and Dan Soderborg. The Coloma coaches also thought that cornerback Rich Scherer had an excellent defensive game.

Topping also praised his defense, after watching the Lancers post their second straight shutout. "Our kids were tackling well and angling well," he stated.

Lakeshore had Mike Mason, Joe Rodriguez, Greg Hopkins, Mark Florian and Jim Curry across the front and Tim DeVoir and Jamie Lingle at linebacker. Harvey also played on the defensive line.

The leading rusher for Lakeshore, now 4-2 overall, was Brister with 104 yards in 14 carries. Coloma, now 2-3 in the Blossomland and 2-4 on the season, had Tom Vandervort — the area's fourth leading rusher going into the game — with 90 yards and Ory with 69.

The victory was Lakeshore's sixth straight over Coloma. The Lancers have outscored the Comets 150-29 over that stretch.

Banged-Up Panthers End Lakers' Title Hopes

WATERVLIET — Not too many teams have Lake Michigan Catholic's number. But not many teams have a head coach like Jerry Barchett.

Watervliet's mentor put his banged-up charges on the field here Friday night, and the Panthers came through with a 14-6 Red Arrow conference victory over the Lakers in high school football.

This is the sixth time in the eight-year history of the series that Watervliet has come out the victor. The Panthers have now outscored the Lakers 152-98.

The loss virtually ended Catholic's title hopes, as it slips to 3-2 in the conference and 4-2 overall. Watervliet is also 3-2 in the league and 3-3 this season.

"This game was important to us because we needed it to have a winning season," commented Barchett after the game.

Watervliet has been plagued with injuries the entire season, but the Panthers keep bouncing back. One griddier who won't bounce back for the rest of the season is Jon Hinkelman. The tailback suffered a shoulder injury in the second quarter and Barchett doesn't think he will play again this year.

Hinkelman had gained 55 yards on 11 carries before getting cracked up. Mark Bolin then stepped into the tailback spot, and most of the small crowd would have thought no change was made at all.

Bolin responded by gaining 71 yards on 10 carries on offense. On defense, the junior made several key tackles for losses.

"Mark just played a fine football game for us," grinned Barchett. "When he went in, it didn't hurt our offense at all."

Brian Piggott, the guard converted to fullback, looked impressive, gaining 71 yards on 17 carries and scoring the go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter on a one-yard run.

For the Lakers, Gary Bartalone was about the only bright spot. The senior back gained 104 yards on 19 carries to up his season total to 928 yards.

Tony Nelson also came through for Terry Rose's charges. The senior speedster notched 75 yards on five carries. He got 58 of those yards on one play with 41 seconds left in the first half, when he burst through the line and simply outran everyone to score Catholic's only touchdown.

Except for that run and a long Laker drive near the end of the contest, the game belonged to the Panthers. They controlled the line of scrimmage so much that the Lakers had just one chance to tie it up in the last quarter. An eight-play drive stalled, but a roughing the kicker penalty gave them the ball on Watervliet's 28-yard line. They drove it down to the six-yard line, but on a third down play with 2:30 left in the game, the Lakers were called for unsportsmanlike conduct and were set back to the 21-yard line.

Marcellus Rips Decatur

DECATUR — If past performances mean anything, Marcellus has just clinched the Southwestern Athletic Conference football title.

The Wildcats rolled up 334 yards on the ground to completely demolish Decatur 38-0 here Friday night in high school football.

In five of the six previous years, the winner of this contest has gone on to take the SAC crown. Marcellus has a good chance at it as the Wildcats are now 4-0 in the league and 6-0 overall.

Steve Bradley and Lonnie Lewis did most of the damage for the eighth-ranked Class D team. Lewis romped for 210 yards on 27 carries, scored three touchdowns and had two extra point runs, while Bradley scored two touchdowns and ran for one conversion.

In the first quarter, Bradley scored on a 60-yard punt return. Both Bradley and Lewis ran for touchdowns in the second quarter of five yards each. Lewis then scored on a five-yard run in the third quarter and on a two-yard run in the fourth.

Lewis got most of his yardage behind the blocking of tight end Jerry Cornwell. "And he's as big as a house," commented Raiders' head coach Dan Raterink.

Marcellus was stifling on defense, as it allowed on 29 yards rushing and 54 yards passing. It also intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles.

Decatur's coach did single out the play of Lloyd Wilson, a defensive lineman. "He did a real good job on the line tonight," he said.

The Raiders are now 3-1 in the league and 4-2 overall.

Bucks Scalp Chiefs In Bud Win

BUCHANAN — Buchanan jumped off to a 16-0 lead and went on to topple Dowagiac 24-12 in Blossomland football action here Friday night.

Buchanan, which snapped a three-game losing slide, got on the scoreboard in the opening series when fullback Kent Cooper capped a 68-yard march with a one-yard touchdown run. During the march, Dowagiac was called for an encroachment penalty four times on third down plays, with three of them resulting in first downs.

Another lost fumble — this one by the Bucks — set up Dowagiac's first touchdown in the third quarter. The Chiefs scored in three plays from 15 yards out after the fumble recovery by Kurt Cox. Ironically, the touchdown also came on a fumble. Dowagiac tailback Dan Wieman fumbled the ball into the end zone and center Ken Oisten recovered the loose pigskin for the touchdown.

Buchanan matched Dowagiac's third quarter TD with tailback Jeff Haman scoring from one yard out to cap a 69-yard march.

Dowagiac then wrapped up the scoring in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by quarterback Larry McLaughlin. It finished a 60-yard drive in four plays which included an 86-yard pass play from McLaughlin to Tim Pugh.

Rick Davis ended up as the leading Buchanan rusher with 71 yards in 14 carries. Weinman had 57 in 15 tries for Dowagiac. McLaughlin also hit six of 16 passes for the Chiefs, with Pugh catching four for 125 yards.

Defensive standouts for Buchanan included Cooper at linebacker and defensive end John Donley.

Dowagiac, which is off to its worst start since 1956, is now 1-4 in the Blossomland and 1-5 on the season.

Bobcats Set Stage For Lancer Contest

NILES — Brandywine turned aside one threat to its Blossomland championship here Friday night, but another challenger is waiting in the wings.

The Bobcats, now 5-0 in the league, nipped Cassopolis 8-6 Friday and must now face Lakeshore (4-1) on the Lancer gridiron next week.

Brandywine, now 5-1 overall and ranked in the Associated Press Class B poll, scored against Cass in the second quarter on a one-yard touchdown run by quarterback Ed Pilarski. Pilarski then added what proved to be the winning points on a PAT pass to Greg Bestle.

The Bobcat TD drive covered 94 yards and included a 24-yard run by Gus Mayo. Norm Hollins also gained 69 yards in six carries during the drive.

Cassopolis got its touchdown in the third quarter on a five-yard run by tailback Tim Hartsell. But the run for a two-point PAT to tie the score failed. The Ranger drive covered 25 yards after a short Brandywine punt.

Brandywine finished with 288 yards in total offense, with Hollins gaining 122 yards in 19 carries and Mayo 50 in 10 tries. Cassopolis had 220 yards overall, with Hartsell rushing for 107 in 20 before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with an ankle injury. Brandywine's Bestle also suffered a hip injury in the game.

"It was a great football game," declared Brandywine coach Pete McCauley. "Cass is a fine football team, there is no question about it. We played the best defensive football game since I've coached at Brandywine (three years)."

Halfback Tom Fuller was among the Brandywine defensive standouts. He made three pass interceptions. Linebacker Scott Adams and defensive end Mike McCombs were also credited with playing excellent defensive games by McCauley.

Cassopolis, ranked in this week's Class C Associated Press poll, slipped to 3-2 in the league and 4-2 overall.

Lions Sign Bob Picard

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have signed free agent wide receiver Bob Picard just in time to take him along with them Sunday to Seattle, where they will play one of his former teams, the Seahawks.

The 26-year-old Picard, a graduate of Eastern Washington University, was the sixth round draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1973 and was captain of their specialty team last season.

In the off-season expansion draft, he was sent to Seattle but ultimately returned to the Eagles as a free agent.

The Lions said they would use him as a wide receiver and specialty team member. His signing brought the NFL team roster to its maximum of 43 players.

Berrien Beats Beavers, 30-6

Sunday Leads Shamrocks

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Tim Sunday is getting to be a Mr. Everything for Berrien Springs this season.

The senior quarterback rushed for 172 yards on 11 carries, scored two touchdowns and threw for one more to lead the Shamrocks to a 30-6 romp over Eau Claire here Friday night in a Red Arrow conference high school football game.

The win keeps Berrien Springs unbeaten in the league at 5-0 and tied for first place with Hartford. The two titans will meet here on Nov. 5 in what could be the championship game. The Shamrocks are 5-1 overall.

Sunday got most of his yards on his two scoring runs in the second half. On the first play from scrimmage in the second half, he ran the option around end and scampered 64 yards for the score.

In the fourth quarter, he did the same thing, this time going 32 yards for the touchdown.

"And he played his usually tough game on defense," commented head coach Dick Bartz.

The game was tied at 6-6 at the intermission, thanks to a tough Eau Claire defense and the Shamrocks' ability to hurt itself with penalties. In the contest, Berrien amassed 110 yards in infractions.

The Shamrocks got on the board first, as Sunday hit Dave Wilson with a 16-yard scoring pass. Jeff Harner came right back in the first quarter, bootlegging around end nine yards to tie up the contest.

In the second quarter, Berrien hurt itself badly with penalties. "In the second quarter, we had three 15-yard penalties," moaned Bartz. "We just didn't get anywhere."

But the defense rose to the occasion, as it stopped the Beavers, now 1-4 in the Red Arrow and 1-5 overall.

Bartz then changed his offensive strategy in the second half and it worked to perfection. "They were firing their linebackers inside and it hurt our trapping game," he said. "So we went more to the option in the second half and the linebackers got caught up inside."

After Sunday's touchdowns, Tom Michienzi closed out the Bartz wasn't pleased by the fact that Eau Claire ran 71 offensive plays to the Shamrocks' 20. "We had good yards per carry but they did a good job controlling the ball and got pretty good field position on us."

The defensive secondary allowed just one complete pass as Jack Lewis picked off three aerials. Roy Freeman and Ron Dosselberger also drew praise from Bartz.

Mourie Wright was the Beavers' leading ball carrier, gaining 83 yards on 24 carries. Joe Simaz added 60 yards on 19 carries.

Roger Johnson came through for the Shamrocks with 79 yards on nine carries.

Marcellus Rips Decatur

DECATUR — If past performances mean anything, Marcellus has just clinched the Southwestern Athletic Conference football title.

The Wildcats rolled up 334 yards on the ground to completely demolish Decatur 38-0 here Friday night in high school football.

In five of the six previous years, the winner of this contest has gone on to take the SAC crown. Marcellus has a good chance at it as the Wildcats are now 4-0 in the league and 6-0 overall.

In the first quarter, Bradley scored on a 60-yard punt return. Both Bradley and Lewis ran for touchdowns in the second quarter of five yards each. Lewis then scored on a five-yard run in the third quarter and on a two-yard run in the fourth.

Lewis got most of his yardage behind the blocking of tight end Jerry Cornwell. "And he's as big as a house," commented Raiders' head coach Don Raterink.

Marcellus was stifling on defense, as it allowed on 29 yards rushing and 54 yards passing. It also intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles.

Decatur's coach did single out the play of Lloyd Wilson, a defensive lineman. "He did a real good job on the line tonight," he said.

Berrien Beats Beavers, 30-6

Sunday Leads Shamrocks

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Tim Sunday is getting to be a Mr. Everything for Berrien Springs this season.

The senior quarterback rushed for 172 yards on 11 carries, scored two touchdowns and threw for one more to lead the Shamrocks to a 30-6 romp over Eau Claire here Friday night in a Red Arrow conference high school football game.

The win keeps Berrien Springs unbeaten in the league at 5-0 and tied for first place with Hartford. The two titans will meet here on Nov. 5 in what could be the championship game. The Shamrocks are 5-1 overall.

Sunday got most of his yards on his two scoring runs in the second half. On the first play from scrimmage in the second half, he ran the option around end and scampered 64 yards for the score.

In the fourth quarter, he did the same thing, this time going 32 yards for the touchdown.

"And he played his usually tough game on defense," commented head coach Dick Bartz.

The game was tied at 6-6 at the intermission, thanks to a tough Eau Claire defense and the Shamrocks' ability to hurt itself with penalties. In the contest, Berrien amassed 110 yards in infractions.

The Shamrocks got on the board first, as Sunday hit Dave Wilson with a 16-yard scoring pass. Jeff Harner came right back in the first quarter, bootlegging around end nine yards to tie up the contest.

In the second quarter, Berrien hurt itself badly with penalties. "In the second quarter, we had three 15-yard penalties," moaned Bartz. "We just didn't get anywhere."

But the defense rose to the occasion, as it stopped the Beavers, now 1-4 in the Red Arrow and 1-5 overall.

Bartz then changed his offensive strategy in the second half and it worked to perfection. "They were firing their linebackers inside and it hurt our trapping game," he said. "So we went more to the option in the second half and the

After Sunday's touchdowns, Tom Michienzi closed out the

Bucks Scalp Chiefs In Bud Win

BUCHANAN — Buchanan jumped off to a 16-0 lead and went on to topple Dowagiac 24-12 in Blossomland football action here Friday night.

Buchanan, which snapped a three-game losing slide, got on the scoreboard in the opening series when fullback Kent Cooper capped a 68-yard march with a one-yard touchdown run. During the march, Dowagiac was called for an encroachment penalty four times on third down plays, with three of them resulting in first downs.

The Bucks, now 2-3 in the league and 2-4 overall, scored again in the first quarter on a one-yard run by fullback Ed Smith. That topped off a 28-yard drive started after Dowagiac fumbled away the kick off. Aaron Samson recovered for Buchanan.

Another lost fumble — this one by the Bucks — set up Dowagiac's first touchdown in the third quarter. The Chiefs scored in three plays from 15 yards out after the fumble recovery by Kurt Cox. Ironically, the touchdown also came on a fumble. Dowagiac tailback Dan Wienman fumbled the ball into the end zone and center Ken Oisten recovered the loose pignskin for the touchdown.

Buchanan matched Dowagiac's third quarter TD with tailback Jeff Haman scoring from one yard out to cap a 69-yard march.

Dowagiac then wrapped up the scoring in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by quarterback Larry McLaughlin. It finished a 90-yard drive in four plays which included an 86-yard pass play from McLaughlin to Tim Pugh.

Rick Davis ended up as the leading Buchanan rusher with 71 yards in 14 carries. Weinman had 67 in 15 totes for Dowagiac. McLaughlin also hit six of 16 passes for the Chiefs, with Pugh catching four for 125 yards.

Defensive standouts for Buchanan included Cooper at linebacker and defensive end John Donley.

Lions Sign

Bob Picard

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have signed free agent wide receiver Bob Picard just in time to take him along with them Sunday to Seattle, where they will play one of his former teams, the Seahawks.

The 26-year-old Picard, a graduate of Eastern Washington University, was the sixth round draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1973 and was captain of their specialty team last season.

In the off-season expansion draft, he was sent to Seattle but ultimately returned to the Eagles as a free agent.

The Lions said they would use him as a wide receiver and specialty team member. His signing brought the NFL team roster to its maximum of 43 players.

Baseball Re-Entry Draft Brings Kids' Games Alive

By DAN EWALD
Grand Rapids Press

It was a game for kids. And most everyone played. Three Charlie Silveras brought one Jackie Robinson. It took all of that plus Bob Turley, Gil McDougald and three sticks of bubble gum to get a Ted Williams.

The big bubble gum game of all time takes place Nov. 4 in New York.

Unlike those kid games where entire franchises were traded for the right amount of bubble gum, this one is for real.

And price tags will run into the millions.

The first re-entry draft for players having played out their option in 1976 will be conducted for stakes considerably higher than the value of all the bubble gum in New York.

For baseball, it's the most revolutionary happening since the advent of night games.

There will be no mass player movement as predicted by owners last winter when bargaining over a new basic agreement was at its peak. Only 24 major leaguers right now are unsigned and eligible to participate.

But the ramifications are staggering. A financially well-heeled club does not have to wait for its minor league system to develop that one key player needed for a championship run — if it's willing to pay the price, that is.

If a team needs a left-handed power hitter and is willing to spend $3 million on a five-year contract which Reggie Jackson reportedly is asking for, Reggie is available.

If a club needs a classy second baseman and is willing to part with just $2 million, Bobby Grich is the man.

Although there are just 24 available major leaguers, some of them are prominent. Jackson, Grich, Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers, Don Gullett and Bill Campbell are a few.

There is at least one player from each position. A team composed of these players would be strong enough to contend for any division title.

From the player's standpoint, he no longer is bound to one club for life. If he feels he can make more money elsewhere or merely wants to move, now he can by playing out his option.

Owners and general managers damn the idea, maintaining the game never will be the same.

Players welcome their "emancipation" along with taking owners into an even bigger game of high finance.

While most of the owners deplore free agency, a few seem to welcome the change. They view it as a single chance to acquire at least one quality player like never before.

"I will never let a superstar free agent get by me again," San Diego Padre owner Ray Kroc said earlier this year.

Kroc also owns the world-wide MacDonald Hamburger chain. His fortune is reported near $800 million. Of course, players love to hear that kind of talk.

"There's no reason Reggie Jackson can't alleviate him of a couple million," Jackson said.

Augie Busch, chairman of the board of the St. Louis Cardinals, has asked the board's approval for about $4-$5 million to use as bait.

For the most part, however, owners and club officials look darkly at free agency. They claim it will cost them more money, which it will. They claim it will result in more long-term contracts, which it has.

They also claim that it will destroy the concept of building a major league winner from within an organization through the farm system.

"I said a long time ago that baseball never will be the same," said Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers. He would not reveal whether the Tigers would pursue a free agent.

"Baseball was built on the tradition of developing your own players. Now a team can buy a championship. Is that the way baseball is supposed to be?"

"Another thing players aren't taking into consideration is that these new rules will benefit a very few outstanding players. It will work against the journeyman. The money has to come from somewhere."

"I'm not sure of all the ground rules. But I know that with the exception of Rusty Staub and Mark Fidrych I stand to lose all my players after 1977."

Technically, all players not signed to a multi-year contract can play out their option in 1977. Staub and Fidrych have multi-year contracts.

All clubs are resigning themselves to multi-year deals as one way to guard against losing a player.

The Boston Red Sox are believed to have the most multi-year contracts with 17.

What happens with this first batch of players will be a factor in the number of free agents next year.

"There's going to be a 'player-quake,'" said Cleveland General Manager Phil Seghi. "This year and next will be a terribly traumatic time for baseball. It'll be chaotic.

"Our club has to get into the bidding or we'll be out of luck."

The Indians, already an estimated $6 million in debt, reportedly have said they'll make another loan to land a free agent.

While most officials dislike the free agency, one of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's spokesmen said: "We better get used to it because it's a fact of life."

"You can't blame anyone for getting as much money as he can," he continued. "But if there's greed, it's bad for the public. If the fans see million-dollar figures flying around, they're going to get turned off."

Conversely, the free agent draft should spike more interest into the game than a Bill Veeck promotion.

A club that signs a big name player can use him to promote promise for next season. Clubs losing a player will be pressed to sign another.

And the presence of these free agents is sure to spark more player trades before and after the December winter meetings.

The owners don't like it, but they'll have to cope.

Three Charlie Silveras will get you nothing now. But three million dollars might get you one Reggie Jackson.

There are 24 major league players and four who spent most of the season in the minor leagues who are unsigned for 1976.

The American League leads with 20. Infielders top the list with 13. There are eight pitchers, six outfielders and one catcher.

Unless signed by the club they played for last season by Nov. 1, these players will be part of the first re-entry draft:

American League
Baltimore — Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich, Wayne Garland, Royce Stillman.

California — Tim Lincecum, Mike Miley, Paul Dade, Billy Smith.

Minnesota — Steve Braun, Steve Brye, Bill Campbell, Eric Soderholm.

New York — Doyle Alexander.

Oakland — Campy Campaneris, Sal Bando, Gene Tenace, Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers, Don Baylor, Willie McCovey.

National League

Chicago — Steve Stone.

Cincinnati — Don Gullett.

Philadelphia — Dave Cash, Wayne Twitchell, Sergio Ferrer.

San Diego — Tito Fuentes.

San Francisco — Gary

Mathews.

THE RULES

There are pages of checks, counter-balances and technicalities governing baseball's re-entry draft. Basically, however, here's how it works:

—Names of unsigned players for 1976 are made available for the draft.

—Each player can be picked by 12 clubs plus the one he played for, making a total of 13 with which he can bargain.

—Clubs will select in inverse order of 1976 finish, with picks alternating by league.

—When selected by 12 clubs, a player's name is removed from the list.

—No club can sign more than two free agents. However, a club can sign as many as it loses.

—Toronto and Seattle, new to the American League in 1977, are not allowed to participate.

—A player is free to seek the best deal from all selecting clubs. If not signed by Feb. 16, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn puts the player's name before four interested clubs, excluding the one for which he played, for further negotiations.

—There is no compensation to the team losing a player from the one that signs him. All negotiated money goes to the player.

Pistons Win Opener; Cavs Topple Bulls

Dr. J Rusty In Debut

By Associated Press

Julius Erving made his debut with the Philadelphia 76ers — but the National Basketball Association's "Six Million Dollar Man" wishes he could play the scene over.

"I'm not particularly pleased," said Erving. "Mentally I got into the game, but physically I wasn't the factor I'd like to become."

The high-priced forward,

rusty from a lack of work, ran out of wind faster than he expected and only played 16 minutes while his new team lost a 121-118 decision to the San Antonio Spurs Friday night.

Erving performed creditably, scoring 17 points in his brief appearance, but was clearly in sub-par form.

"It was a lack of conditioning more than pressure," Erving said. "I don't think I ever missed so many foul shots in a game before (5-of-13). I didn't have my breath. When I get my wind, I'll be a better foul shooter."

The celebrated player, sold to Philadelphia by the New York Nets Thursday in a deal which will eventually cost the 76ers more than $6 million, was given a one-minute standing ovation when he was introduced before the game.

Erving was used sparingly since he missed pre-season training because of a salary dispute with the Nets.

In other NBA action, it was New Orleans 111, Phoenix 98; Cleveland 106, Chicago 85; Los Angeles 103, Washington 84; Detroit 99, Kansas City 96; Denver 123, Indiana 110 and the New York Nets 104, Golden State 103.

Billy Paulitz, a former teammate of Erving's with the Nets, scored 27 points to lead San Antonio. The Spurs were trailing 98-97 late in the game before breaking it open with a 16-6 burst.

New Orleans got 53 points from its new backcourt combination of Pete Maravich and Gail Goodrich to beat Phoenix.

Austin Carr and Jim Brewer sparked a 12-4 spurt at the start of the fourth quarter as Cleveland opened its NBA SEASON WITH A VICTORY OVER Chicago.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points, 12 during a decisive third quarter, to lead Los Angeles past Washington.

Dan Issel, dominating play around the basket, scored 30 points as Denver opened its first NBA season with an easy victory over Indiana.

Rich Jones tossed in a 20-foot, running one-hand shot at the buzzer as the New York Nets broke into the NBA with a dramatic victory over Golden State. The Nets scored four points in the final four seconds for a comeback victory before a capacity crowd of 13,155 — many of whom had purchased tickets expecting to see Erving in a Nets' uniform.

Howard Porter's 18-foot jumper with 15 seconds remaining clinched a 99-96 victory by the Detroit Pistons over the Kansas City Kings in a National Basketball Association opener for both clubs Friday night.

Kansas City trailed by eight points with only 1:51 to play, and pulled to within one point before Porter sank his deciding bucket. The Kings let a last gasp effort get away when reserve center Jim Eakins threw the ball away after Bob Lanier missed two free throws with eight seconds to play.

The Pistons converted 27 Kansas City turnovers into 25 points while the Kings could only take advantage of 15 points from 22 Detroit miscues.

Detroit, behind 54-49 at halftime, seized on poor third-quarter shooting by the Kings to take a 71-70 lead into the final period. Kansas City hit only 7 of 22 shots in that period.

Lanier led Detroit's balanced attack with 22 points. Forwards Porter and M. L. Carr added 16 each. Scott Wedman paced the Kings with 20 points, and guards Ron Boone and Brian Taylor got 18 and 17, respectively.

Kansas City's No. 1 draft choice, Rich Washington of UCLA, scored 15 points and pulled down seven rebounds in his professional debut. Sam Lacey of the Kings led all rebounders with 16.

DETROIT 99

Baseball Re-Entry Draft Brings Kids' Games Alive

By DAN EWALD
Grand Rapids Press

It was a game for kids. And most everyone played.

Three Charlie Silveras brought one Jackie Robinson. It took all of that plus Bob Turley, Gil McDougald and three sticks of bubble gum to get a Ted Williams.

The big bubble gum game of all time takes place Nov. 4 in New York.

Unlike those kid games where entire franchises were traded for the right amount of bubble gum, this one is for real.

And price tags will run into the millions.

The first re-entry draft for players having played out their option in 1976 will be conducted for stakes considerably higher than the value of all the bubble gum in New York.

For baseball, it's the most revolutionary happening since the advent of night games.

There will be no mass player movement as predicted by owners last winter when bargaining over a new basic agreement was at its peak. Only 24 major leaguers right now are unsigned and eligible to participate.

But the ramifications are staggering. A financially well-heeled club does not have to wait for its minor league system to develop that one key player needed for a championship run — if it's willing to pay the price, that is.

If a team needs a left-handed power hitter and is willing to spend $3 million on a five-year contract which Reggie Jackson reportedly is asking for, Reggie is available.

If a club needs a classy second baseman and is willing to part with just $2 million, Bobby Grich is the man.

Although there are just 24 available major leaguers, some of them are prominent. Jackson, Grich, Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers, Don Gullett and Bill Campbell are a few.

There is at least one player from each position. A team composed of these players would be strong enough to contend for any division title.

From the player's standpoint, he no longer is bound to one club for life. If he feels he can make more money elsewhere or merely wants to move, now he can by playing out his option.

Owners and general managers damn the idea, maintaining the game never will be the same.

Players welcome their "emancipation" along with taking owners into an even bigger game of high finance.

While most of the owners

deplore free agency, a few seem to welcome the change. They view it as a single chance to acquire at least one quality player like never before.

"I will never let a superstar free agent get by me again," San Diego Padre owner Ray Kroc said earlier this year.

Kroc also owns the worldwide MacDonald's hamburger chain. His fortune is reported near $800 million. Of course, players love to hear that kind of talk.

"There's no reason Reggie Jackson can't alleviate him of a couple million," Jackson said. Augie Busch, chairman of the board of the St. Louis Cardinals, has asked the board's approval for about $4-$5 million to use as bait.

For the most part, however, owners and club officials look darkly at free agency. They claim it will cost them more money, which it will. They claim it will result in more long-term contracts, which it has.

They also claim that it will destroy the concept of building a major league winner from within an organization through the farm system.

"I said a long time ago that baseball never will be the same," said Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers. He would not reveal whether the Tigers would pursue a free agent.

"Baseball was built on the tradition of developing your own players. Now a team can buy a championship. Is that the way baseball is supposed to be?"

"Another thing players aren't taking into consideration is that these new rules will benefit a very few outstanding players. It will work against the journeyman. The money has to come from somewhere."

"I'm not sure of all the ground rules. But I know that with the exception of Rusty Staub and Mark Fidrych I stand to lose all my players after 1977."

Technically, all players not signed to a multi-year contract can play out their option in 1977. Staub and Fidrych have multi-year contracts.

All clubs are resigning themselves to multi-year deals as one way to guard against losing a player.

The Boston Red Sox are believed to have the most multi-year contracts with 17. What happens with this first batch of players will be a factor in the number of free agents next year.

"There's going to be a 'player-quake,'" said Cleveland General Manager Phil Seghi. "This year and next will be a terribly traumatic time for baseball. It'll be chaotic.

"Our club has to get into the bidding or we'll be out of luck."

The Indians, already an estimated $6 million in debt, reportedly have said they'll make another loan to land a free agent.

While most officials dislike the free agency, one of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's spokesmen said: "We better get used to it because it's a fact of life."

"You can't blame anyone for getting as much money as he can," he continued. "But if there's greed, it's bad for the public. If the fans see million-dollar figures flying around, they're going to get turned off."

Conversely, the free agent draft should spike more interest into the game than a Bill Veeck promotion.

A club that signs a big name player can use him to promote promise for next season. Clubs losing a player will be pressed to sign another.

And the presence of these free agents is sure to spark more player trades before and after the December winter meetings.

The owners don't like it, but they'll have to cope.

Three Charlie Silveras will get you nothing now. But three million dollars might get you one Reggie Jackson.

There are 24 major league players and four who spent most of the season in the minor leagues who are unsigned for 1976.

The American League leads with 20. Infielders top the list with 13. There are eight pitchers, six outfielders and one catcher.

Unless signed by the club they played for last season by Nov. 1, these players will be part of the first re-entry draft:

American League
Baltimore — Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich, Wayne Garland, Royce Stillman.

California — Tim Lincecum, Mike Miley, Paul Dade, Billy Smith.

Minnesota — Steve Braun, Steve Brye, Bill Campbell, Eric Soderholm.

New York — Doyle Alexander.

Oakland — Campy Campaneris, Sal Bando, Gene Tenace, Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers, Don Baylor, Willie McCovey.

National League

Chicago — Steve Stone.

Cincinnati — Don Gullett.

Philadelphia — Dave Cash, Wayne Twitchell, Sergio Ferrer.

San Diego — Tito Fuentes.

San Francisco — Gary

Mathews.

THE RULES

There are pages of checks, counter-balances and technicalities governing baseball's re-entry draft. Basically, however, here's how it works:

—Names of unsigned players for 1976 are made available for the draft.

—Each player can be picked by 12 clubs plus the one he played for, making a total of 13 with which he can bargain.

—Clubs will select in inverse order of 1976 finish, with picks alternating by league.

—When selected by 12 clubs, a player's name is removed from the list.

—No club can sign more than two free agents. However, a club can sign as many as it loses.

—Toronto and Seattle, new to the American League in 1977, are not allowed to participate.

—A player is free to seek the best deal from all selecting clubs. If not signed by Feb. 16, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn puts the player's name before four interested clubs, excluding the one for which he played, for further negotiations.

—There is no compensation to the team losing a player from the one that signs him. All negotiated money goes to the player.

Pistons Win Opener; Cavs Topple Bulls

Dr. J Rusty In Debut

By Associated Press

Julius Erving made his debut with the Philadelphia 76ers — but the National Basketball Association's "Six Million Dollar Man" wishes he could play the scene over.

"I'm not particularly pleased," said Erving. "Mentally I got into the game, but physically I wasn't the factor I'd like to become."

The high-priced forward,

rusty from a lack of work, ran out of wind faster than he expected and only played 16 minutes while his new team lost a 121-118 decision to the San Antonio Spurs Friday night.

Erving performed creditably, scoring 17 points in his brief appearance, but was clearly in sub-par form.

"It was a lack of conditioning more than pressure," Erving said. "I don't think I ever missed so many foul shots in a game before (5-of-13). I didn't have my breath. When I get my wind, I'll be a better foul shooter."

The celebrated player, sold to Philadelphia by the New York Nets Thursday in a deal which will eventually cost the 76ers more than $6 million, was given a one-minute standing ovation when he was introduced before the game.

Erving was used sparingly since he missed pre-season training because of a salary dispute with the Nets.

In other NBA action, it was New Orleans 111, Phoenix 98; Cleveland 106, Chicago 95; Los Angeles 103, Washington 84; Detroit 99, Kansas City 96; Denver 123, Indiana 110 and the New York Nets 104, Golden State 103.

Billy Paultz, a former teammate of Erving's with the Nets, scored 27 points to lead San Antonio. The Spurs were trailing 98-97 late in the game before breaking it open with a 16-6 burst.

New Orleans got 53 points from its new backcourt combination of Pete Maravich and Gail Goodrich to beat Phoenix.

Austin Carr and Jim Brewer sparked a 12-4 spurt at the start of the fourth quarter as Cleveland opened its NBA SEASON WITH A VICTORY OVER Chicago.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points, 12 during a decisive third quarter, to lead Los Angeles past Washington.

Dan Issel, dominating play around the basket, scored 30 points as Denver opened its first NBA season with an easy victory over Indiana.

Rich Jones tossed in a 20-foot, running one-hand shot at the buzzer as the New York Nets broke into the NBA with a dramatic victory over Golden State. The Nets scored four points in the final four seconds for a comeback victory before a capacity crowd of 13,155 — many of whom had purchased tickets expecting to see Erving in a Nets' uniform.

Howard Porter's 18-foot jumper with 15 seconds remaining clinched a 99-96 victory by the Detroit Pistons over the Kansas City Kings in a National Basketball Association opener for both clubs Friday night.

Kansas City trailed by eight points with only 1:51 to play, and pulled to within one point before Porter sank his deciding bucket. The Kings let a last gasp effort get away when reserve center Jim Eakins threw the ball away after Bob Lanier missed two free throws with eight seconds to play.

The Pistons converted 27 Kansas City turnovers into 25 points while the Kings could only take advantage of 15 points from 22 Detroit miscues.

Detroit, behind 54-49 at half-time, seized on poor third-quarter shooting by the Kings to take a 71-70 lead into the final period. Kansas City hit only 7 of 22 shots in that period.

Lanier led Detroit's balanced attack with 22 points. Forwards Porter and M. L. Carr added 16 each. Scott Wedman paced the Kings with 20 points, and guards Ron Boone and Brian Taylor got 18 and 17, respectively.

Kansas City's No. 1 draft choice, Rich Washington of UCLA, scored 15 points and pulled down seven rebounds in his professional debut. Sam Lacey of the Kings led all rebounders with 16.

Barnes Now Lost With Ankle Injury

DETROIT (AP) — Controversial forward Marvin Barnes is suspended from the Detroit Pistons, faces charges of carrying a concealed weapon — and now his ankle is in a cast.

The Pistons announced Friday that Barnes will be lost to the team for two or three weeks because of the severely sprained left ankle, now wrapped in a cast.

After failing twice to show up for practice, Barnes was suspended Wednesday without pay.

Barnes says he's upset by the suspension — as is Oscar Feldman, the Pistons' general manager. The team spent $900,000 for Barnes' contract, and Feldman says, "He either adheres to the rules of the club or he will remain suspended. We paid a lot of money for him and we'll swallow it if we have to."

Barnes arrived back from St. Louis on Friday and went to Ann Arbor University Hospital where he was examined.

Barnes faces felony charges for carrying a concealed weapon. He allegedly had an unloaded .38-caliber revolver in his luggage at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Oct. 9 before boarding a flight to St. Louis.

Jack Joyce, the director of security for the National Basketball Association, admitted he has been looking into the case.

Joyce was asked about a previous incident where Barnes was ordered by a court to pay $10,000 for attacking a college teammate while he was attending Providence College.

"I can't speak for the commissioner," said Joyce. "But I feel the average intelligent and logical person would take it into consideration."

Detective Jack Hopkins of the Wayne County Sheriff's office said he would contact Barnes next week about a court appearance in the gun case.

"He was very nice, very much a gentleman through the whole thing," Hopkins said. "I'm not worried about finding him, or his coming in."

Detroit, Giacomin Hand Islanders First Setback

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — New York Islanders Coach Al Arbour wasn't making any excuses after his till-then unbeaten National Hockey League team got blown off the ice, 3-0, Friday night by a young but determined Detroit Red Wings squad.

"Hell, I'm not going to alibi," said Arbour. "It was no contest. They outskated us and outplayed us all the way. They were the better team tonight. What can I say? You saw it."

Ed Giacomin picked up his second shutout of the season for the Wings, who came into the contest with a three-game losing streak. Billy Dea, Detroit's assistant coach, admitted his team's confidence was beginning to slip after two losses on the road last weekend.

"(But) we had the whole week off and we practiced hard," Dea said. "Hey, it was our game all the way. Now we gotta get the confidence so we can win on the road."

Dan Maloney, the game's No. 1 star, had two goals and an assist. His first tally at 1:14 of the second period off a three-goal outburst, capped when Dennis Polonich snapped one past New York netminder Glenn Resch at 19:27.

Another Detroit standout was Michel Bergeron, who opened the scoring 74 seconds into the game. His second goal, seven minutes into the second period, was spectacular, as he stole the puck from a defenseman and faked Resch to the ice, tucking the puck in behind him — all in two seconds. Maloney's second goal clinched the victory for the Wings at 1:30 of the final period.

The loss for the Islanders was their first in seven outings this season. Up until now the only undefeated team in the NHL, they hold down the top spot in the Patrick division standings.

The Wings vacated the Norris division basement to move into a tie with the third-place Pittsburgh Penguins in the division.

The shutout for Giacomin was his 33rd of his NHL career leaving him three behind Chicago's Tony Esposito among the active players list.

The veteran Detroit netminder had a comparatively easy time as the Islanders only tested him 18 times while the Wings tossed 26 at Resch who saw his goals-against average rise from .30 to 1.40.

Who said a tie is like kissing your sister? John Wilson doesn't think so. Neither does Simon Nolet.

"I guess we have to be happy with a tie," noted Wilson, coach of the Colorado Rockies.

"I liked the way we came back," noted Colorado star Simon Nolet.

The two made their views known after the Rockies pulled out a 3-3 National Hockey League tie with the Minnesota North Stars Friday night.

"In the second and third periods, we played extremely well," said Wilson. "We were sloppy in the last 10 minutes of the first period and they scored goals on our errors. The errors put us in a hole — but we came back." Nolet, mildly disappointed that the Rockies blew several scoring opportunities in the last period, was nevertheless satisfied with his team's overall performance.

"The team is killing penalties a lot better than it has been," he said. "If we get our power play going, we ought to be tough."

Elsewhere in the NHL, Vancouver defeated Atlanta 5-3 and Colorado and Minnesota played to a 3-3 tie. In the World Hockey Association, it was New England 5, Houston 2; Minnesota 2, Calgary 2 and Phoenix 4, Winnipeg 3.

Phil Roberto's first goal of the year, a 40-foot slap shot from the right side in the third period, gave the Rockies their tie with Minnesota.

Dennis Ververaert scored two of Vancouver's three second-period goals as the Canucks defeated Atlanta. It was only the second victory of the season for the Canucks, who had 42 shots on goal against the Flames.

Three first-period goals, including Tom Earl's score on the first shot of the game, helped New England beat Houston.

Dave Keon's 400th major league goal late in the first period lifted Minnesota into a tie with Calgary.

Robbie Florek knocked in the winning goal in the third period and goaltender Gary Kurt held off a last-minute attack by Winnipeg to lead Phoenix past the Jets.

Hartford Alumni Final Foe For State Police Gridders

The state police charity football program concludes its fourth season tonight with a 7 p.m. game against the Hartford alumni at Hartford high school.

The state police team, which consists of police and firemen from throughout southwestern Michigan, plays for the purpose of raising money for high school athletic funds and other charitable organizations.

Proceeds from tonight's game will go to the Hartford athletic fund. Last week, in a 21-0 win over the Bloomington alumni, more than $400 was raised for the Bloomington athletic fund. The team, based in Paw Paw, has its own equipment and uniforms. Rich Hill of the Paw Paw state police post is the team's coach.

The police squad goes into its final game with a 1-1-1 record. In addition to the win over Bloomington, the police tied South Haven 6-6 and lost to Lawrence 20-14.

In the 21-0 win over Bloomington, the police got touchdowns on an eight-yard pass from Randy Adkin (South Haven) to Steve Rousin (South Haven). A 25-yard Adkin to Rousin pass and a 40-yard Adkin to Bob Johnson (South Haven) aerial.

Dorsett Guns For College Rushing Mark Beavers' Fertig Returning Home

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Today is Homecoming Day at the University of Southern California and, like many old grads, Craig Fertig will be on hand.

And he'll remain a bona fide member of the USC Alumni Association even though he'll be rooting against the Trojans.

A star quarterback at Southern Cal and an assistant coach there for a decade under John McKay, Fertig is now the head man at Oregon State and his Beavers just happen to provide the opposition for the seventh-ranked Trojans.

"It's going to seem awfully strange," Fertig says. "I was looking at USC films and it's the first time in my life I haven't been in the film room trying to figure out ways for USC to score. Now I'm trying to figure out how to defend them."

"They have a very good team and players. Ricky Bell is something else. I think I know more about their football team than I do about our own. It's going to be a different feeling standing on the other side of the field. When they play 'Fight On' and 'Conquest' I probably won't know which direction to run."

Oregon State gave Fertig his first triumph last week with a 10-9 upset of California.

"Believe me, I'm not shocked by Oregon State's victory over Cal," says USC's John Robinson. "Oregon State has a good defensive team which is improving each week. Defensively, they're right now one of the better teams in our conference (Pac-8)."

Elsewhere, Pitt's Tony Dorsett goes after the all-time major college rushing record when the second-ranked Panthers visit Navy. Major college football's second 5,000-yard man has 5,026 yards and needs just 152 to pass Archie Griffin's total of 5,177. And with five regular-season games remaining, he needs only 272 to break the over-all NCAA mark of 5,297 yards set by Howard Stevens in two years at Randolph-Macon (College Division) and two at Louisville (University Division).

Saturday's schedule also includes three battles between members of The Associated Press' Top Twenty—No. 17 Missouri at third-ranked Nebraska, No. 12 Notre Dame at

No. 19 South Carolina and No. 15 Arkansas at No. 14 Houston.

Top-rated Michigan visits Indiana, fourth-ranked UCLA is at California.

Fifth-ranked Oklahoma entertains Oklahoma State, No. 6 Maryland is at Duke, Oregon State is at No. 7 Southern California.

Eighth-ranked Texas Tech hosts Arizona in a night game, No. 9 Ohio State is at home against Purdue and No. 10 Georgia visits Kentucky under the lights.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 11

Florida at Tennessee, Southern Methodist at No. 13 Texas at night, No. 16 Iowa State at Colorado and Louisville at No. 18 Alabama. East Carolina and Mississippi State, tied for 20th, are on the road — East Carolina at North Carolina and Mississippi State at Southern Mississippi.

22-3-1 margin. Last year, however, Tech trailed 21-6 at halftime but stormed back to win 32-28.

"Arizona has an explosive, well-coached team," says Tech Coach Steve Egan. "They are capable of scoring from anywhere on the field and, consequently, they are never out of a game. It's going to take another top effort for us to win."

Besides the Arizona-Texas Tech, Georgia-Kentucky and SMU-Texas pairings, the rest of the Saturday night schedule

RESPONDS TO NCAA: University of Minnesota president C. Barnes Now Lost With Ankle Injury

DETROIT (AP) — Controversial forward Marvin Barnes is suspended from the Detroit Pistons, faces charges of carrying a concealed weapon — and now his ankle is in a cast.

The Pistons announced Friday that Barnes will be lost to the team for two or three weeks because of the severely sprained left ankle, now wrapped in a cast.

After failing twice to show up for practice, Barnes was suspended Wednesday without pay.

Barnes says he's upset by the suspension — as is Oscar Feldman, the Pistons' general manager. The team spent $500,000 for Barnes' contract, and Feldman says, "He either adheres to the rules of the club or he will remain suspended. We paid a lot of money for him and we'll swallow it if we have to."

Barnes arrived back from St. Louis on Friday and went to Ann Arbor University Hospital where he was examined.

Barnes faces felony charges for carrying a concealed weapon. He allegedly had an unloaded .38-caliber revolver in his luggage at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Oct. 9 before boarding a flight to St. Louis.

Jack Joyce, the director of security for the National Basketball Association, admitted he has been looking into the case.

Joyce was asked about a previous incident where Barnes was ordered by a court to pay $10,000 for attacking a college teammate while he was attending Providence College.

"I can't speak for the commissioner," said Joyce. "But I feel the average intelligent and logical person would take it into consideration."

Detective Jack Hopkins of the Wayne County Sheriff's Office said he would contact Barnes next week about a court appearance in the gun case.

"He was very nice, very much a gentleman through the whole thing," Hopkins said. "I'm not worried about finding him, or his coming in."

Detroit, Giacomin Hand Islanders First Setback

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — New York Islanders Coach Al Arbour wasn't making any excuses after his till-then unbeaten National Hockey League team got blown off the ice, 5-0, Friday night by a young but determined Detroit Red Wings squad.

"Hell, I'm not going to alibi," said Arbour. "It was no contest. They outskated us and outplayed us all the way. They were the better team tonight. What can I say? You saw it."

Ed Giacomin picked up his second shutout of the season for the Wings, who came into the contest with a three-game losing streak. Billy Dea, Detroit's assistant coach, admitted his team's confidence was beginning to slip after two losses on the road last weekend.

"(But) we had the whole week off and we practiced hard," Dea said. "Hey, it was our game all the way. Now we gotta get the confidence so we can win on the road."

Dan Maloney, the game's No. 1 star, had two goals and an assist. His first tally at 1:14 of the second period touched off a three-goal outburst, capped when Dennis Polonich slapped one past New York netminder Glenn Resch at 19:27.

Another Detroit standout was Michel Bergeron, who opened the scoring 74 seconds into the game. His second goal, seven minutes into the second period, was spectacular, as he stole the puck from a defenseman and faked Resch to the ice, tucking the puck in behind him — all in two seconds.

Maloney's second goal clinched the victory for the Wings at 1:30 of the final period.

The loss for the Islanders was their first in seven outings this season. Up until now the only undefeated team in the NHL, they hold down the top spot in the Patrick division standings.

The Wings vacated the Norris division basement to move into a tie with the third-place Pittsburgh Penguins in the division.

The shutout for Giacomin was his 53rd of his NHL career leaving three behind Chicago's Tony Esposito among the active players list.

The veteran Detroit netminder had a comparatively easy time as the Islanders only tested him 18 times while the Wings tossed 26 at Resch who saw his goals-against average rise from .50 to 1.40.

Who said a tie is like kissing your sister? John Wilson doesn't think so. Neither does Simon Nolet.

"I guess we have to be happy with a tie," noted Wilson, coach of the Colorado Rockies.

"I liked the way we came back," noted Colorado star Simon Nolet.

The two made their views known after the Rockies pulled out a 3-3 National Hockey League tie with the Minnesota North Stars Friday night.

"In the second and third periods, we played extremely well," said Wilson. "We were sloppy in the last 10 minutes of the first period and they scored goals on our errors. The errors put us in a hole — but we came back."

Nolet, mildly disappointed that the Rockies blew several scoring opportunities in the last period, was nevertheless satisfied with his team's overall performance.

"The team is killing penalties a lot better than it has been," he said. "If we get our power play going, we ought to be tough."

Elsewhere in the NHL, Vancouver defeated Atlanta 5-3 and Colorado and Minnesota played to a 3-3 tie. In the World Hockey Association, it was New England 5, Houston 2; Minnesota 2, Calgary 2 and Phoenix 4, Winnipeg 3.

Phil Roberto's first goal of the year, a 40-foot slap shot from the right side in the third period, gave the Rockies their tie with Minnesota.

Dennis Ververgaert scored two of Vancouver's three second-period goals as the Canucks defeated Atlanta. It was only the second victory of the season for the Canucks, who had 42 shots on goal against the Flames.

Three first-period goals, including Tom Earl's score on the first shot of the game, helped New England beat Houston.

Dave Keon's 400th major league goal late in the first period lifted Minnesota into a tie with Calgary.

Robbie Ftorek knocked in the winning goal in the third period and goaltender Gary Kurt held off a last-minute attack by Winnipeg to lead Phoenix past the Jets.

Hartford Alumni Final Foe For State Police Gridders

The state police charity football program concludes its fourth season tonight with a 7 p.m. game against the Hartford alumni at Hartford high school.

The state police team, which consists of police and firemen from throughout southwestern Michigan, plays for the purpose of raising money for high school athletic funds and other charitable organizations.

Proceeds from tonight's game will go to the Hartford athletic fund. Last week, in a 21-0 win over the Bloomington alumni, more than $400 was raised for the Bloomington athletic fund.

The team, based in Paw Paw, has its own equipment and uniforms. Rich Hill of the Paw Paw state police post is the team's coach.

The police squad goes into its final game with a 1-1 record. In addition to the win over Bloomington, the police tied South Haven 6-6 and lost to Lawrence 20-14.

In the 21-0 win over Bloomington, the police got touchdowns on an eight-yard pass from Randy Adkin (South Haven) to Steve Rousin (South Haven). A 25-yard Adkin to Rousin pass and a 40-yard Adkin to Bob Johnson (South Haven) aerial.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Today is Homecoming Day at the University of Southern California and, like many old grads, Craig Fertig will be on hand.

And he'll remain a bona fide member of the USC Alumni Association even though he'll be rooting against the Trojans.

A star quarterback at Southern Cal and an assistant coach there for a decade under John McKay, Fertig is now the head man at Oregon State and his Beavers just happen to provide the opposition for the seventh-ranked Trojans.

"It's going to seem awfully strange," Fertig says. "I was looking at USC films and it's the first time in my life I haven't been in the film room trying to figure out ways for USC to score. Now I'm trying to figure out how to defend them."

"They have a very good team and players. Ricky Bell is something else. I think I know more about their football team than I do about our own. It's going to be a different feeling standing on the other side of the field. When they play 'Fight On' and 'Conquest' I probably won't know which direction to run."

Oregon State gave Fertig his first triumph last week with a 10-9 upset of California.

"Believe me, I'm not shocked by Oregon State's victory over Cal," says USC's John Robinson. "Oregon State has a good defensive team which is improving each week. Defensively, they're right now one of the better teams in our conference (Pac-8)."

Elsewhere, Pitt's Tony Dorsett goes after the all-time major college rushing record when the second-ranked Panthers visit Navy. Major college football's second 5,000-yard man has 5,026 yards and needs just 152 to pass Archie Griffin's total of 5,177. And with five regular-season games remaining, he needs only 272 to break the over-all NCAA mark of 5,297 yards set by Howard Stevens in two years at Randolph-Macon (College Division) and two at Louisville (University Division).

Saturday's schedule also includes three battles between members of The Associated Press' Top Twenty—No. 17 Missouri at third-ranked Nebraska, No. 12 Notre Dame at

No. 19 South Carolina and No. 15 Arkansas at No. 14 Houston.

Top-rated Michigan visits Indiana, fourth-ranked UCLA is at California, fifth-ranked Oklahoma entertains Oklahoma State, No. 6 Maryland is at Duke, Oregon State is at No. 7 Southern California, eighth-ranked Texas Tech hosts Arizona in a night game, No. 9 Ohio State is at home against Purdue and No. 10 Georgia visits Kentucky under the lights.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 11

Florida at Tennessee, Southern Methodist at No. 13 Texas at night, No. 16 Iowa State at Colorado and Louisville at No. 18 Alabama. East Carolina and Mississippi State, tied for 20th, are on the road — East Carolina at North Carolina and Mississippi State at Southern Mississippi.

22-3-1 margin. Last year, however, Tech trailed 21-6 at halftime but stormed back to win 32-28.

"Arizona has an explosive, well-coached team," says Tech Coach Steve Sloan. "They are capable of scoring from anywhere on the field and, consequently, they are never out of a game. It's going to take another top effort for us to win."

Besides the Arizona-Texas Tech, Georgia-Kentucky and SMU-Texas pairings, the rest of the Saturday night schedule

finds Northwestern Louisiana vs. Louisiana Tech at Shreveport, Wichita State at Memphis State, Texas Christian at Miami, Fla., Northeast Louisiana at Southeastern Louisiana, Pacific at Southwestern Louisiana, Eastern Michigan at Akron, McNeese State at Arkansas state, Long Beach State at Lamar, New Mexico at Arizona State, North Texas State at New Mexico State, Fullerton State at San Diego State and Fresno State at San Jose State.

RESPONDS TO NCAA: University of Minnesota president C. Peter Magrath (left) announces Friday that the school will challenge the NCAA ruling that placed the entire men's sports program on probation indefinitely. Magrath said that the University will petition in Federal District Court for an injunction against the ruling. With Magrath is the University Athletic Director Paul Giel. The action arose over a dispute about three Minnesota basketball players who were suspended by the NCAA but have continued to play. (AP Wirephoto) vote "yes" or "no" on that idea. Otherwise, they might put something over on us.

You'll hear panics about the roads, fire the police, board up the schools, padlock the parks and take the sting-eye dogs away from the blind. Nonsense. Proposal "C" doesn't say a word about any of those things or about any programs.

Proposal "C" is your chance to put a lid on local and state taxes once and for all. It's worth going to the polls this Nov. 2 just to vote "Yes" for Proposal "C". Because it just may be your last chance.

SAYS PEOPLE SHOULD TAX THEMSELVES

Editor,
I have been reading lately about all the opinions of Proposals A through D. The one that interested me a great deal was from Richard J. Allen, Republican State Senator, 13th district, Alma, Mich.

I don't know, for the life of me, how some of these people get elected. I quote from his letter, "Proposal C does not limit government spending, it does limit state government's income. I would urge all citizens, especially farmers and homeowners, to closely examine the difference." This tells me one thing, that no legislators are fiscally responsible. Everybody has to live within their budget or their income. And they are supposed to be our leaders! Therefore, if they are not fiscally responsible, they should not be our leaders.

The next thing they said was that our property taxes go up. They will if we vote for them. Property taxes do not go up without people voting for them on a local level as you are well aware of, for instance, on bond issues for schools or increases in school expenses or township expenses. The board alone can not do it without the mandate of the people. That is what the people want, the right to tax themselves, not give the right to legislators that are not fiscally responsible. Proposal C and D sound good to me.

I don't want to leave out Proposal A. This proposal will probably clean up this state more than all the strict adherence to the laws that we can't enforce. Every child who wants to make a few cents picking up bottles and cans and returning them to the stores, can. If we didn't have that to keep our cities clean, we would probably pay six times that amount in taxes to have a sanitary worker do the same job. I vote yes for Proposal A.

All the politicians are now saying they're going to see that we pay less taxes or are going to realign the taxes. They have been saying that every election year and nothing has happened. Now is the time for us to decide what we want to do about our taxes. So, let's get out and vote.

LUXURY JUNKET IS CRITICIZED

Editor,
All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Everyone knows that. So perhaps we shouldn't be too critical of the 11 congressmen, eight of them accompanied by their wives, who recently visited the Far East and Australia to study the impact of the fall of South Vietnam.

As the Scripps-Howard News Service tells it, however, even a millionaire could be envious of them.

They traveled on a VC-135 Air Force plane, which the military thoughtfully stocked with 67 bottles of booze in case of snakebite. Since there were Lord knows how many snakes aboard, the bottles emptied fast, but the military replenished the supply of booze with dozens more along the way.

First stop was Elmendorf Air Force Base, where the congressmen and their wives dined on a lunch of Alaska crab. The bill came to $491, which the Air Force naturally picked up.

In Tokyo, Jakarta, in fact, everywhere they went, the party stayed only in luxury hotels, with the Air Force paying all the bills, including bills for car rentals and bar tabs.

In Canberra, the Air Force even laid out $120 for opera tickets for six music lovers in the party. It also bought $26 worth of drugstore supplies for the group. (Those snakes must have been fierce).

Studying the impact of the fall of South Vietnam was a gruelling experience, so the party stopped in Honolulu to recuperate. They stayed at the Royal Hawaiian — where else? — courtesy of the Air Force.

Just how much the study cost will never be known. The Air Force shelled out more than $100,000, including $74,000 to operate the plane, but the congressmen also drew on two special congressional travel funds.

Well, it may only be money, but I personally think that election to public office has a higher calling than pulling up to the public trough and indulging one's self to the utmost. The men and women we elect to the United States Congress should be aware of that fiduciary capacity in public trust. They should not more embark upon these "junkets" than should the members of the Executive branch engage in "dirty politics" or executives of our large international corporations "pay off" government officials of other countries.

The concept of "I'll get mine while the gettin's good" has no place in public office, and I believe the 11 candidates who are opposing these 11 congressmen in November should make the public aware of their actions.

BOTTLES DON'T LITTER — PEOPLE DO

Editor,
There are arguments both pro and con on the subject of banning nonreturnable beverage bottles and cans.

Some members of the retail store industry, which handles beverage bottles and cans, are in favor of Proposal "A"; but, by and large, some of them are opposed to it and for many sound, economic reasons. Some of the many reasons for opposition to the proposal, that come to mind, are as follows:

There are serious reservations on just how passage of this proposal would prohibit bottle or can litter.

If today's society was in the same economic condition that existed in the great depression years of the thirties, perhaps a deposit would be attractive enough to secure the return of used beverage-bottle containers.

However, we are now an affluent society and money just doesn't mean that much, particularly if there is an inconvenience in the routine of returning bottles or cans.

A nonreturnable beverage container is a customer - convenience package, the same as a catsup, vinegar or condiment bottle or a pickle or jelly jar, that resulted from customer demand.

Nobody pushed these containers on to the public — you can still buy beverages in returnable bottles, with a deposit, at almost any retail outlet that handles beverage containers; but the customer passes them up for nonreturnable containers, because it is much simpler to put them in the trash barrel and avoid an unsanitary attraction for flies and vermin and other parasitical insects such as cockroaches, etc.

Retail merchants who handle beverage containers know that the second time a beverage case is used, it often carries cockroaches, etc. with it. Sure, they wash the bottles but not the cases — that problem has existed for years; and sometimes, if you have ever wondered how come you had cockroaches in your home, and if you had purchased a case of returnable bottles in a used case to take home, that's where they came from.

The Michigan United Conservation Club has a slogan in defense of gun ownership, "guns don't kill — people do." Likewise, this statement is also true, "bottles don't litter — people do."

I am well aware that there is somewhat of a litter problem caused by the scuff-the-law attitude of a certain percentage of the population. Probably the greatest number of them, who bother farmers in particular, are the hunters who take to the fields every fall for small game and deer. They discard their beverage containers indiscriminately to make room for the birds and small game that they secure. The least the hunters could do is to respect other people's property and leave it clean the way they found it. Otherwise, the farmers have the problem, not only of the rocks they come upon every year, but also of the debris left by careless hunters who use the farmer's land.

Roadside litter — that's against the law, but here again, you find the scuff-the-law people. You might wonder why there are more beer containers than soft-drink containers thrown out as litter. The explanation is that in the 1973 session of the legislature, a law was passed making it illegal to have an open beverage-alcohol container in your car. So, what happens if a six or a twelve-pack of beer is being consumed illegally in a car? Just in case they might get stopped for a traffic violation of any kind, they get rid of the evidence of illegal, open beverage-alcohol containers ahead of time by tossing the empty, open containers any place along the road. Of course, that's illegal, too; but if you don't get caught, who cares?

New laws or forced deposits are not going to solve the problem. The scuff-the-law people will still litter along the roads; and the thoughtless hunters will still litter in the fields and streams, because, as the National Rifle Association says, "if you ban guns, only the criminals will have them," and if you force deposits on convenience containers, the scuff-the-law affluent public will still litter.

The only thing that Proposal A would accomplish is an increase in price and deposits to the greatest majority of consumers who are not scuff-the-law people, and that means you and your families when you purchase your favorite beverage in a bottle or can for home consumption.

SAYS CANDIDATES SPAWN APATHY

Editor,
It is being widely reported that the voter turnout on November 2nd is expected to be a record breaking low percentage of the total electorate. The reason for this is not difficult to discern. Neither of the major candidates arouse the enthusiasm of the great majority of wage earning tax paying American citizens. Why not? I submit the following list of reasons.

Both candidates are willing to spend astronomical amounts of government paper money for misguided federal programs which hamper free enterprise. Neither candidate really believes in a balanced budget. Thus, no matter which candidate is elected, we can look forward to more double digit inflation.

Neither candidate is willing to come out eloquently and effectively about the danger that communism poses to the entire world. Both favor the present system of being cozy with Russia, regardless of whether it is called "Detente" or something else. A close examination of the total record would indicate that both candidates favor a policy of appeasement toward militant socialism. For example, it is totalitarian, socialism that is being encouraged in Africa under the slogan of "majority rule." There is not one black African country that has gained independence that has what one might call functional democracy. It is impossible to go from primitive tribalism to the kind of republican government which we enjoy in one generation.

Neither candidate is unequivocally committed to do something positive and effective to stop the murder of innocent unborn children. Both candidates are willing to go along with government financed abortions.

Neither candidate is unequivocally committed to do something positive and effective to stop the ridiculous and counter-productive busing of little children across cities and counties, even though this busing is in direct violation of the landmark "Brown versus Board of Education" ruling of the Supreme Court in Little Rock, Ark. The majority of parents both black and white want an end to busing. But "majority rule" means nothing to the social manipulators.

Both candidates favor the so-called "Equal Rights Amendment" even though its origins can be traced directly to the Communist manifesto, and even though its impact can only undermine the family unit in our culture. Our present system of laws actually discriminate in favor of wives and mothers so that they may stay in the home and provide the maternal care that small children so desperately need. Under the E.R.A., promoted by Beta Abzug and other radicals, such discrimination would be wiped out and we would be ready for the creation of industrial armies of both sexes similar to what they now have in Red China.

I could go on and on, but space forbids. God-fearing people of both parties can only be disillusioned at the choice offered in November.

PROPOSAL A WALKERS LIKED THE SEND-OFF

Editor,
We began a walk across the state in Benton Harbor Saturday to get the facts out on Proposal A, the returnable bottle referendum. Mayor Patterson welcomed us to the city as we started our walk in the Jean Klock park. An impressive pile of litter was collected in the park and built into a "litter monster." We would like to thank the people in the area who put us up for the night and organized our reception there.

As we walked down the Red Arrow highway people honked their horns to let us know that they are supporting Proposal A. The purpose of the walk is to let the people of Michigan know that distortions and untruths are being circulated by opponents of a return to returnables.

Adoption of Proposal A would mean less litter, more jobs and lower costs. In Oregon and Vermont where bottle laws exist, litter was reduced by over 75 per cent. The official study done by the Public Service Commission showed that 4,000 new jobs would be created in trucking, warehousing, and retailing sectors of the economy if a bottle law is adopted.

Returnables are cheaper than throwaways. According to testimony by the president of Coca-Cola before Congress, "Coke sold in food stores in non-returnable packages is priced, on the average, 30 to 40 per cent higher than Coca-Cola in returnable bottles. The difference lies essentially in the different costs of packaging. The cost of returnables is spread over many uses; the cost of the non-returnable package is absorbed in one use."

We hope that the people of Michigan will consider these facts before voting on Proposal A. Vote "Yes" on "A" this November.

Tom Moran
Tim Kunin
Jeffrey Ross
Russell McKee

P.S. Our walk is also intended to raise money to buy radio and newspaper space to get the facts out on Proposal A. We are asking that people send contributions to 1226 Riverwood, St. Joseph. Pledge forms and information are available at 983-3596 or 983-6532.

ERA OPPONENT OFFERS 'FACTS'

Editor,
In a letter to the editor recently, Beverly J. Rutkowski charged that ERA foes obscure the real issues in myths. She stated that "A recent letter to the editor of his newspaper points up the considerable confusion and misconception that surrounds the Equal Rights Amendment." She then proceeded to state some "myths" accompanied by the "facts" (so-called) which would dispel these myths. Without committing myself to total agreement or disagreement with her list, may I point out that in extremely emotional issues such as the ERA, there is always a danger of unsupported opinions being forwarded as absolute fact. This is an unfortunate set of circumstances, nevertheless, it is often the true state of affairs.

Rutkowski states that, "it is essential that reliable information be made available to those who will in the end decide if it (the ERA) is to become the 'law of the land.'" With this I wholeheartedly agree! Issues ought to be decided on the basis of fact (evidence) and not mere opinion (emotion). Later, in the same letter, she states, "Most of all, the ERA will give this country a moral atmosphere of equality and justice." Unfortunately, this is not a statement of fact, but rather one of opinion. It is an attempt to lift the emotional banner of pride and prejudice without examining the consequences (i.e., the evidence) which follows.

Any segment of society (ours is extremely diverse and complex) which is favored by some form of legislation, is favored at the expense of some other segment of society. It becomes, in effect, a subjective standard by which only a segment of society can advance and to which they can adhere, rather than an objective standard to which all men are amenable. Legislation simply cannot be passed which will be fair to everyone! A good example of this is to be found in busing which is hardly "fair" (in the fullest sense of that term) to anyone! The problem you see, is that laws cannot be passed which will cause men to love one another.

Further, since Rutkowski mentioned the betterment of our country's "moral atmosphere," one would have expected her to have dealt with those moral issues which those of us who oppose the ERA claim will be affected by the amendment. Strangely, she did not. Instead, she avoided them almost completely. Since she avoided these issues, I would like to guide her to them with some facts of my own.

Fact: The Houston Chronicle of February 6, 1976 carried a UPI press release from Bass Lake, California, entitled, "Rest Rooms Lose Sex Distinction." A quotation from the article is as follows: "The forest service is dropping the 'men' and 'women' signs over rest rooms at the Bass Lake recreational area in favor of unisex facilities. Officials said each of the 28 new rest room buildings under construction will contain cubicles with doors on them and they will be for both men and women." ERA supporters have assured us that this was just a "mythical issue," however, we find that it is instead a Factual moral issue. The "myth" exists in the assurance that such was not a true implication of the pressures of NOW, ERA and the unisex movement. Of course, we still have the assurance from some of those who are for our country's "moral atmosphere of equality and justice."

Fact: The Herald-Palladium of September 3, 1976, carried an article by Tom Tiede, entitled, "Prisons Cross Sex Barrier." The upshot of this article was that in a federal prison women were employed as guards in an all male institution. Part of their duty includes "strip search," the meaning of which is quite clear. Mr. Tiede stated: "Hence a controversy is born that has implications regarding a wide spectrum of social attitudes and legal complexities. . . . Not surprisingly, the issue has its roots in the equal rights movement. Traditionally an all-male prison, with all-male guards, the Springfield institution yielded last January to the forces that insist women must be everything men must be." Beverly Rutkowski consoles us, though, by insisting that such behavior is actually giving this country a "moral atmosphere of equality and justice."

Fact: There are interesting and disturbing situations arising in those states which currently have a statewide ERA. For example, the City of Los Angeles found itself unable to pass an ordinance requiring women to wear clothing from the waist up, because the same ordinance would have to apply to men or sex discrimination would be involved. Further, under state ERA's, Washington State and California have already legalized homosexual marriages, as many authorities anticipated. We are reminded however that these are just "mythical issues." On the contrary, though, we find them to be quite factual and quite disturbing! The real "myth," it seems, exists in the literature of those who insist that these things will never happen. They will happen and in several cases, they have already happened.

I congratulate those women who have brought gross inequities to the attention of the American people. I, for one, am in favor of "equal pay for equal work" as well as those things which are truly social inequalities. This applies, of course, only to those areas in which men and women should be equal. They are not biologically, physically, and emotionally equal however, and each of us must learn to respect these differences. Unfortunately, the ERA contains moral implications which will either reverse or destroy these basic human differences.

I urge you, as responsible citizens, to decide this issue on the basis of fact, not pride, prejudice, emotion or opinion.

You'll hear panic-cries that Proposal "C" will tear up the roads, fire the police, board up the schools, padlock the parks and take the seeing-eye dogs away from the blind. Nonsense. Proposal "C" doesn't say a word about any of those things or about any programs.

Proposal "C" is your chance to put a lid on local and state taxes once and for all. It's worth going to the polls this Nov. 2 just to vote "Yes" for Proposal "C". Because it just may be your last chance.

SAYS PEOPLE SHOULD TAX THEMSELVES

Editor,
I have been reading lately about all the opinions of Proposals A through D. The one that interested me a great deal was from Richard J. Allen, Republican State Senator, 13th district, Alma, Mich.

I don't know, for the life of me, how some of these people get elected. I quote from his letter, "Proposal C does not limit government spending, it does limit state government's income. I would urge all citizens, especially farmers and homeowners, to closely examine the difference." This tells me one thing, that no legislators are fiscally responsible. Everybody has to live within their budget or their income. And they are supposed to be our leaders! Therefore, if they are not fiscally responsible, they should not be our leaders.

The next thing they said was that our property taxes go up. They will if we vote for them. Property taxes do not go up without people voting for them on a local level as you are well aware of, for instance, on bond issues for schools or increases in school expenses or township expenses. The board alone can not do it without the mandate of the people. That is what the people want, the right to tax themselves, not give the right to legislators that are not fiscally responsible. Proposal C and D sound good to me.

I don't want to leave out Proposal A. This proposal will probably clean up this state more than all the strict adherence to the laws that we can't enforce. Every child who wants to make a few cents picking up bottles and cans and returning them to the stores, can. If we didn't have that to keep our cities clean, we would probably pay six times that amount in taxes to have a sanitary worker do the same job. I vote yes for Proposal A.

All the politicians are now saying they're going to see that we pay less taxes or are going to realign the taxes. They have been saying that every election year and nothing has happened. Now is the time for us to decide what we want to do about our taxes. So, let's get out and vote.

LUXURY JUNKET IS CRITICIZED

Editor,
All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Everyone knows that. So perhaps we shouldn't be too critical of the 11 congressmen, eight of them accompanied by their wives, who recently visited the Far East and Australia to study the impact of the fall of South Vietnam.

As the Scripps-Howard News Service tells it, however, even a millionaire could be envious of them.

They traveled on a VC-135 Air Force plane, which the military thoughtfully stocked with 67 bottles of booze in case of snakebite. Since there were Lord knows how many snakes aboard, the bottles emptied fast, but the military replenished the supply of booze with dozens more along the way.

First stop was Elmendorf Air Force Base, where the congressmen and their wives dined on a lunch of Alaska crab. The bill came to $491, which the Air Force naturally picked up.

In Tokyo, Jakarta, in fact, everywhere they went, the party stayed only in luxury hotels, with the Air Force paying all the bills, including bills for car rentals and bar tabs.

In Canberra, the Air Force even laid out $120 for opera tickets for six music lovers in the party. It also bought $26 worth of drugstore supplies for the group. (Those snakes must have been fierce).

Studying the impact of the fall of South Vietnam was a gruelling experience, so the party stopped in Honolulu to recuperate. They stayed at the Royal Hawaiian — where else? — courtesy of the Air Force.

Just how much the study cost will never be known. The Air Force shelled out more than $100,000, including $74,000 to operate the plane, but the congressmen also drew on two special congressional travel funds.

Well, it may only be money, but I personally think that election to public office has a higher calling than pulling up to the public through and indulging one's self to the utmost. The men and women we elect to the United States Congress should be aware of that fiduciary capacity in public trust. They should no more embark upon these "junkets" than should the members of the Executive branch engage in "dirty politics" or executives of our large international corporations "pay off" government officials of other countries.

The concept of "I'll get mine while the gettin' good" has no place in public office, and I believe the 11 candidates who are opposing these 11 congressmen in November should make the public aware of their actions.

BOTTLES DON'T LITTER — PEOPLE DO

Editor,
There are arguments both pro and con on the subject of banning nonreturnable beverage bottles and cans.

Some members of the retail store industry, which handles beverage bottles and cans, are in favor of Proposal "A"; but, by and large, some of them are opposed to it and for many sound, economic reasons. Some of the many reasons for opposition to the proposal, that come to mind, are as follows:

There are serious reservations on just how passage of this proposal would prohibit bottle or can litter.

If today's society was in the same economic condition that existed in the great depression years of the thirties, perhaps a deposit would be attractive enough to secure the return of used beverage-bottle containers.

However, we are now an affluent society and money just doesn't mean that much, particularly if there is an inconvenience in the routine of returning bottles or cans.

A nonreturnable beverage container is a customer - convenience package, the same as a catsup, vinegar or condiment bottle or a pickle or jelly jar, that resulted from customer demand.

Nobody pushed these containers on to the public — you can still buy beverages in returnable bottle, with a deposit, at almost any retail outlet that handles beverage containers; but the customer passes them up for nonreturnable containers, because it is much simpler to put them in the trash barrel and avoid an unsanitary attraction for flies and vermin and other parasitic insects such as cockroaches, etc.

Retail merchants who handle beverage containers know that the second time a beverage case is used, it often carries cockroaches, etc. with it. Sure, they wash the bottles but not the cases — that problem has existed for years; and sometimes, if you have ever wondered how come you had cockroaches in your home, and if you had purchased a case of returnable bottles in a used case to take home, that's where they came from.

The Michigan United Conservation Club has a slogan in defense of gun ownership, "guns don't kill — people do." Likewise, this statement is also true, "bottles don't litter — people do."

I am well aware that there is somewhat of a litter problem caused by the scuff-the-law attitude of a certain percentage of the population. Probably the greatest number of them, who bother farmers in particular, are the hunters who take to the fields every fall for small game and deer. They discard their beverage containers indiscriminately to make room for the birds and small game that they secure. The least the hunters could do is to respect other people's property and leave it clean the way they found it. Otherwise, the farmers have the problem, not only of the rocks they come upon every year, but also of the debris left by careless hunters who use the farmer's land.

Roadside litter — that's against the law; but here again, you find the scuff-the-laws people. You might wonder why there are more beer containers than soft-drink containers thrown out as litter. The explanation is that in the 1973 session of the legislature, a law was passed making it illegal to have an open beverage-alcohol container in your car. So, what happens if a six or a twelve-pack of beer is being consumed illegally in a car? Just in case they might get stopped for a traffic violation of any kind, they get rid of the evidence of illegal, open beverage-alcohol containers ahead of time by tossing the empty, open containers any place along the road. Of course, that's illegal, too; but if you don't get caught, who cares?

New laws or forced deposits are not going to solve the problem. The scuff-the-laws people will still litter along the roads; and the thoughtless hunters will still litter in the fields and streams, because, as the National Rifle Association says, "if you ban guns, only the criminals will have them;" and if you force deposits on convenience containers, the scuff-the-laws affluent public will still litter.

The only thing that Proposal A would accomplish is an increase in price and deposits to the greatest majority of consumers who are not scuff-the-law people, and that means you and your families when you purchase your favorite beverage in a bottle or can for home consumption.

SAYS CANDIDATES SPAWN APATHY

Editor,
It is being widely reported that the voter turn-out on November 2nd is expected to be a record breaking low percentage of the total electorate. The reason for this is not difficult to discern. Neither of the major candidates arouse the enthusiasm of the great majority of wage earning tax paying American citizens. Why not? I submit the following list of reasons:

Both candidates are willing to spend astronomical amounts of government paper money for misguided federal programs which hamper free enterprise. Neither candidate really believes in a balanced budget. Thus, no matter which candidate is elected, we can look forward to more double digit inflation.

Neither candidate is willing to come out eloquently and effectively about the danger that communism poses to the entire world. Both favor the present system of being cozy with Russia, regardless of whether it is called "Detente" or something else. A close examination of the total record would indicate that both candidates favor a policy of appeasement toward militant socialism. For example, it is totalitarian socialism that is being encouraged in Africa under the slogan of "majority rule." There is not one black African country that has gained independence that has what one might call functional democracy. It is impossible to go from primitive tribalism to the kind of republican government which we enjoy in one generation.

Neither candidate is unequivocally committed to do something positive and effective to stop the murder of innocent unborn children. Both candidates are willing to go along with government financed abortions.

Neither candidate is unequivocally committed to do something positive and effective to stop the ridiculous and counter-productive busing of little children across cities and counties, even though this busing is in direct violation of the landmark "Brown versus Board of Education" ruling of the Supreme Court in Little Rock, Ark. The majority of parents both black and white want an end to busing. But "majority rule" means nothing to the social manipulators.

Both candidates favor the so-called "Equal Rights Amendment" even though its origins can be traced directly to the Communist manifesto, and even though its impact can only undermine the family unit in our culture. Our present system of laws actually discriminate in favor of wives and mothers so that they may stay in the home and provide the maternal care that small children so desperately need. Under the E.R.A., promoted by Bela Abzug and other radicals, such discrimination would be wiped out and we would be ready for the creation of industrial armies of both sexes similar to what they now have in Red China.

I could go on and on, but space forbids. God-fearing people of both parties can only be disillusioned at the choice offered in November.

PROPOSAL A WALKERS LIKED THE SEND-OFF

Editor,
We began a walk across the state in Benton Harbor Saturday to get the facts out on Proposal A, the returnable bottle referendum. Mayor Patterson welcomed us to the city as we started our walk in the Jean Klock park. An impressive pile of litter was collected in the park and built into a "litter monster." We would like to thank the people in the area who put us up for the night and organized our reception there.

As we walked down the Red Arrow highway people honked their horns to let us know that they are supporting Proposal A. The purpose of the walk is to let the people of Michigan know that distortions and untruths are being circulated by opponents of a return to returnables.

Adoption of Proposal A would mean less litter, more jobs and lower costs. In Oregon and Vermont where bottle laws exist, litter was reduced by over 75 per cent. The official study done by the Public Service Commission showed that 4,000 new jobs would be created in trucking, warehousing, and retailing sectors of the economy if a bottle law is adopted.

Returnables are cheaper than throwaways. According to testimony by the president of Coca-Cola before Congress, "Coke sold in food stores in non-returnable packages is priced, on the average, 30 to 40 per cent higher than Coca-Cola in returnable bottles. The difference lies essentially in the different costs of packaging. The cost of returnables is spread over many uses; the cost of the non-returnable package is absorbed in one use."

We hope that the people of Michigan will consider these facts before voting on Proposal A. Vote "Yes" on "A" this November.

Tom Moran
Tim Kunin
Jeffrey Ross
Russell McKee

P.S. Our walk is also intended to raise money to buy radio and newspaper space to get the facts out on Proposal A. We are asking that people send contributions to 1226 Riverwood, St. Joseph. Pledge forms and information are available at 983-3596 or 983-6532.

ERA OPPONENT OFFERS 'FACTS'

Editor,
In a letter to the editor recently, Beverly J. Rutkowski charged that ERA foes obscure the real issues in myths. She stated that "A recent letter to the editor of his newspaper points up the considerable confusion and misconception that surrounds the Equal Rights Amendment." She then proceeded to state some "myths" accompanied by the "facts" (so-called) which would dispel these myths. Without committing myself to total agreement or disagreement with her list, may I point out that in extremely emotional issues such as the ERA, there is always a danger of unsupported opinions being forwarded as absolute fact. This is an unfortunate set of circumstances, nevertheless, it is often the true state of affairs.

Rutkowski states that, "it is essential that reliable information be made available to those who will in the end decide if it (the ERA) is to become the 'law of the land.'" With this I wholeheartedly agree! Issues ought to be decided on the basis of fact (evidence) and not mere opinion (emotion). Later, in the same letter, she states, "Most of all, the ERA will give this country a moral atmosphere of equality and justice." Unfortunately, this is not a statement of fact, but rather one of opinion. It is an attempt to lift the emotional banner of price and prejudice without examining the consequences (i.e., the evidence) which follows.

Any segment of society (ours is extremely diverse and complex) which is favored by some form of legislation, is favored at the expense of some other segment of society. It becomes, in effect, a subjective standard by which only a segment of society can advance and to which they can adhere, rather than an objective standard to which all men are amenable. Legislation simply cannot be passed which will be fair to everyone! A good example of this is to be found in busing which is hardly "fair" (in the fullest sense of that term) to anyone! The problem you see, is that laws cannot be passed which will cause men to love one another.

Further, since Rutkowski mentioned the betterment of our country's "moral atmosphere," one would have expected her to have dealt with those moral issues which those of us who oppose the ERA claim will be affected by the amendment. Strangely, she did not. Instead, she avoided them almost completely. Since she avoided these issues, I would like to guide her to them with some facts of my own.

Fact: The Houston Chronicle of February 6, 1976 carried a UPI press release from Bass Lake, California, entitled, "Rest Rooms Lose Sex Distinction." A quotation from the article is as follows: "The forest service is dropping the 'men' and 'women' signs over rest rooms at the Bass Lake recreational area in favor of unisex facilities. Officials said each of the 28 new rest room buildings under construction will contain cubicles with doors on them and they will be for both men and women." ERA supporters have assured us that this was just a "mythical issue," however, we find that it is instead a Factual moral issue. The "myth" exists in the assurance that such was not a true implication of the pressures of NOW, ERA and the unisex movement. Of course, we still have the assurance from some of that this is really for our country's "moral atmosphere of equality and justice."

Fact: The Herald-Palladium of September 3, 1976, carried an article by Tom Tiede, entitled, "Prisons Cross Sex Barrier." The upshot of this article was that in a federal prison women were employed as guards in an all male institution. Part of their duty includes "strip search," the meaning of which is quite clear. Mr. Tiede stated: "Hence a controversy is born that has implications regarding a wide spectrum of social attitudes and legal complexities. . . . Not surprisingly, the issue has its roots in the equal rights movement. Traditionally an all-male prison, with all-male guards, the Springfield institution yielded last January to the forces that insist women must be everything men must be." Beverly Rutkowski consoles us, though, by insisting that such behavior is actually giving this country a "moral atmosphere of equality and justice."

Fact: There are interesting and disturbing situations arising in those states which currently have a statewide ERA. For example, the City of Los Angeles found itself unable to pass an ordinance requiring women to wear clothing from the waist up, because the same ordinance would have to apply to men or sex discrimination would be involved. Further, under state ERA's, Washington State and California have already legalized homosexual marriages, as many authorities anticipated. We are reminded however that these are just "mythical issues." On the contrary, though, we find them to be quite factual and quite disturbing! The real "myth," it seems, exists in the literature of those who insist that these things will never happen. They will happen and in several cases, they have already happened.

I congratulate those women who have brought gross inequities to the attention of the American people. I, for one, am in favor of "equal pay for equal work" as well as those things which are truly social inequalities. This applies, of course, only to those areas in which men and women should be equal. WHAT IF?

Answers from the U.S. Department of Commerce* to questions you may have asked yourself about bottle and can legislation.

*Based on "The Impacts of National Beverage Container Legislation," U.S. Department of Commerce Staff Study A-01-75, October, 1975.

WHAT IF... There's a national law forcing a system of returnable beverage containers?

WHAT WILL REALLY HAPPEN... To jobs? Consumer costs? Energy use? Litter? Solid waste?

HERE ARE THE FACTS... From a federal government study.

The U.S. Department of Commerce recently published an official staff study on the impact of legislation that would force a nationwide switch to an all-returnable bottle system. The study analyzed and answered important questions about such legislation.

WHAT WILL BE THE EFFECT ON JOBS? Considerable and unfavorable.

Higher-paying jobs will be lost, lower-paying jobs may be gained, according to the study.

Some 82,000 workers in metals fabrication, and can and bottle manufacturing will lose their jobs. Between 95,000 and 115,000 poorer-paying jobs could be gained in retailing (bottle-sorting) and in beverage production, filling and distribution. But even these "gains" depend on an unlikely 90% bottle return rate.

WHAT WILL YOU PAY FOR PACKAGED BEER AND SOFT DRINKS? More.

The Commerce Department study said that prices for beer and soft drinks in containers will go up because industry would have to spend billions of dollars to convert to the all-returnable system, total labor costs would rise, beverage sales would drop, and there would be less competition.

WILL ENERGY BE CONSERVED? There will be no energy savings at all, the study reported, if the bottle return rate is 70% or less.

An "optimistic estimate": Over a whole year, an all-returnable system might produce energy savings of only a little more than half of one day's energy consumption for the entire nation—less than two-tenths of one percent of our annual energy use. And even that will happen only with a "doubtful" 90% return rate.

WILL LITTER PROBLEMS BE SOLVED? No.

At best, roadside litter might decrease by 10-12%. It might not decrease at all because no one knows how many returnable bottles actually would be returned. The Department of Commerce study said that programs which tackle the total litter problem—such as voluntary efforts using the Clean Community System approach—will be much more effective than legislation. In Macon, Ga., Charlotte, N.C., and Tampa, Fla., the Clean Community System (formerly known as the Action Research Model) has achieved total litter reductions in the 65-70% range. By comparison, the official state study in Oregon showed a 10.6% reduction after a full year under the Bottle Bill.

WILL SOLID WASTE PROBLEMS BE EASED? Very little, if at all.

The Commerce Department study forecast only nominal savings in solid waste disposal costs—perhaps $48 million annually. This is only 1.6% of the approximately $3 billion it costs the nation annually to manage solid waste. And this saving is based on a 90% container return rate—an "unrealistically high" figure, the study said. If return rates drop below 80%, solid waste costs would actually go up.

SHOULD CONTAINER LEGISLATION BE PASSED? A firm "no"

That was the clear answer from the Commerce Department study.

The report just as firmly urged that litter control should be carried out by states and communities through such programs as the Clean Community System.

Energy conservation, the study said, can be achieved by improvements in technology, already under way in the container manufacturing industry.

WHAT IF?

Answers from the U.S. Department of Commerce* to questions you may have asked yourself about bottle and can legislation.

Based on "The Impacts of National Beverage Container Legislation," U.S. Department of Commerce Staff Study A-01-75, October, 1975.

WHAT IF... There's a national law forcing a system of returnable beverage containers?
WHAT WILL REALLY HAPPEN... To jobs? Consumer costs? Energy use? Litter? Solid waste?

HERE ARE THE FACTS... From a federal government study.

The U.S. Department of Commerce recently published an official staff study on the impact of legislation that would force a nationwide switch to an all-returnable bottle system. The study analyzed and answered important questions about such legislation.

WHAT WILL BE THE EFFECT ON JOBS? Considerable and unfavorable.

Higher-paying jobs will be lost, lower-paying jobs may be gained, according to the study.

Some 82,000 workers in metals fabrication, and can and bottle manufacturing will lose their jobs. Between 95,000 and 115,000 poorer-paying jobs could be gained in retailing (bottle-sorting) and in beverage production, filling and distribution. But even these "gains" depend on an unlikely 90% bottle return rate.

Don't Forget Fire Safety

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

In their concentration on home security, some people have become careless about fire prevention.

Safeguarding the home and family against fire should become a habit, not a once-in-a-while consideration. For example:

— Small children should not be left at home alone and baby sitters should be told how to escort children to safety in the event of fire. Older children in the family should know what to do in an emergency.

It isn't enough to leave a telephone number where parents might be reached. A fire department number and a neighbor's number are more important.

— Before leaving on a trip, paints, gasoline and other flammables should be removed from the house. Stacks of papers should be removed.

— Be sure fire insurance is paid and that you have updated it before you go on a trip. The smallest fire can be costly.

— Some utilities should be shut off even if you are going on a short trip. If electric service boxes have separate switches for different areas, timers can be left on even though the range, refrigerator, dishwasher, water and so on, are turned off.

— Try to use perishable foods so that the freezer and refrigerator can be turned off if you plan an extended vacation. Some people make exchange deals with neighbors to store freezer food.

— If someone wilts out your furnace, it can be safely left on. During a cold period you may have no alternative.

— Fire extinguishers should be put in rooms that are away from exits and in utility rooms that might contain solvents and electrical wiring and in garages and kitchens. Baking soda is a good emergency fire fighter in the kitchen. Never throw water on a grease fire.

— Many fires are started by faulty electrical systems. Overloading circuits is one reason and improper wiring may be another. Worn and frayed electric cords can be dangerous. An electrician can check your home to make sure you have the proper voltage for the load your wiring is carrying.

A Handy Summary Of Interior Paints

From SOUTHWESTERN
MICHIGAN BOARD OF REALTORS

Planning a painting project in your home but don't know what kind of paint to select? Your Realtor offers some advice to help match the right paint with your needs.

Terms such as epoxy enamel, flat latex, semi-gloss and full-gloss might be a bit confusing but they describe types of paints and kinds of finishes resulting from their use.

Water-thinned flat latex paint, for example, is the most popular interior paint for walls and ceilings. It can be used as either a primer-sealer or finish coat on wallboard, plaster or wall-paper-covered walls. Flat describes its non-glaring finish.

Why is flat latex paint popular? It covers well, dries quickly, is non-toxic and nearly odorless. It's washable too, although not as washable as certain enamels.

Enamels form a hard film which can be washed repeatedly. That's why enamels are used in bathrooms, laundry rooms, kitchens, halls and work areas. They are available in a full range of finishes from flat to full gloss.

Flat alkyd enamels are made with alkyd resins. They can be used on walls and ceilings in the same manner as latex paints but offer more abrasion resistance and are more washable. Flat alkyd enamels also dry quickly (about four hours) and are nearly odorless.

Epoxy enamels are ideal for areas of heavy wear. They produce a hard film and resist grease, dirt, solvents and water.

Although they tend to be rather costly, epoxy enamels offer good durability. They even can be used on concrete floors.

Dripless enamels, made with aspecial alkyd base, are used as decorative enamels for properly primed walls and ceilings made of plaster or wallboard. They also can be used on wood trim and primed metal.

Dripless enamels, as the name implies, do not drip while being applied. They brush on smoothly and boast fine color retention. When they dry they resist water and solvents.

Semi-gloss and full-gloss latex enamels offer most of the advantages of both alkyd enamels and latex paints. They can be used on wallboard, plaster, wood and properly primed woodwork.

Undercoaters or primer-sealers are not usually needed for interior painting because most interior surfaces previously have been painted. However, priming is necessary where surface damage is observed or where old paint has worn out.

Primer coats or undercoats are needed on unpainted surfaces. Latex primer-sealer, water-thinned, is easy to apply. Enamel undercoat (alkyd base) is used as an undercoat for interior enamels. It dries in about 12 hours and brushes on easily. It forms a hard, tight film.

Unpainted metal surfaces should be primed to protect the metal against corrosion and provide a good base on which to apply the finish coat. Special primers are made for different kinds of metal.

Bingo Licenses Suspended

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Twelve organizations have had their bingo licenses temporarily suspended for selling illegal "jar tickets," according to state lottery officials. "Jar tickets" are raffle chances traditionally sold from jars. Usually sold for 25 cents, each group of tickets contains a certain number of small prize winners. State lottery commissioner Gus Harrison said the 12 organizations bought the tickets from a Lansing firm that has been raided by police. Officials said the groups were repeatedly warned that the "jar tickets" are illegal, though legislation is pending that would legalize the games. The license suspensions range from one week to four weeks. Those whose licenses were suspended are: Elks Lodge 1965, Hastings; Moose Lodge 288, Lansing; Moose Lodge 998, Ionia; Moose Lodge 1386, Munising; Moose Lodge 2268, Clare; Shiawassee Dog and Gun Club, Corunna; St. Joseph Parish, Jackson; Veterans of Foreign Wars 701, Lansing; VFW 1859, Saginaw; VFW 3033, Mount Pleasant; VFW 8303, Lowell; and American Legion 40 et 8, Lansing.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Growth Stocks Are Hostage To Future

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. At what level of income taxes do you recommend municipal bonds instead of growth common stocks? We are in our early 50s, with a tax rate approaching 50 per cent. We hold good-paying utilities, using the dividends to reinvest in other stocks, but with taxes so high we are wondering whether we should sell out and go for growth.

A. I don't think growth stocks and municipal bonds are "either-or" securities. Growth stocks are hostages to the future. They represent hopes and dreams. For people in your age and financial situation they represent attempts to protect capital from inflation, to build capital so as to increase buying power for your children's education and for your own retirement. They represent one method of trying to cope with an uncertain future. They are far from exact, 100 per cent guaranteed investments. (I don't know of any such financial instruments.)

The municipal bond represents an investment of money in a loan which is exempt from Federal, and may be exempt from state and local, taxes... period. If you are lucky, you will get your tax-free interest every six months and, at maturity, the face value of the bond. It cannot show you a gain. It is not a hedge against inflation. It is a tax shelter which, in today's socio-economic setting, may involve minimal to high risk.

No one (repeat: NO ONE) can tell you how much of, say, $100,000 capital you should invest in either area. Those who can take high risk will put the entire $100,000 into growth stocks and "shoot the works." Others will opt for 75-25 or 50-50 or 25-75 or 100 per cent tax-sheltered investments. Only you can determine how much you want to risk in stocks and how much you want to shelter from taxes in top-quality municipals. (Speculating in low-quality, high-risk municipals makes sense only for a municipal bond expert.)

I realize I'm giving you a formula with a half-dozen unknowns. I'm quite certain that someone will come up with an exact, 100 per cent guaranteed formula for you. Don't believe it — anyone than you should take anyone else's advice for the color of your shirts or the height of your lady's dancing slippers. You have to live with it — comfortably. And no investment is worth its salt if it brings discomfort.

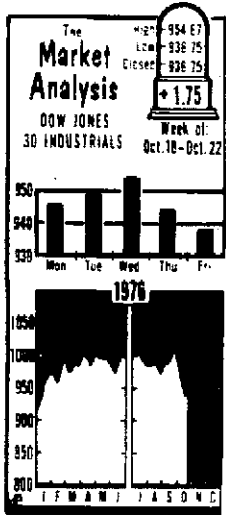

Q. I am 51, single, and able to invest about $150 a month. I enclose a list of stocks which a broker suggested I use to make a selection for monthly purchase. Do you think I should invest in this manner? Or would I be better off to study the market myself and make my own selections (even though I don't know if I have the time or the savvy)? If you feel I would do better on my own, please send me your list of suggestions.

A. I think you will find that my list (which requires a stamped, self-addressed return envelope) will carry many of the names sent you by the broker. And that should not be surprising. You don't have to be a financial genius to suggest that A.T.&T., Kodak, Exxon, General Motors, General Telephone, IBM, 3Ms, J.C. Penney, Sears Roebuck, etc., are, have been, and most likely will continue to be profitable companies. And I'm just quoting a fraction of their list (and mine).

For information to check on obsolete securities, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Teachers Endorse Democrat

BANGOR — Ronald K. DeCook, Democratic candidate for 45th district state representative, has received the endorsement of the Van Buren county Public Affairs Council (VAN-PAC).

DeCook was endorsed, an announcement from the organization said, because of his support for educational issues. VAN-PAC is affiliated with the local branch of the Michigan Education association.

VAN-PAC members believed, the release said, that the voting record of DeCook's opponent, state Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor), which was rated at zero on political reform, and 41 per cent on educational issues, was not in the best interests of education.

DeCook, of Grand Junction, is currently serving on the Van Buren county board of commissioners.

The 45th district includes most of Van Buren county, the northern tip of Berrien county, a portion of southeastern Allegan county, and one township in the southwestern corner of Barry county.

Chrysler Buys Plant In Indiana

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has acquired a U.S. Steel Corp. plastics plant in Michigan City, Ind., for an undisclosed purchase price, effective Nov. 1, the automaker has announced.

Chrysler said the 160,000-square-foot facility, which has 100 employees, will be operated as a source for automotive plastics parts.

The plant, currently operated by U.S. Steel's chemicals division, produces blow-molded plastic gas tanks for Chrysler trucks and a variety of nonautomotive plastic products.

Hourly workers at the plant will become employees of Chrysler, which has reached agreement with Teamsters Local 298 to continue to honor the labor contract now in effect there.

Fire Ruins House

BUCHANAN — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Irene Sutfin home at 104 Hobart street here this morning, Neal Burks, Buchanan fire chief said.

Burks said the five-room, one-story house was gutted by the fire discovered by Buchanan police at 6:10 a.m.

No one was in the house when the fire broke out. There were no injuries to firemen. No dollar estimate of damage, or fire cause, had been determined by late this morning, Burks said.

RIVER CAPTURE: Unidentified man is dragged from Meramec river at Arnold, Mo. after being shot in the back at the conclusion of manhunt Friday. Police were looking for a man who earlier shot and critically wounded an Arnold policeman responding to a residential break-in report. About 100 police officers took part in manhunt following the wounding of John LeCompte, a 44-year-old patrolman. Police said the suspect was hit by a bullet during an exchange of gunfire with police. LA Firm Offers Booth Almost $300 Million

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles has offered to pay almost $300 million for Booth Newspapers, Inc. in what could turn out to be the biggest sale in American newspaper history.

Times-Mirror, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, offered Friday to buy all 7.37 million shares of Booth stock at $40 a share.

Some Booth shareholders, including three directors, have agreed to sell their shares to Times Mirror at that price. That group of stockholders owns about 34 per cent of Booth stock.

The announcement said all other Booth directors have indicated they plan to sell their shares during the offer which expires at 8 p.m. EST, Nov. 1.

Observers said the proposed deal would run into opposition from New York publisher S.I. Newhouse who bought 25.5 per cent of Booth stock in February. There are reports he has tried to buy additional Booth stock.

Newhouse could not be reached for comment Friday but legal documents filed in Washington by Times Mirror indicated he opposed their plan to acquire control of Booth.

The documents indicated Newhouse considered his Booth holdings "a long term investment and that he might acquire additional shares, if necessary, to protect his existing investment position."

Booth publishes eight Michigan newspapers, in Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Bay City. It also has controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a nationally distributed weekly newspaper supplement.

John Morton, a Washington newspaper industry analyst, told the Detroit Free Press: "In terms of price, no other sale that I know of could come anywhere near this. I don't think there is a doubt that this would be, by a wide margin, the largest newspaper sale in history."

He said the largest previous purchase was in 1974 when Knight Newspapers, Inc. acquired Ridder Publications for $99 million worth of stock.

In addition to the Los Angeles Times, Times Mirror owns Newsday on Long Island, N.Y., and the Dallas Times Herald.

Newhouse owns the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Conde Nast publications which include Vogue and Mademoiselle and numerous other newspapers and television and radio stations.

According to papers on file in Washington, members of both stockholder factions of the Booth family have agreed to sell their stock to the Times-Mirror. In addition, the filings indicate Times Mirror has offered employment contracts to Booth president James Sauter and other members of Booth management.

Innocent Pleas Are Entered

GRAND RAPIDS — Three Chicago-area people have pleaded innocent to federal charges filed after a raid last June in Covert township on an alleged "drug factory" where police said they found enough chemicals to produce $5 million in illegal drugs.

The pleas came during an arraignment yesterday before a federal magistrate in U.S. District court here.

Pleading innocent were James Tatum, 43, of River Forest; Angela Menard, 24, of Elmhurst Park; and Robert Villarreal, 25, of Chicago.

Tatum and Menard were charged with manufacturing and possession with intent to deliver PCP, a powerful animal tranquilizer, while Villarreal was charged with an attempt to possess and deliver PCP.

The three were indicted last week by a federal grand jury. They were freed on bonds ranging from $150,000 to $25,000.

The three were arrested in the raid at a secluded cottage in Covert township overlooking Lake Michigan. Authorities said they uncovered a large-scale illicit drug manufacturing laboratory.

About two pounds of alleged PCP (phencyclidine) was seized along with what authorities said were enough chemicals to make illegal drugs with an estimated street value of $5 million.

The raid culminated a six-month investigation by agents from the Chicago office of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). Covert township policemen were called in to assist in the arrests.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. At what level of income taxes do you recommend municipal bonds instead of growth common stocks? We are in our early 50s, with a tax rate approaching 50 per cent. We hold good-paying utilities, using the dividends to reinvest in other stocks, but with taxes so high we are wondering whether we should sell out and go for growth.

A. I don't think growth stocks and municipal bonds are "either-or" securities.
Growth stocks are hostages to give to the future. They represent hopes and dreams. For people in your age and financial situation they represent attempts to protect capital from inflation, to build capital so as to increase buying power for your children's education and for your own retirement. They represent one method of trying to cope with an uncertain future. They are far from exact, 100 per cent guaranteed instruments. (I don't know of any such financial instruments.)

The municipal bond represents an investment of money in a loan which is exempt from Federal, and may be exempt from state and local, taxes...period. If you are lucky, you will get your tax-free interest every six months and, at maturity, the face value of the bond. It cannot show you a gain. It is not a hedge against inflation. It is a tax shelter which, in today's socio-economic setting, may involve minimal to high risk.

No one (repeat: NO ONE) can tell you how much of, say, $100,000 capital you should invest in either area. Those who can take high risk will put the entire $100,000 into growth stocks and "shoot the works." Others will opt for 75-25 or 50-50 or 25-75 or 100 per cent in tax-sheltered investments. Only you can determine how much you want to risk in stocks and how much you want to shelter from taxes in top-quality municipals. (Speculating in low-quality, high-risk municipals makes sense only for a municipal bond expert.)

I realize I'm giving you a formula with a half-dozen unknowns. I'm quite certain that someone will come up with an exact, 100 per cent guaranteed formula for you. Don't believe it — anyone than you should take anyone else's advice for the color of your shirts or the height of your lady's dancing slippers. You have to live with it — comfortably. And no investment is worth its salt if it brings discomfort.

Q. I am 51, single, and able to invest about $150 a month. I enclose a list of stocks which a broker suggested I use to make a selection for monthly purchase. Do you think I should invest in this manner? Or would I be better off to study the market myself and make my own selections (even though I don't know if I have the time or the savvy)? If you feel I would do better on my own, please send me your list of suggestions.

A. I think you will find that my list (which requires a stamped, self-addressed return envelope) will carry many of the names sent you by the broker. And that should not be surprising. You don't have to be a financial genius to suggest that A.T.&T., Kodak, Exxon, General Motors, General Telephone, IBM, 3Ms, J.C. Penney, Sears Roebuck, etc., are, have been, and most likely will continue to be profitable companies. And I'm just quoting a fraction of their list (and mine).

For information to check on obsolete securities, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Teachers Endorse Democrat

BANGOR — Ronald K. DeCook, Democratic candidate for 45th district state representative, has received the endorsement of the Van Buren county Public Affairs Council (VAN-PAC).

DeCook was endorsed, an announcement from the organization said, because of his support for educational issues. VAN-PAC is affiliated with the local branch of the Michigan Education association.

VAN-PAC members believed, the release said, that the voting record of DeCook's opponent, state Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor), which was rated at zero on political reform, and 41 per cent on educational issues, was not in the best interests of education.

DeCook, of Grand Junction, is currently serving on the Van Buren county board of commissioners.

The 45th district includes most of Van Buren county, the northern tip of Berrien county, a portion of southeastern Allegan county, and one township in the southwestern corner of Barry county.

Chrysler Buys Plant In Indiana

Hourly workers at the plant will become employees of Chrysler, which has reached agreement with Teamsters Local 298 to continue to honor the labor contract now in effect there.

LA Firm Offers Booth Almost $300 Million

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles has offered to pay almost $300 million for Booth Newspapers, Inc. in what could turn out to be the biggest sale in American newspaper history.
Times-Mirror, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, offered Friday to buy all 7.37 million shares of Booth stock at $40 a share.
Some Booth shareholders, including three directors, have agreed to sell their shares to Times Mirror at that price. That group of stockholders owns about 34 per cent of Booth stock.
The announcement said all other Booth directors have indicated they plan to sell their shares during the offer which expires at 8 p.m. EST, Nov. 1.

Observers said the proposed deal would run into opposition from New York publisher S.I. Newhouse who bought 25.5 per cent of Booth stock in February. There are reports he has tried to buy additional Booth stock.
Newhouse could not be reached for comment Friday but legal documents filed in Washington by Times Mirror indicated he opposed their plan to acquire control of Booth.

The documents indicated Newhouse considered his Booth holdings "a long term investment and that he might acquire additional shares, if necessary, to protect his existing investment position."
Booth publishes eight Michigan newspapers in Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Bay City. It also has controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a nationally distributed weekly newspaper supplement.

John Morton, a Washington newspaper industry analyst, told the Detroit Free Press: "In terms of price, no other sale that I know of could come anywhere near this. I don't think there is a doubt that this would be, by a wide margin, the largest newspaper sale in history."

He said the largest previous purchase was in 1974 when Knight Newspapers, Inc. acquired Ridder Publications for $99 million worth of stock.
In addition to the Los Angeles Times, Times Mirror owns Newsday on Long Island, N.Y., and the Dallas Times Herald.
Newhouse owns the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Conde Nast publications which include Vogue and Mademoiselle and numerous other newspapers and television and radio stations.

According to papers on file in Washington, members of both stockholder factions of the Booth family have agreed to sell their stock to the Times-Mirror. In addition, the filings indicate Times Mirror has offered employment contracts to Booth president James Sauter and other members of Booth management.

Innocent Pleas Are Entered

GRAND RAPIDS — Three Chicago-area people have pleaded innocent to federal charges filed after a raid last June in Covert township on an alleged "drug factory" where police said they found enough chemicals to produce $5 million in illegal drugs.

The pleas came during an arraignment yesterday before a federal magistrate in U.S. District court here.

Pleading innocent were James Tatum, 43, of River Forest; Angela Menard, 24, of Elmwood Park; and Robert Villarreal, 25, of Chicago.

Tatum and Menard were charged with manufacturing and possession with intent to deliver PCP, a powerful animal tranquilizer, while Villarreal was charged with an attempt to possess and deliver PCP.

The three were indicted last week by a federal grand jury. They were freed on bonds ranging from $150,000 to $25,000.

The three were arrested in the raid at a secluded cottage in Covert township overlooking Lake Michigan. Authorities said they uncovered a large-scale illicit drug manufacturing laboratory.

About two pounds of alleged PCP (phencyclidine) was seized along with what authorities said were enough chemicals to make illegal drugs with an estimated street value of $5 million.

The raid culminated a six-month investigation by agents from the Chicago office of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). Covert township policemen were called in to assist in the arrests.

Hair Stylist Is Cutting Records

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Two years ago, Larry G. Hudson was one of the best hair stylists in the country. He owned two shops, employed eight persons and was making good money.

Now he's cutting records like he used to cut hair. And he says he's happier than he ever thought he could be and on the verge of becoming a country music star.

"I was just at the point where I was making a comfortable living," said Hudson, 27, of Macon, Ga. "Hair styling was great to me; I enjoyed success beyond wildest dreams, and for that I'm thankful."

"But music was, and always will be, my first and all-consuming love," said Hudson, also known as "Larry G."

He and his seven-piece band — you guessed it, they're called "The Stylists" — will soon be touring the West Coast, the Midwest and the Eastern Seaboard. His current single is "You Light Up My World."

If he's as successful at singing as he was at styling hair, country music will have a new star.

He won a Georgia hair-styling contest and was second among 7,000 other contestants in national competition in Pittsburgh.

He says he wasn't much of a singer at first.

"The first thing you have to do is to be honest with yourself. I was not a good singer when I started out. I spent two years studying other singers. I've picked the brains of every major artist I could find."

"I'm sincere. It's no front. I know where I'm at and where I want to go. Other people are more talented than I am, but none will outwork me."

He's recorded two songs that became hits later by other artists. They are "9,999,999 Tears," now a hit by Dickey Lee, and "Shop Around," one of the Captain and Tennille's hits.

Individual's Ballot Does Count, Close Elections Prove

From SOUTHWESTERN MICHIGAN BOARD OF REALTORS

As the 1976 political campaign draws to a close, candidates, political scientists and the news media alike are wondering what role voter apathy will play in the election results in November.

It appears that many voters have become disenchanted with the political process in recent years. This disenchantment has been evidenced at the polls. In 1972, for example, only 56 per cent of all Americans entitled to vote cast ballots in the presidential election.

Some people have blamed voter apathy on Viet Nam, Watergate and recent scandals in Congress. For many people however, it boils down to "My vote doesn't mean anything."

Don't try to tell that to U.S. Sen. John Durkin, (D-N.H.). First election results in 1974 indicated that his opponent, Republican Congressman Louis Wyman, had won the Senate seat by a margin of 355 votes.

A recount by the New Hampshire Secretary of State reversed the verdict. Durkin was declared the winner by margin of 10 votes. The Governor's Ballot Commission reviewed the election and reversed the results once more. This time Wyman was named winner by two votes.

As a result of the controversy over the election results, the Senate declined to seat either candidate and referred the matter to the Senate Rules Committee. Finally, both candidates agreed to let the voters of New Hampshire resolve the matter. In September 1975 the voters sent Durkin to the Senate by a margin of 27,000 votes.

In a more recent example, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Daniel Patrick Moynihan just last month won New York's Democratic Senate primary by a one per cent margin. A total of 900,000 ballots were cast in the primary. He defeated his opponent, Rep. Bella Abzug, by only 9,300 votes.

Historically, one of the most interesting close elections was the presidential election of 1960. John F. Kennedy won the popular vote by a margin of only 118,574 over Richard Nixon. Because some 500,000 ballots were cast for other candidates, Kennedy became one of the nation's 15 minority presidents in terms of the popular vote. His popular vote represented 49.7 per cent of the almost 69 million ballots cast in the election.

However, in the all-important electoral vote, Kennedy captured 303 to Nixon's 219. Sen. Harry Byrd, who was not a candidate, received 15 electoral votes. A slight shift in the popular vote of several states would have swung the election to Nixon.

Illinois' 27 electoral votes, for example, went to the Democratic candidate by a margin of just 8,858 votes out of 4,757,409 cast in the state. A change of less than one vote in each of the state's 9,980 precincts would have shifted the state's electoral votes to the Republican column.

A slight shift of votes in several other close states would have meant a Republican election victory. Nevada, with three electoral votes, was won by Kennedy by fewer than 2,500 ballots. The margin in South Carolina, with eight electoral votes in the balance, was only a little more than 9,900.

New Mexico's four electoral votes went to Kennedy by less than 2,300 ballots. In the closest contest of all, Kennedy captured Hawaii's three electoral votes by a margin of 155.

So you can see an individual's vote takes on considerable significance sometimes. That's why your neighborhood Realtor urges you to get politically involved. Study the issues. Compare the candidates. Then on November 2nd cast your ballot for the candidate of your informed choice.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

● As far as I know, there is none. One of the reasons is that Protestantism is fragmented into several denominations, so there is a wide variety of opinions on this issue. In fact, the very name "Protestant" indicates the absence of uniformity. My judgment is that the prevailing view would be that God alone should determine a man's life and death. The individual should be entrusted to the hands of God, who gives life and whose function it is to decide to take it.

FOR JULIA CHILD

When did you first become interested in cooking?—Tracy Wallace, Glendale, Calif.

● When I met my husband Paul. He was raised on good food, and eating was very important to him, so I decided if I wanted our relationship to continue (which I did), I'd better learn about cooking. Also, the people we associated with in Ceylon (Sri Lanka) and China (during World War II) always discussed food. After that, learning about it and experimenting with recipes seemed to come naturally.

FOR HENRY WINKLER, star of TV's "Happy Days"

There were many rumors that you would not star this season in "Happy Days" because you were sick of the character, "Fonz." Was there any truth to this?—M.M., Harrington Park, N.J.

● No. I wouldn't just walk out. I knew where I was, career-wise, before the series started, and I know where I am now. I do not take that lightly.

FOR BENJAMIN FRANKLIN BAILAR, U.S. Postmaster General

Isn't it costly to print so many special stamps? Did the TV commercials offering these stamps pay their way?—Carol Hunt, Boise, Idaho

● There are about 16 million Americans who collect United States postage stamps that are placed, unused, into albums. The Postal Service does not have to provide mail processing and delivery services for these stamps. The advertising campaign did pay for itself and returned approximately $52 million in excess revenue in 1975.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

If you develop wrinkles, will you get a face-lift?—G. G. Crabtree, Lansing, Mich.

● Most certainly. Our feelings about ourselves are circumspect. If we like ourselves, we feel better, act better and people treat us better. Some people regard wrinkles as distinguished beauty marks. Not me. Those who like wrinkles can keep them. When they begin to appear, I'm going to get rid of them.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE, sportscaster

How does it feel to be a woman sportscaster in a man's world?—Jackie Wilson, Washington, D.C.

● Sports is not a man's world any more. More and more women are enjoying and participating in all kinds of sports. So why shouldn't there be women sportscasters? It's great being a woman in this field; I wish there were more of us.

FOR SIDNEY SHELDON, author of "The Other Side of Midnight" and "A Stranger in the Mirror"

Was the Greek shipowner in your novel, "The Other Side of Midnight," modeled after Aristotle Onassis?—M.R., Athens, Ga.

● The resemblance was only a series of coincidences, but Onassis thought I had used him for the model, too. He sent an aide over to my house to find out. He wasn't planning to sue, he was just curious. We even discussed the idea of Onassis playing the shipowner in the movie version. But Onassis became gravely ill shortly after that discussion.

FOR DENNIS WEAVER, star of "McCloud"

Do you do a lot of horseback riding in your spare time?—Lynn Nestar, Concord, Calif.

● Yes and no. Many moons ago I used to raise horses, but these days my riding is limited to the TV show—where I gallop down New York and Australian streets chasing bad guys. Otherwise, the only riding I get is on borrowed horses from the local stable at our Lake Arrowhead mountain retreat.

FOR JANIS IAN, singer

How did your childhood friends treat you when you became successful?—C.S., Asbury Park, N.J.

● I didn't have any because we moved a lot. My dad, a teacher, was always getting new and better positions. We moved 11 or 12 times in the New Jersey and New York areas, and I had no roots. It seemed I was always making new friends. The only ones who stayed around and didn't change were my grandparents. I can do no wrong in their eyes.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Can you answer this? Who's been around the longest on TV?—C.A., Decatur, Ill.

● It has got to be Mary Stuart, who has starred in "Search for Tomorrow" since the start of the program. When the soap opera recently celebrated its 25th anniversary, the show had been aired well over 6,000 times. Mary, as "Joanne Vincent," has been the star since the show's debut. She started off as a camera girl in New York's Roosevelt Grill, where she was spotted by a Hollywood talent scout. This resulted in her making movies with Errol Flynn and Preston Foster. Mary recalls that in the early days on TV the word "affair" was not permitted. "Flirtation" was the nearest we'd get to being naughty," she says. The actors did not have cue cards, which meant either learning the part well or improvising. Once, in desperation, Mary wrote her lines inside her coffee cup.

THE RACE FOR "FIRST LADY"

Betty Ford and Rosalynn Carter in a Dynamic Contest

By Frances Spatz Leighton

Betty Ford teases her husband that "five years from now," when she is no longer the nation's First Lady, she is going to lobby for a salary for her successor. Mrs. Ford has learned that a President's wife works hard—seldom harder than during the homestretch of an election campaign.

The First Lady enjoys campaigning, but she obviously means it when she says, "Either way the election turns out, I win. If my husband loses, I win more of his time. If he wins, as I believe he will, then I have the chance to continue my own work."

Clearly, Mrs. Ford has strong opinions and is willing to speak out for them. Yet she wants to hear—and consider—the opinions of others. This is evident on the campaign trail, where "even people with anti-Ford banners respect the First Lady," says her press secretary, Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld.

What is it like to campaign with Betty Ford? Mostly it's grueling 18-hour days, spent not in formal speech-making but in "turning people on and getting turned on by them," says Mrs. Weidenfeld. "The First Lady may make a short statement, but then she just wings it. She has become more confident."

There are also lighter moments to make the furious pace bearable. For instance, when newsmen asked the First Lady which churches she would attend on the campaign trail, she reportedly said, "Whichever ones Jimmy Carter isn't teaching in!" When she heard Carter washed his own socks, she supposedly quipped, "He must have heard that Jerry makes his own breakfast."

While campaigning, Mrs. Ford keeps in constant touch with the White House by phone, but she is not included in her husband's strategy councils. Betty doesn't mind. She feels she does as well by saving her advice for "pillow talks."

What are Betty Ford's main concerns for America? Here's her list.

First, ratification of ERA—the Equal Rights Amendment. "For too long," she says, "women have been bound by laws and customs that keep them from making decisions about their own lives, from using their talents fully."

Social Security benefits for housewives. "A homemaker should have some financial security other than that provided by her husband," she says.

Lighter sentences for marijuana smokers, especially for first offenders. Mrs. Ford took harsh criticism when she revealed that Jack, one of her three sons, had tried pot and given it up. But she refrained from comment when Rosalynn Carter admitted that all of her three sons had done likewise.

Registration of all handguns. Betty is strongly in favor of this, but admits that she and the President disagree.

Something short of abortion on demand, but, in general, "whatever will take the abortions out of filthy back rooms. I think the 1973 Supreme Court decision was good," the First Lady maintains, "because it took abortions out of the back woods and put them in clean hospital rooms, where they belong. No matter how one may deplore abortion, it is important to remember that a strict anti-abortion law would bring back the medically dangerous back-room abortion."

Tradition has it that behind every great man there is a great woman. "If the truth were known," says an old Georgia friend, "Rosalynn Carter isn't the woman behind Jimmy. A lot of the time she's several steps ahead of him."

Rosalynn has the "best political instincts of anyone on Carter's campaign staff," a top aide observed. "Sometimes they are even better than Jimmy's." Some of her insights were crucial to Carter's gaining the nomination. For instance, she made a pre-primary trip to South Dakota, a state her husband was not planning to campaign in strongly. What she learned there made her convince Jimmy to change his mind. Upshot: he won the state in a momentum-providing upset.

"You can't really understand Jimmy unless you know Rosalynn," a long-time Carter associate says. "She is not only his wife but also his best friend." Moreover, she is her husband's most trusted adviser—and at the same time his most fearless critic.

Talking with FAMILY WEEKLY in the wood-paneled den of her Plains, Ga., home, Rosalynn Carter does not look like a hard-boiled political pro. Instead of votes and tactics, she voices her concern about her 8-year-old daughter Amy. "Sometimes you forget how she has been, well, pushed around by the demands of campaigning," Rosalynn says. "She never complained. But when I left to go on a 10-day trip recently, Amy suddenly started crying and clung to me."

When talk does turn to the election, however, the soft-spoken 49-year-old Rosalynn shows both her characteristic determination and independent cast of mind. Take, for instance, the thorny issue of abortion. "I have always been personally opposed to it, and so has my husband," she says. "What was hard for me, however, was to decide for other people, not just for myself. We finally realized we were not in favor of a constitutional amendment prohibiting abortion because we saw what happened when it was outlawed in Georgia. I saw women whose bodies were permanently damaged by illegal operations in abortion mills."

Another time, when opponents were labeling Carter as a "big spender" of tax money, a "big-government" proponent, Rosalynn kept urging him to remind people that despite his social concerns he is a good businessman, a good manager. As a result, Carter a few days later announced that he would institute no new Rosalynn Carter's independence can be traced back to her self-reliant childhood. Her father died when she was 13, and she, the oldest of four children, helped support the family. She worked in a beauty parlor and did sewing for her mother, who earned money as a dressmaker. Rosalynn worked her way through high school and junior college. At 19 Rosalynn married Annapolis graduate Jimmy Carter after a year's courtship. Those early years were difficult. Carter, a submarine officer, was at sea for long tows of duty and Rosalynn had to be both mother and father to the three boys—Jack, Chip and Jeff—who were born during the first seven years of her marriage. When Carter returned to Plains to run the family peanut business, Rosalynn became an active partner in the enterprise. community."

Betty Ford frankly answers questions from press and public that few would have dared to ask a First Lady in the past. For example, when FAMILY WEEKLY asked: "If your husband is such a nice guy, why did you have to go to a psychiatrist?" Mrs. Ford replied: "He was very busy, away from home 200 days a year. It wasn't Jerry's problem, it was my problem—to find my identity as a woman, to cope with raising four children—that led me to seek help."

What about the First Lady's health, especially after her mastectomy?

"If it weren't good, my husband wouldn't be running," she said. "He did not want to seek re-election if my health was impaired in any way. But my check-ups have been fine."

Betty Ford's philosophy of child-raising is that "parents should not feel they possess their children. They are loaned to us to shape for 18 or so precious years, to the best of our ability," she says. "About the time they graduate from high school, we must release our hold, leave them free to make their own decisions."

Evenings, when the President works on his papers in their bedroom-sitting room, his wife keeps him company while working on her own projects. "What I like best about Jerry," she says, "is that he doesn't lose his temper. I he is a good person to live with. He wears well."

As for stories of her religious fervor, they're true. She even has a religious plaque bearing the Prayer of St. Francis in her bathroom. She reads it each morning and night, and believes that it gives her strength through the day.

speeches, greet voters. That experience helped her become one of her husband's most effective campaigners during the run for the Presidency.

What can we expect from Rosalynn Carter if, next January, she becomes the nation's First Lady? She has said that her models in that role would be women like Eleanor Roosevelt and Ladybird Johnson.

Improvements in the field of mental health and care for the retarded would be two of her chief goals. Her interest in those areas was sparked when she listened to the stories of troubled Georgia citizens while Carter was Governor. In a recent speech to the Southern California Psychiatric Association, she recounted how she talked with a woman mill worker on the night shift. "This woman told me that her husband did not earn enough to support the family," Rosalynn said. "She had to take care of their retarded child while her husband came home, and then she went to work nights."

That same evening Rosalynn went to one of Jimmy's meetings. "He said, 'What are you doing here?' I said: 'I've come to find out what you are going to do about mental health if you're elected.' " Ultimately, Carter's administration gave Georgia an outstanding mental-health program, and Rosalynn was a leader in sparking many of its advances.

On the lighter side, Rosalynn plans to introduce down-home square dancing at White House social functions. And she will follow in the Fords' footsteps by breaking the long tradition of separate husband-and-wife bedrooms in the White House. "I'll do like we did in Georgia," smiles Rosalynn. "We'll give the First Lady's bedroom to Amy."

"Millionaires Are Not 100 Times Smarter Than You, They Just Know The Wealth Formula"

Millionaires are not 100 or even 10 times smarter than you. But it is a fact that millionaires are making 10 to 50 and even 100 times more than you.

Are these wealthy people working that much harder than you? No way!

If you are working only 20 hours a week, it would be physically impossible. (There are only 168 hours in a week, no one gets more.)

These questions used to really stump me. That was six years ago.

My wife and I then lived in Denver, Colorado, at 2545 South High Street. We paid $135 a month rent for a cramped, tumbled down house. My wife was expecting our second child and we were flat broke. I felt desperate and forced into a corner. I had to borrow $150 from my father and another $150 from my father-in-law just to buy the groceries and pay the rent. If that wasn't enough, I was several thousand dollars in debt.

Things are much different now. Last year I could have retired and lived off the income of my one million dollars in real estate holdings. (Incidentally, almost all of the income from the real estate is tax free.)

Since I had worked 20 to 40 hours a week, I know that I didn't work even 10 times longer or harder than you. And with my Coverage from Ames High School (located in Ames, Iowa), I'm quite certain that I'm not any smarter than you.

If hours, efforts, or brains are not what separates the rich from the average guy who is swamped with debts and very little income, then what is?

I learned the answer to that question from an old fellow in Denver. This fellow worked in a drug store stocking the shelves. Very few people knew that he had $200,000 in the bank, all of which he had earned starting from nothing.

Within a year after meeting him, I was told and shown the same thing by a young man who had recently earned over a million dollars. By this time, I began to realize that what I was being shown was truly a remarkable and workable way to grow rich.

I began to apply the principles and methods I had been shown. The results were amazing. I couldn't believe how easy it was, if fact it seemed too easy.

But then I met an elderly lady (83 years old) who, although not very smart, has made $117,000 using the same formula.

I then figured my beginning wasn't luck.

For three and one half years, I worked hard to refine and improve on the formula that I had been shown, so that it would be easy to get quicker results.

As I did this, my assets multiplied very rapidly (160% per year) to the point that I didn't have to work any longer.

I guess I am bragging now, but I did start spending a lot of time in our back yard pool, traveling around the country, and doing a lot of loafing.

Then one day a friend asked me how he could do what I had done.

So I began to outline the formula that I had improved to show him really how simple it was, and how he could do the same thing.

By the time he approached me, I had written almost a complete volume on the easy way for him to copy my results.

I wrote this in simple, straightforward language so anyone could understand it.

This time my friend's questions were very specific. (He had already begun buying properties with the formulas I had been giving him). Now he had a property he wanted to buy, but was out of cash. How could he buy it?

I not only showed him how to buy without cash, but by the time the deal was complete, he had $5,000 cash in his pocket to boot.

I also showed him how to buy a $26,000 property for $75 down.

You, or anyone, can do exactly what I did, or my close friends have done; in fact, you may well do it better. (I began doing this in my spare time only).

It doesn't matter where you live or the size of your town or city, my formula will show you exactly how to:

- Buy income properties for as little as $100 down.
- Begin without cash.
- Put $10,000 cash in your pocket each time you buy (without selling property.)
- Double your assets every year.
- Legally avoid paying federal or state income taxes.
- Buy bargains at 1/2 their market value.
- Allow you to travel one week out of every month.

When you send me a check or money order for $10, I will send you all my formulas and methods, and you are free to use them anywhere and as often as you would like.

Now if you were a personal friend of mine, I know you would believe me and not need any kind of guarantee, but since you don't know me personally, I will guarantee that you will be completely satisfied and that my formula will work for you if you apply it. I will back up that guarantee by not cashing your check for 30 days, and if you for any reason change your mind, let me know and I will send your uncashed check back.

You may well ask, why am I willing to share my formula for wealth? Well, because many of you will probably seek further consultation and direction from me as your wealth rapidly grows and my consultation fee of $75.00 an hour adds to my fortune.

But you shouldn't care if I profit as long as you profit. And I guarantee that you will.

By the way, if you feel a little uneasy about sending me a check or money order for $10.00, simply postdate it by 30 days which will completely eliminate your risk.

Not surprisingly, the new Commissioner was equally successful on the Washington social scene. Many promi-

When the Doles were married last year, Washington humorists were inspired to wonder whether the nuptials between a Federal regulator and a U.S. Senator might be violating anti-merger

For Mrs. Dole, combining a demanding career—she often took work home after a 10-hour day at her desk—with marriage to a hard-working Senator made "a beautiful fit." "When one partner is involved in work, it is good for the other also to have a real challenge," she says. "That's proved true for us."

Her counterpart, 46-year-old Joan Mondale, is the mother of three teenagers. She is also a potter, author of the book, Politics in Art, and a sports enthusiast. Neither outspoken nor retiring, Mrs. Mondale is considered—as a political wife—to be a team player . . . smart, competent, discreet.

Her campaign style is easy going. She's engaging, quietly effective—not a back-slapper. Joan Adams was the daughter of a Presbyterian minister; Fritz Mondale was the son of a Methodist minister. "It's as though we were raised in the diplomatic corps," she says. "We had perfect training for the political process."

The Mondales' never knew each other when both were students at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. They met several years later on a blind date and married after a whirlwind courtship. There was a time early in their marriage when life was strained. Mondale was running for election to state office, and then for U.S. Senator. "The children were small, and I was at home with crying babies and diapers, and I wasn't happy," Joan says. "So I began to hire baby sitters and do volunteer work."

Her major interest, both as career and avocation, has been the fine arts. After graduation from college, Joan Mondale worked at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. Later she served for a time as volunteer guide at the National Gallery of Art in Washington.

Joan Mondale once fed her family on a welfare budget—23 cents per meal per person—to learn how poverty-level families live. The Mondales ate hot dogs, tuna, rice and beans for a week. At that time, Mrs. Mondale said she would draw the line at hominy grits in the family diet.

Since Jimmy Carter has the nickname of "Grits" and a Democratic ticket this year is jokingly known as "Grits and Fritz," she has changed her attitude somewhat. An aide said that Mrs. Mondale would learn to like the favorite Southern dish by the time the campaign was over.

JOB-MANSHIP

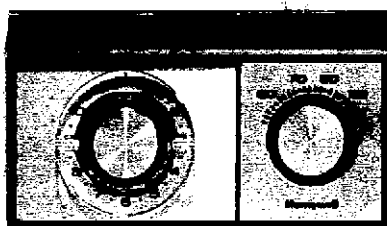

WHEN SOMEONE ELSE GETS THE PROMOTION

You can stew and complain to your family and friends when someone else gets the promotion you thought belonged to you, or you can do some constructive things that may make you the winner next time. Was the opening in a department other than yours? Maybe your supervisors were too busy with their own problems and never thought to recommend you. Did you ask them to? If the opening was in your own department, pleasantly ask your supervisor why you were passed over, and what you need to do to make yourself eligible for the next suitable opening. Then listen; don't argue or offer excuses. Say you'll act on what's been told you and do so. In his book How to Succeed in Company Politics, Edward J. PEOPLE AND YOU

HELP FOR DEPRESSION

You've tried pep talks, logic and even strong arguments on your depressed relative or friend. Yet his behavior doesn't change. Everyone is "down in the dumps" sometimes, but when depression lasts for long periods and the person's whole general outlook seems changed, then psychiatrists say he may be suffering from a depressive illness. There is much you can do to help. First, you must not gloss over the matter by fooling yourself into believing all is well. If periods of extreme enthusiasm alternate with deep depression, you must recognize that this indicates depressive illness. And, say psychiatrists, don't brush aside talk of suicide. People who later attempt suicide often appeal first for help by threatening it. Even where there's no suicide threat, action by friends and family is vital. Psychiatrists suggest keeping the troubled person busy. Depressed people find it hard to do even everyday, routine chores. They need your help to schedule constructive and pleasurable activities to fill their days. You can also try the old remedy of a change of scene for a week or more. It's still prescribed and sometimes is successful. If all fails, you should arrange for proper medical care. Remember, the depressed person finds it difficult to cope. However, you have reason to be hopeful. Of all psychiatric disorders, depression is one of the most responsive to treatment. Another source for finding additional valuable help is an excellent new 15-page booklet. You can obtain a free copy by requesting "Learning About Depressive Illnesses," from the National Institute of Mental Health, Public Inquiries, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852.

JOB-MANSHIP

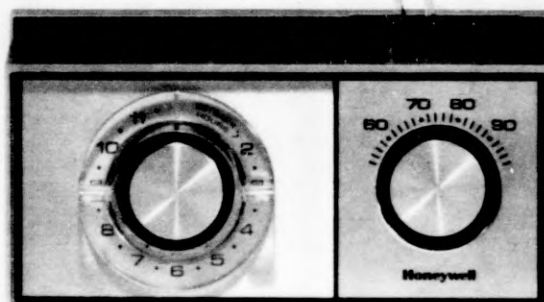

WHEN SOMEONE ELSE GETS THE PROMOTION

You can stew and complain to your family and friends when someone else gets the promotion you thought belonged to you, or you can do some constructive things that may make you the winner next time. Was the opening in a department other than yours? Maybe your supervisors were too busy with their own problems and never thought to recommend you. Did you ask them to? If the opening was in your own

Don't let your fingers be bare just because you don't want to spend $1,000 a carat (or more) for a diamond ring. Our Gemfires are so elegant only a diamond expert, or someone with a power-

Gemfires are polished and precision-faceted by master diamond cutters to bring out their full fire and brilliance. They are then set by master craftsmen, by hand, in expensive-looking, open-back mountings so the base of the stone is exposed for maximum reflection of light.

You don't have to be afraid that Gemfires will be phony-looking plastic or paste jewelry. They gleam like diamonds formed deep within the earth by tremendous heat and pressure. Yet they are free of the imperfections found in most natural diamonds. There are no cracks, no flaws, no spots of impurities to mar their sparkling beauty. We invite you to wear a Gemfire. If you, your family or your friends can tell the difference between it and a natural diamond return it to us within 30 days and we'll gladly send you your money back.

You're in good company when you wear Gemfires. Today, even millionaires wear simulated diamonds and keep their precious jewels hidden away in bank vaults to prevent them from being lost or stolen.

Gemfires make a lifetime gift — and the gift of a lifetime.

How to Find Your Ring Size

1. Cut a strip of paper 3 inches long and 1/4 inch wide.

2. Wrap the strip around the finger that is to wear the ring. Then place a dot on the strip where it meets the end.

3. Place the dot on the strip of paper at "A" on the ring guide. The number at the end of the strip is your ring size.

HEAVY GOLD ELECTROPLATE (HGE) — this mounting uses karat gold (either white or yellow) that is electrically bonded to the mounting after it is formed and the gold, by government standard, is 14 times thicker than the designation "gold electroplate".

STERLING SILVER (SS) — the mounting is 92.5% pure silver, 7.5% other metals for strength, and to eliminate tarnishing is lightly plated with precious rhodium.

CARAT (CT) — a measure of weight for a diamond - however, Gemfires are given approximate carat values based on size (not weight). In other words, a 1 carat Gemfire is approximately the same size as a 1 carat diamond.

GOLD FILLED (GF) — a lamination of base metal placed between sheets of gold.

ARE YOU A HYPERACTIVE ADULT?

Find out, and look for the symptoms in your children.

By Ruth Winter

Are you restless? Do you have poor coordination? Do you find it hard to concentrate? Are you frequently confused about left and right?

If the answer is yes to any or all of these questions, you could have minimal brain dysfunction (MBD). That does not mean you are retarded, seriously ill or brain-damaged. It just means that you may have a treatable condition that's well known in children but, until recently, has been all but ignored in adults.

According to Dr. Larry B. Silver, professor of psychiatry and chief of the section of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey Rutgers Medical School, the classic sign of MBD falls into three basic categories: 1) Learning Disability, 2) Emotional and Social Problems, 3) Hyperactivity or Distractability.

An estimated 5 percent to 10 percent of all schoolchildren suffer from MBD; from 15 percent to 50 percent are thought to carry the condition into adulthood. Since MBD is a relatively new concept and specific treatment for it has been available only recently, what about those adults who, as youngsters, had undiagnosed and untreated MBD?

Clinicians believe that many adults never reach their full potential because of unrecognized MBD and that other MBD adults have not only overcome their problems but have gone on to be "super achievers."

For most untreated MBD children, however, the story doesn't end so happily. Early studies suggest that as many as 50 percent of all juvenile delinquents show evidence of MBD and so do many school dropouts.

But what about victims of MBD who never break the law or disrupt a class, who may just suffer in silence and may not be reaching their full potential? One of the first to publish in the medical literature on MBD adults, Dr. L. Eugene Arnold, director of the Division of Child Psychiatry at Ohio State University, believes that 5 percent of employed adults have the problem.

Dr. Arnold points to a 20-year-old college student who went to a physician after seeing a movie about hyperactive children. He said all his life he had felt as the children in the film did. The student, Jim, maintained a B-minus average, but at great emotional expense. He found it difficult to concentrate. His friends, particularly his girlfriend, often complained about his restlessness and nervousness. According to Dr. Arnold, Jim was given a stimulant drug prescribed for hyperactive children.

After a year, he had learned to concentrate better, and was able to wean himself from the drug. However, after graduation from college, when Jim took a job in a large office, he began to have problems. He kept getting up and walking around the room. Jim was given another brief course of treatment, and Dr. Arnold advised him to find a different line of work. The young man switched to sales, where his outgoing energetic manner became an asset, and he did not need further therapy.

Dr. Arnold and other experts feel that many parents of MBD children also had MBD. Dysfunction is thought to be genetic and possibly caused by a biochemical imbalance. He feels that just as no parents should ignore symptoms of MBD in a child, neither should they ignore the symptoms in themselves. If you suspect that you have MBD, the nearest university's college of education offering a program dealing with this condition may be able to provide testing to determine whether you have a learning disability. If you do, remedial programs will be recommended.

If your symptoms do not fit neatly into the category of MBD, ask your physician for the names of psychiatrists or neurologists interested in the field. Painless and simple neurological tests can determine whether MBD is the proper diagnosis. If it is, a program of therapy, which may or may not include drugs, can then be prescribed.

BAYER Cough Syrup for Children has a good-tasting cherry flavor that children like. And even though it's strong enough for children as old as twelve, it can be taken by children as young as two.

The Key Ingredient Discovered By A Medical Doctor

THE BRAN DIET

You can lose 14 to 24 pounds or more without eating less food. If this sounds too good to be true, get the entire program now and read what Medical Doctors say about it. We've just published a new guidebook, THE BRAN DIET, that is short enough for you to read in one hour and easy to understand. We've condensed a tremendous volume of research into just a few thousand words. It reveals that you can lose as much as you want without hunger through an amazing weight loss secret that shrinks the fat right out of your body.

What Makes It Work? It Must Work — Or You Pay Nothing!

A scientific study described in our guidebook reveals why fewer calories are absorbed by your body from food that contains the proper amount of bran, while more calories are absorbed from the bran-free food that most of us eat. It must work — no matter what you've tried before — or you don't even have to pay our low price of $1.99.

You'll Feel Full With The Right Amount of Bran in Your Diet

The Bran Diet reduces the urge to overeat by requiring more chewing, slowing down the intake of food and stimulating secretions that induce a feeling of fullness. We invite you to ask your doctor for his opinion of our diet.

Between Meal Hunger Banished!

Scientific studies show that volunteers with the right amount of bran in their diet stayed full while those on a bran-free diet soon became hungry and ate again. Do you ever feel this way on your present diet? If so, the reason's simple: it lacks bran, the outer fiber coat of grain that is usually discarded in milling. You just need a little bit of bran if it's present in the food you eat. When you fill out and mail the order form, you'll soon receive dozens of tasty menus and recipes with foods which contain the bran you must have to lose weight and keep it off without being hungry.

It's A Healing Diet Too

The Bran Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet after the brilliant detective work of a famous cancer researcher. He observed that people in certain countries enjoy virtual immunity from certain diseases, because they have the right amount of bran in their diet. You'll read the full story in our guidebook.

Two doctors recently praised bran in their newspaper columns. One says, "We now have evidence incriminating bland foods in the development of appendicitis, polyps, diverticuli, and cancer of the large intestine." The other says that our typical bran-free diets produce the cramping pain of diverticular disease, and that 90% of the symptoms are relieved on the bran diet. Few people are constipated either, since no blockages form. High blood cholesterol levels which go with heart, lung, kidney and artery disease are lowered astonishingly on the bran diet. Phlebitis and hemorrhoids are controlled too. Even ulcers and gallstones are related to the amount of fiber in your diet.

Here's Proof That Ordering THE BRAN DIET Can Help You Shed 20 to 100 Pounds Or More

Read what people who've tried it say in these true stories. Read why it may be the best way ever discovered to restore health and lose weight permanently.

Here I am now. Order THE BRAN DIET, and see how easy it will be for you to lose weight.

"I lost 110 pounds on THE BRAN DIET."

— Mrs. Ann Adkins, Westfield, N. C.

"I'd been fat all my life. I had tried all kinds of diet aids, pills and fad diets. I'd lose 20 or 30 pounds and gain it back — plus more. Then, at 31 when I weighed 224 pounds, I put myself on the bran diet. I know it sounds unbelievable, but I stuck with it until I lost 110 pounds. I didn't go hungry at all. It's the kind of food, not the amount, that matters. It's wonderful to be slim. People that I work with are fascinated with what I've done. They used to say, 'She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat!' Now, I get lots of compliments.

P.S.—My husband has lost 40 pounds too, and we are able to get out and do things we've never done before. It's been over 1½ years since I reached 114 pounds, and I have no trouble keeping weight off. I would like to share my newly found joy in life with others and encourage those who have problems losing weight."

"Your Bran Diet Program has been recommended by my doctor from England, and he says it has cured many people."

"My daughter and I have been on Plan No. 1 for awhile. It's easy to stay on because you don't have that empty feeling."

— Mrs. J. S.

"The macaroni and the meatloaf are the best I ever ate."

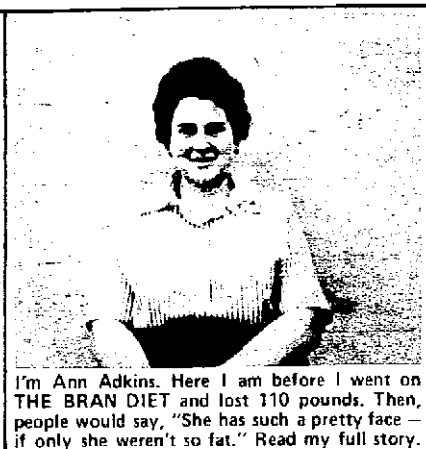

— Mrs. F. B.

Six Ways Going On THE BRAN DIET Helps You Lose Weight

1. It keeps you off the "Yo Yo Syndrome." (This is what happens when you lose a few pounds and then gain it all back.)
2. Your body absorbs fewer calories than with the same amount of regular food.
3. The food is delicious and easy to fix — so you aren't tempted to go back to your old diet. Imagine losing weight with these delicious dishes: Macaroni and Cheese, Pancakes, Brownies, Meatloaf, Dinner Rolls, Beef Stew, Rice Pudding, French Toast, Bran Cookies.
4. It works fast. You can see results in a few days. You'll soon feel like jumping up and doing things.
5. It mobilizes the fat — not the muscle out of your body. Your skin stays smooth, your body firm. Your complexion will become clearer. You will feel mentally alert.
6. Hunger disappears because it fills you up. You don't feel weak.

I'm Ann Adkins. Here I am before I went on THE BRAN DIET and lost 110 pounds. Then, people would say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat." Read my full story.

You'll Feel Full With The Right Amount of Bran in Your Diet

The Bran Diet reduces the urge to overeat by requiring more chewing, slowing down the intake of food and stimulating secretions that induce a feeling of fullness. We invite you to ask your doctor for his opinion of our diet.

Between Meal Hunger Banished!

Scientific studies show that volunteers with the right amount of bran in their diet stayed full while those on a bran-free diet soon became hungry and ate again. Do you ever feel this way on your present diet? If so, the reason's simple: it lacks bran, the outer fiber coat of grain that is usually discarded in milling. You just need a little bit of bran if it's present in the food you eat. When you fill out and mail the order form, you'll soon receive dozens of tasty menus and recipes with foods which contain the bran you must have to lose weight and keep it off without being hungry.

It's A Healing Diet Too

The Bran Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet after the brilliant detective work of a famous cancer researcher. He observed that people in certain countries enjoy virtual immunity from certain diseases, because they have the right amount of bran in their diet. You'll read the full story in our guidebook.

Two doctors recently praised bran in their newspaper columns. One says, "We now have evidence incriminating bland foods in the development of appendicitis, polyps, diverticuli, and cancer of the large intestine." The other says that our typical bran-free diets produce the cramping pain of diverticular disease, and that 90% of the symptoms are relieved on the bran diet. Few people are constipated either, since no blockages form. High blood cholesterol levels which go with heart, lung, kidney and artery disease are lowered astonishingly on the bran diet. Phlebitis and hemorrhoids are controlled too. Even ulcers and gallstones are related to the amount of fiber in your diet.

Here's Proof That Ordering THE BRAN DIET Can Help You Shed 20 to 100 Pounds Or More

Read what people who've tried it say in these true stories. Read why it may be the best way ever discovered to restore health and lose weight permanently.

Here I am now. Order THE BRAN DIET, and see how easy it will be for you to lose weight.

"I lost 110 pounds on THE BRAN DIET."

— Mrs. Ann Adkins,
Westfield, N. C.

"I'd been fat all my life. I had tried all kinds of diet aids, pills and fad diets. I'd lose 20 or 30 pounds and gain it back — plus more. Then, at 31 when I weighed 224 pounds, I put myself on the bran diet. I know it sounds unbelievable, but I stuck with it until I lost 110 pounds. I didn't go hungry at all. It's the kind of food, not the amount, that matters. It's wonderful to be slim. People that I work with are fascinated with what I've done. They used to say, 'She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat!' Now, I get lots of compliments.

P.S.—My husband has lost 40 pounds too, and we are able to get out and do things we've never done before. It's been over 1½ years since I reached 114 pounds, and I have no trouble keeping weight off. I would like to share my newly found joy in life with others and encourage those who have problems losing weight."

"Your Bran Diet Program has been recommended by my doctor from England, and he says it has cured many people."

"My daughter and I have been on Plan No. 1 for awhile. It's easy to stay on because you don't have that empty feeling."

— Mrs. J. S.

"The macaroni and the meatloaf are the best I ever ate."

— Mrs. F. B.

STEAK AU POIVRE ELEGANT & DELICIOUS

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen suggests "a delicious little dinner your guests will love. And," she adds, "they'll never guess how easy it is to prepare!"

Steak, with a definite character of its own, sizzles with pepper and a dash of wine.

STEAK AU POIVRE

- 2 tablespoons coarse-ground black pepper
- 3 lbs. boneless round steak, 2 inches thick
- 1 teaspoon coarse salt
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
- ½ cup dry white wine
- ¼ cup beef bouillon
- 3 tablespoons brandy

1. Press pepper into both sides of steak. Sprinkle each side with a little salt.
2. In large, heavy skillet, heat butter and olive oil until very hot but not smoking. Sear the steak on both sides until well browned. Then cook for 5 to 7 minutes on each side.
3. Transfer meat to a heated serving platter.
4. Add wine and beef bouillon to pan liquids. Heat to boiling and boil for about one minute, stirring to loosen brown bits in pan. Pour over steak.
5. Heat brandy in small saucepan. Then ignite it and pour, flaming, over steak at table.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

OVEN ROASTED POTATO WEDGES

- 4-6 russet baking potatoes or long white potatoes
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon paprika

1. Preheat oven to 450° F. Leaving skins on, scrub potatoes and cut lengthwise into ½-inch strips.
2. In small bowl, combine oil, salt, pepper and paprika. Toss potato wedges in seasoned oil.
3. Place potatoes on foil-lined baking sheet and bake for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Turn potatoes once while baking. Makes 4 to 6 servings

MIXED GREEN SALAD WITH AVOCADO ANCHOVY DRESSING

- 1 medium head romaine lettuce, washed and torn
- 1 head Boston lettuce, washed and torn
- 1 bunch watercress, washed and crisped
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms or canned mushrooms, drained
- 1 cup cherry tomatoes
- 1 cucumber, peeled and sliced
- 1 avocado, peeled and cubed
- ¼ cup cocktail or chili sauce
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 1 can (2 ozs.) rolled anchovy fillets, drained
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1. In salad bowl, combine lettuce, watercress, mushrooms, cherry tomatoes and cucumber. Cover and refrigerate.
2. To make dressing: Combine avocado, cocktail sauce, mayonnaise, anchovy fillets, pepper and lemon juice in electric blender. Blend until smooth.
3. Serve chilled salad in bowls and pass Avocado Anchovy Dressing. Makes 6 servings

What's Smart: Since beef prices are down this fall, steak is now a good buy. Round steak is even more of a bargain because the edible portion, per pound, is greater than in many other cuts. Avocados, used in our salad dressing, are also reasonable in price, because of a plentiful crop. However, due to the recent drought in Britain and on the Continent, a portion of the U.S. potato crop will be bought overseas—meaning higher-priced potatoes at home.

There oughtn't to be a law. That's how we felt after reading hundreds of regulatory "horror stories" sent to us in response to our offer of $25 U.S. Savings Bonds for verified examples of dumb laws and miscarried regulations. Here are some of the winners' "losers":

Fuzzy thinking. The new dress code of the Perry Local School District, Stark County, Ohio, prohibited male students from growing facial hair. That discriminates against boys, ruled the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Now the code equalizes things by prohibiting girls from growing beards and moustaches.

—Kevin McFarren, Massillon, Ohio
—William Wilkinson, N. Canton, Ohio

Mail chauvinism. A South Carolina family built a home two blocks beyond city limits. Turned out it was too far out for city mail delivery but too close in for rural delivery. Said the postal authorities: "You could rent a post office box—except that they're all taken."

—Ann B. Bass, Kingstree, S.C.
(who may have to receive her bond by carrier pigeon)

"MORE RULES AND REGULATIONS!"

Uncle and the ants. In one corner, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has a major program going to stamp out fire ants with a pesticide. In the opposing corner, the Environmental Protection Agency has restricted the program because the pesticide can harm the environment. Yet fire ants can kill people, including government regulators. Score: 0-0.

—Murray L. Weidenbaum, St. Louis, Mo.

Good move. Sometimes, "horror stories" have happy endings. It used to be in Warrensburg, Mo., for example, that only an accident victim or the police could call an ambulance without violating a city ordinance. Cooler heads prevailed, and the law was changed last August.

—Glenn I. Campbell, Sedalia, Mo.

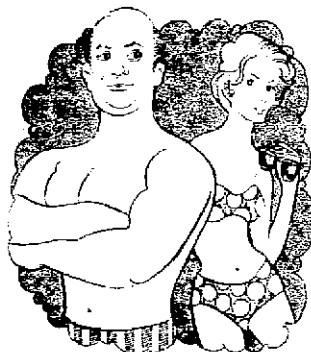

Any other silly rules? We'll run the best ones from time to time, and the winners will get a bond.

PEOPLE QUIZ By John E. Gibson

ARE YOU AND YOUR DAYDREAMS INSEPARABLE?

If you haven't been fantasizing lately about the irresistible impression you're making on the opposite sex, could it say something about your age? (See No. 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Daydreaming is generally considered a silly waste of time, associated with ne'er-do-wells and wishful thinkers.
2. Most people daydream every day.
3. What people daydream about depends on how old they are.
4. Daydreaming can either contribute positively or negatively to one's self-image.
5. There are three types of daydreaming—and the type you fall into tells a lot about your personality.

ANSWERS

1. False. A Miami University study of attitudes toward daydreaming indicates that "at least 72 percent of every age group studied (ranging from 17 to 77 years) considered 'daydreaming in a positive light.' Those who tended to disparage it as 'a silly squandering of time' or thought of frequent daydreamers as being lazy, ineffectual, never-amount-to-much individuals, were decidedly in the minority.
2. True—as evidenced by a survey of hundreds of men and women, from various parts of the U.S., ranging in age from late teens to middle age. Results: "96 percent of the respondents reported that they engage in some form of daydreaming daily and that their daydreams take the form of fairly clear images of people, objects or events."
3. True. The Miami University study showed that reliving "happy or exciting experiences in my daydreams" was most frequent in the younger people studied (late teens to early 20's). This type of daydreaming sharply declined with the approach of the 30's. Further findings: "Daydreaming about being promoted to a better position was highest for the 17-22 age span and lowest for the 66-77 age span, with a steady decline in between. And the tendency to imagine oneself as irresistible to the opposite sex was about equally strong at ages 17-22 and 27-35." Daydreams in this category reached their lowest ebb with the eldest group—those aged 66-77. Contrary to what might be expected, daydreams about impossible and heroic things were found to be "uncommon at all ages with the 17-22 age span showing the greatest tendency to fantasize about performing superhuman feats and the 27-35 age span the least."

4. True. Daydreaming—which one behavioral scientist has described as part of the ongoing inner flow of thought which we so value as a part of our private selves—can be constructively creative, mentally and emotionally relaxing and a pleasant, and sometimes fascinating, way to spend time which otherwise might offer no interest, enjoyment or productivity. On the other hand, daydreaming which is characterized by unpleasant emotions, pessimistic imaginings or morbid conjecture creates ill effects concerning ambition, morale and self-confidence.

5. True. Psychologist Jerome L. Singer, who has made extensive studies of the daydreaming of men and women from various walks of life, finds that daydreams tend to fall into three general patterns: 1) Daydreams which are characterized as both fearful and fleeting, with no particular continuity. This is associated with the easily distracted, hard to concentrate or scatterbrained individual who is inclined to be anxious and apprehensive. 2) The daydreams in the second pattern focus more strongly on almost exclusively negative emotions, such as self-doubt, feelings of guilt, fears of failure and an attitude of anger and resentment directed toward others. If such day-time fantasizing occurred at night, it might qualify as a nightmare. What it implies about the person's character is evident. He isn't on very good terms with himself, doesn't expect to get the breaks and isn't sure he deserves them. 3) The third pattern is termed the "happy daydreamer." Characterized by pleasant thoughts, positive emotions, constructive ideas and an enjoyment of the fantasy activities, daydreaming is used "for future planning and considerable interpersonal curiosity."

DAVID PEARSON: A Success Story Fueled By a Fan Club

"Gray Fox" Pearson has hit his forties, but he's not slowing down at the track.

David Pearson, second only to "King" Richard Petty on the all-time victory list in stock-car racing, owes his success to a fan club in his native Spartanburg, S.C. Back in 1959, he was working in a service station when friends told him there was a car for sale that was suitable for driving in the Grand National competition. Pearson had won a number of races on small dirt tracks and had been nicknamed "Little David" for his ability to upset some of the better-known drivers. He hadn't earned nearly enough, however, to buy that car, so friends decided to organize a fan club for him. A policeman friend went on a local radio station to announce formation of the club and to ask listeners to send in money. The dollars poured in, and Pearson was off to the big-time races. Following his first year in Grand National racing, Pearson was named "Rookie of the Year" by the National Association of Stock Car Racing. He has become the second driver in history to win the 'triple crown' of his sport—the Daytona 500, the World 600 and the Southern 500, in one season. He beat Petty to win the Southern 500 in September, with the Democratic Presidential candidate and the Republican Vice-Presidential candidate looking on. Pearson went over the million-dollar mark in career earnings a few years ago and earned $179,000 in prize money last year. At 41, he is an "old man" as athletes go and earned the nickname of "Gray Fox" when he became a grandfather. He has shown, however, that he has both the skill and the physical conditioning to keep going at top speed in his sport. When Pearson hit a slump in 1971, some of the "experts" decided he was over the hill. "Everybody kept asking me if I was going to retire, and their attitude bothered me," he says. "Instead of encouraging me to quit, the questions gave me the incentive to prove there was still plenty of racing life left in me." Pearson began a new association the next year with the Wood Brothers and their Purolator-Mercury car and marked the beginning of the association with a victory in the "Rebel 400." A year later, the driver who was supposed to be over the hill enjoyed one of the greatest seasons in stock-car history with 11 victories in 18 races. Ten of those victories were on superspeedways. Many of the people connected with auto racing feel Pearson could be as big a winner in the annual Indianapolis race as he has been in the stock-car field. But Pearson believes in sticking to his roots. "Sure, I could win in Indianapolis-type racing, but I'm not interested in that," he says. His "home" is the stock-car circuit where his true fans are—like those who believed in him enough to spring for the car which got him started.

LAUGH at the COLD!

It's 10° outside . . . Even getting colder. So you bundle up in layers and layers of heavy clothes. First with long underwear . . . then bulky, restrictive thermalwear on top.

Oh, you were warm, all right. Like in a Turkish bath. Because you began to perspire from all your activity. And perspiring in that mountain of clothes is like perspiring in a plastic bag! The perspiration is locked in. So there you are. Wet and miserable.

But now, at last, Damart has solved the problem. Because Damart invented underwear that keeps you warm, dry and comfortable no matter how cold it is or how long you stay out. Underwear that's soft and light so you can move easily. Underwear that lets the perspiration evaporate through so you always stay warm and dry next to your skin.

Damart does this with a new miracle fabric — Thermolactyl. It not only retains and reflects your natural body warmth, it's knitted to let perspiration out! No other underwear does this! Damart Thermolactyl is so comfortable that the Mount Everest climbing expedition wears it. So does the Glencoe mountain rescue team and the entire Chicago Bears Football Club.

DAVID PEARSON: A Success Story Fueled By a Fan Club

"Gray Fox" Pearson has hit his forties, but he's not slowing down at the track.

David Pearson, second only to "King" Richard Petty on the all-time victory list in stock-car racing, owes his success to a fan club in his native Spartanburg, S.C. Back in 1959, he was working in a service station when friends told him there was a car for sale that was suitable for driving in the Grand National competition. Pearson had won a number of races on small dirt tracks and had been nicknamed "Little David" for his ability to upset some of the better-known drivers. He hadn't earned nearly enough, however, to buy that car, so friends decided to organize a fan club for him. A policeman friend went on a local radio station to announce formation of the club and to ask listeners to send in money. The dollars poured in, and Pearson was off to the big-time races. Following his first year in Grand National racing, Pearson was named "Rookie of the Year" by the National Association of Stock Car Racing. He has become the second driver in history to win the 'triple crown' of his sport—the Daytona 500, the World 600 and the Southern 500, in one season. He beat Petty to win the Southern 500 in September, with the Democratic Presidential candidate and the Republican Vice-Presidential candidate looking on. Pearson went over the million-dollar mark in career earnings a few years ago and earned $179,000 in prize money last year. At 41, he is an "old man" as athletes go and earned the nickname of "Gray Fox" when he became a grandfather. He has shown, however, that he has both the skill and the physical conditioning to keep going at top speed in his sport. When Pearson hit a slump in 1971, some of the "experts" decided he was over the hill. "Everybody kept asking me if I was going to retire, and their attitude bothered me," he says. "Instead of encouraging me to quit, the questions gave me the incentive to prove there was still plenty of racing life left in me." MONEY DOES A DIMINISHED PURSE DIMINISH YOUR EGO?

Most husbands and wives are aware that there is a subconscious link between money and sexuality. For instance, a person who finds it hard to express affection in words or caresses may compensate by giving material gifts. Or a person who feels deprived of sex by his or her partner often seeks "revenge" by going on spending binges. But what many people do not fully realize is the connection between money and sexual drive or interest. For example, a young woman wed to a freelance artist tells how his professional success affects his sexual behavior: "If he sells a painting or wins critical praise, he gets all charged up romantically. When things go poorly and he is not earning much money, he shows virtually no sexual desire." One reason for this, marriage counselors say, is that too many husbands subconsciously equate their masculinity with their power to provide well for their families. According to William A. Bell, an executive with Seattle's Family and Child Service agency, "Some men get so depressed about financial failures that they can become impotent as a result. Symbolically, they no longer consider themselves 'real men.'" Similarly—but to a lesser degree—some women feel a sense of personal sexual inadequacy if they can't stay within their household budget. "I know many wives have the same financial problems I do," said one woman, "but somehow I feel I ought to be able to manage better." Couples subconsciously let money troubles cause sexual hang-ups. This link between sex and money is not pathological unless it is deliberately used to punish or manipulate the other person.

country music fans to a wider audience.

Thanks to Nelson, Austin, Texas, has established itself as another of the nation's music capitals. New York, Los Angeles and Nashville may be centers of the recording industry, but Austin boasts perhaps more "live" sound than any of them. Nelson left Nashville for Austin four years ago specifically to perform: "I was a success as a songwriter, but I wanted a live audience," he says. "Live audiences are where I get my thrill."

Another facet of the Nelson career that has focused a national spotlight on him is the July 4 songfest—picnic he hosts each year for more than 100,000 people in Gonzales, Texas. "I've always been big for picnics and for a place where folks could hear live music. I just combined the two. Picnics bring folks together. We've drifted too far from family roots, and I want to contribute at least a little toward getting families back together."

"When you look out over the crowd, you see all kinds of folks, from infants to oldsters. They eat, they listen, they have a good time. It feels good to be a part of people who are being happy. That's the way the Lord meant us to be."

What's ahead for Willie Nelson? He may convert an old ranch outside of Austin into a recording studio. "But I'd hate to see the business end of things come in too strong here," he says. "I just like to sit and pick that guitar and have a good time. You see," he says with a gentle smile, "I'm still me. A little more hurried sometimes, but still me."

MARRY NOW, PAY LATER?

In this mad, mad world, marriages on our continent are breaking up at a frightening rate. One analyst states that out of every ten marriages in the U.S. today, four will end in divorce. No need here to get into a religious debate on divorce. We are all agreed that it is at very least a human tragedy. Even when the separated put on a brave front, there remains a certain anguish over "what might have been."

Getting married is not like buying a car. One can get rid of one car and get another without suffering any soul scars. Not so when one leaves one spouse and goes it alone or takes up with another. Often too, there are children whose suffering at the separation of their parents can affect their whole lives.

Surely, if we have any feeling for the good of society and the happiness of individuals, we ought to do what we can to prevent unwise and premature marriages, and to help prepare those who are planning to marry. As a step in this direction, we are pleased to offer a new pamphlet: "Are You Fit to be Tied?" It has a light touch but a serious message in easy language. Write for your free copy today. No one will call on you.

How does actor George C. Scott react to 17-year-old daughter Devin's decision to follow in his footsteps? "He hates it!" Devin exclaims. "For personal reasons, he has come to feel that acting can hurt a person emotionally, and he doesn't want to see that happen to me. At this point, he is reconciled to my decision, but he is adamant that I will have to pursue the career on my own." Devin, whose first name was bestowed by mother and grandmother after Devonshire, England, and Devon Violet soap, is quick to assert that she has a mind of her own. "At boarding school, I changed my name to CIA just for fun. My mother would call up and ask for Devin, and the others would say, 'No one by that name lives here.' Finally she assented to calling me CIA, but I think it was a bigger identity crisis for her than for me." Does Devin model her acting style after her father? "My father unintentionally taught me a lot about the business. When my brother and I were small, we would act out Shakespearean plays together, and he would explain the roles to us or read to us from them, much as other children would listen to fairy tales. But I would never be presumptuous enough to imitate his or anyone's style. After all, they got where they intended with their own style, and I would consider it unfair for me to get there also just by imitation." Quite characteristically, Devin also feels free to comment on her father as an actor. "If I have to name four top actors or actresses, I would have to rank Laurence Olivier, Katharine Hepburn, Robert DeNiro and Michael Moriarty at the very top. My father would not fall very high on the list, not because I think he's a bad actor—I don't—but because there are others a lot better. I never go to a movie and say, 'That's my daddy-up there.' Rather, I see him in the same light as any other actor." Devin is co-starring in "The Tony Randall Show" on ABC-TV.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

"Nursery" I find confusing,
One word that has two ways of using.

One is for raising plants in pots,
The other is for raising tots.
One is as quiet as can be—
No screaming from a plant or tree.

The other is all full of noises
Of busy little girls and boyses.
At one I shop, but may not buy
If nothing's pleasing to my eye.
The other's where I pick up

No shopping, he is mine already.

"Why don't you play golf with your friend George any more?" Sam's wife asked him one afternoon.

"Well," Sam replied, "would you play with someone who put down the wrong score, moved his ball when he thought you weren't looking and made loud noises when you tried to putt?"

"No, I wouldn't," Sam's wife admitted.

Sam shrugged. "Neither will George," he said.

How does actor George C. Scott react to 17-year-old daughter Devin's decision to follow in his footsteps? "He hates it!" Devin exclaims. "For personal reasons, he has come to feel that acting can hurt a person emotionally, and he doesn't want to see that happen to me. At this point, he is reconciled to my decision, but he is adamant that I will have to pursue the career on my own." Devin, whose first name was bestowed by mother and grandmother after Devonshire, England, and Devon Violet soap, is quick to assert that she has a mind of her own. "At boarding school, I changed my name to CIA just for fun. My mother would call up and ask for Devin, and the others would say, 'No one by that name lives here.' Finally she assented to calling me CIA, but I think it was a bigger identity crisis for her than for me." Does Devin model her acting style after her father? "My father unintentionally taught me a lot about the business. When my brother and I were small, we would act out Shakespearean plays together, and he would explain the roles to us or read to us from them, much as other children would listen to fairy tales. But I would never be presumptuous enough to imitate his or anyone's style. After all, they got where they intended with their own style, and I would consider it unfair for me to get there also just by imitation." Quite characteristically, Devin also feels free to comment on her father as an actor. "If I have to name four top actors or actresses, I would have to rank Laurence Olivier, Katharine Hepburn, Robert DeNiro and Michael Moriarty at the very top. My father would not fall very high on the list, not because I think he's a bad actor—I don't—but because there are others a lot better. I never go to a movie and say, 'That's my daddy up there.' Rather, I see him in the same light as any other actor." Devin is co-starring in "The Tony Randall Show" on ABC-TV.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

"Nursery" I find confusing.
One word that has two ways of using.
One is for raising plants in pots,
The other is for raising tots.
One is as quiet as can be—
No screaming from a plant or tree.
The other is all full of noises
Of busy little girls and boyes.
At one I shop, but may not buy
If nothing's pleasing to my eye.
The other's where I pick up Eddie:
No shopping, he is mine already.

I try to treat my kids like mature, responsible, grown-up people. And more often than not, it works. Particularly with the 29-year-old.
—Robert Orben

"Why don't you play golf with your friend George any more?" Sam's wife asked him one afternoon.

"Well," Sam replied, "would you play with someone who put down the wrong score, moved his ball when he thought you weren't looking and made loud noises when you tried to putt?"

"No, I wouldn't," Sam's wife admitted.

Sam shrugged. "Neither will George," he said.

Our 4-year-old daughter was taking it all in on her first airplane trip. We were flying above the clouds, and she looked out the window in wonderment and exclaimed, "It sure is deep out there."

It's here! It's available right now from Mutual of Omaha—the protection against catastrophic medical bills that so many people have been asking for—up to

MAJOR MEDICAL COVERAGE

at a cost most families can afford. Covers you both IN and OUT of the hospital.

THE PLAN THAT CAN ADD NEEDED HEALTH INSURANCE DOLLARS TO YOUR BASIC COVERAGE.

You hear it everywhere. There ought to be protection available for the big bills — the bills caused by catastrophic illness. Well, that protection is available right now from Mutual of Omaha — up to $250,000.00 for each member of the family. It's a lot of protection, but it's necessary protection because today's and tomorrow's medical care costs are so high and going higher.

Yet it is reasonable in cost because it needn't duplicate your basic hospital-surgical-medical plans. They are splendid for ordinary bills. This is for extraordinary bills — the catastrophe you never plan on meeting, but that nevertheless can come to any of us with appalling consequences.

This can be the RIGHT protection for you ... IF you have basic protection now. (If not, Mutual of Omaha can provide that, too.) But it will only be right for you if you understand everything about when this policy protects you — when your basic plan protects you — all the details that you must have clearly in mind. We will give you all these details if you mail the postage free reply card now. No obligation. Find out exactly what protection you now have — how much of the bills you can face today your basic plan will cover — how much this new Major Medical plan will cover.

You deserve to know all the facts about the coverage available in your state, and Mutual of Omaha will provide them as a personal service.

WILL YOUR HEALTH INSURANCE PAY WHEN YOU DON'T GO TO THE HOSPITAL?

If your health insurance covers hospital bills only — if it doesn't cover sickness at home — it can leave an awful lot of bills unpaid. Our figures show you're seven times more likely to be laid up at home than in the hospital.
